PETERSEN TO REMARRY HIS FORMER WIFE

Deposed Chief of Oakland Police Force, Reconciled to Spouse He Divorced in 1920; Wedding Set Monday

Important Position Is Given Ex-Official and Squabble of Long Standing in City City Hall May Be Dropped

Captain Walter J. Petersen, former chief of police and captain of detectives of the Oakland police department, will be married for the second time to his former wife, Mrs. Florence Petersen, whom he divorced March 12, 1920. The license was issued this afternoon and the wedding will be solemnized at the old Petersen home, 428 Athol avenue, next Monday.

Divorce action, charging simple desertion, was instituted against his wife by Captain Petersen on February 12, 1920. The divorce was granted less than a month later by Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco of the extra sessions court. Domestic troubles of the two became known in 1916 when Mrs. Petersen filed divorce proceedings. Before the suit went to trial Mrs. Petersen was prevailed upon by friends to withdraw the action.

NEW JOB FOR FORMER CHIEF.

With the news of the coming marriage there is made an announcement that Petersen has been appointed general manager of the service bureau of the American Shipowners' Association of San Francisco. The bureau, a new institution, will deal with the entire personnel of all coastwise and a great deal of the offshore shipping of the Pacific Coast.

Offices will be established in San Francisco, where Petersen's headquarters will be. Other branch offices will be in Seattle, San Pedro, San Diego, Portland, Astoria, Los Angeles and other Pacific Coast cities.

The appointment comes at a time when the decision of the Civil Service Board concerning the twenty-nine charges against Captain Petersen and the possible rehearing of the entire case is imminent.

MAY NOW RETIRE FROM DEPARTMENT.

For almost two years Captain Petersen has been the leading figure in a spirited fight before the Civil Service Board for reinstatement to the rating of Captain of Detectives, from which position he was deposed by former Commissioner of Police F. F. Morse. Petersen's fight was waged to clear his name of the charges preferred by Morse, he said at the conclusion of the hearing.

With his new appointment which carries a salary of $500, exceeding by a large margin that of the Chief of Police or Captain of Detectives, it is expected that the former police officer and soldier will retire voluntarily from the department to pursue his duties in civil life, should the Morse charges be dropped and he be reinstated.

GIVEN WIDE SCOPE IN NEW OFFICE.

Under Petersen's direction, with the authority placed in his hands by the association, every marine worker shipping out on coast-wise and trans-Pacific ships, will have to be hired through his office. In addition the new general manager will continue in his present capacity as manager of the Waterfront Federation.

During the world war Captain Petersen, after obtaining a leave of absence as chief of police, was commissioned a captain in the field artillery and was assigned as commander of E battery of the 143d regiment of Field Artillery, National Guard. The unit was organized early in 1917. Upon his arrival in France Captain Petersen was appointed chief of police of Brest and later elevated to the position of chief of the department of criminal investigation of the American expeditionary forces.

There are three sons, Ulric, aged 35; Cedric, aged 29, a practicing attorney, and Roderick Paul, aged 14 years.

De Valera Reply To Lloyd George Is Unfavorable

English Peace Advocates, But Negotiations Will Be Continued.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LONDON, July 27.—A communication has been received at the official residence of Prime Minister Lloyd George in Downing street from Eamon de Valera, the Irish Republican leader, says the Central News.

It is not a final answer and is considered less favorable than had been anticipated, the Central News declares, but the negotiations will continue.

BY UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LONDON, July 27.—"President" de Valera has called Irish Republican army leaders and his chief supporters to a conference in Dublin on the British peace proposals, it was learned authoritatively today.

The conference was regarded as a favorable sign here, indicating that sufficient approval has been obtained to warrant extending the circle of those to whom the terms have been submitted.

It was believed that those Dail Eireann members who are at large already have met to consider the British offer and to pass on them more or less formally.

Opposition is known to have developed, but there was a growing belief that de Valera will be able to overcome it, at least to the extent of obtaining approval of counter suggestions.

Movie Blonde's Name Linked With Dempsey

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—"There is no truth to the report. And if you want ot make it stronger say it is 'the bunk,'" said Jack Dempsey in making a denial today of a report from the East that the champion heavyweight had been married secretly to Miss Sylvia Jocelyn of Los Angeles. The story, which was supposed to have originated in New England, was to the effect that the couple had been married at some place in the Middlewest.

It was reported in motion picture circles here today that Teddy Hayes, Dempsey's secretary, is engaged to Miss Florence Lee, a film actress, considered "one of the most beautiful blondes in pictures."

It was understood the marriage is to take place this fall.

Landlords Ask $2 To Show Apartments

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

TORONTO, July 27.—Some landlords here are asking prospective tenants $2 for the privilege of looking at apartments.

"I charge you $2 to look at the place," said the landlord. It has nothing to do with the rent."

SPUD MURPHY JAIL BREAK IS PLANNED

Eleven Gangsters Arrested in Los Angeles, One of Whom Confesses a Conspiracy to Free Comrade From Prison

Series of Daring Robberies Had Been Planned to Aid Jail Break; Disclosure Is Made to Southern Officers

A well planned conspiracy to obtain the freedom of "Spud" Murphy by a sensational jail delivery at San Quentin, where he is serving fifty years' imprisonment for connection with the notorious "Howard street gangsters" of San Francisco, was nipped in the bud with the arrest in Los Angeles of fourteen men in the past twenty-four hours, according to announcement today by the police department there.

The high lights of the startling disclosures follow:

That three men went to Los Angeles from San Francisco and organized a gang there to get funds with which to release Murphy.

That the gang planned to hold up a bank messenger at noon today and get $6000 which the messenger carried.

That following this robbery, the general offices of a taxicab concern on South Figueroa street, Los Angeles, were to be held up.

DISCLOSURE MADE TO L. A. POLICE.

The disclosures were made today by Detective Sergeants Joe Ritch, "Rube" Harris, George Smith and R. S. Hamilton and State Officer Peoples, who participated in a spectacular round-up of the alleged gang members in the Los Angeles downtown district.

One of the prisoners, an ex-convict, said by the police to be a "two time loser," has confessed and revealed the entire plot of the San Francisco men. He is said to have revealed all details of the scheme to finance the San Quentin delivery with money stolen in Los Angeles.

Those now held in the Los Angeles jail, following the roundup, are:

Charles Quinn, 20, Newsboy.
David O'Connell, 24, sailor.
E. August, 22, merchant.
A. Jones, 21.
Ernest Edwards, 21, baker.
Frank Elsiada, 24, newsboy.
Guy O. Bates, 18.
Philip Lenhox, 29, chauffeur.
Charles H. Kelly, 28, mechanician.
Fred G. Blooman, 23, musician.
George E. Carr, 21, sailor.
Tom F. Seeger, 21.
Sam Huer.
John Doe, who confessed the entire plot.

According to "John Doe's" story, three of the men whose names are also being guarded were also members of the Howard-street gang, some of which are now serving prison terms for mistreating a number of young girls in a shuttered shack.

SAN FRANCISCO POLICE NOT ADVISED.

Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson of San Francisco had heard nothing of the arrest of the gang in Los Angeles, he said this noon. He said he had heard nothing of any effort to liberate the five San Francisco gangsters, nor did he know of the alleged confession made to the Los Angeles police.

Attorney William S. Herron, counsel for Thomas Brad, and James Carey, and also an attorney of record in the "Spud" Murphy case, called attention to the fact that only two of the five gangsters could be liberated if bail was furnished.

"K. O. Kruvosky, Allan McDonald and Spud Murphy are in San Quentin serving their time," said Herron. "They could not get their release on bail. I managed, after much effort, to obtain a reduction in the bail of Carey and Brady from more than $100,000 to $15,000, but we have no hope of raising that amount. I had heard nothing of a plot to free these men."

An appeal to Governor William D. Stephens for a pardon for Murphy will be asked soon, according to an announcement by Attorney Herron today in Presiding Judge Shortall's court.

Herron and Attorney Ernest Spagnoli were before the court in connection with the so-called Howard street gangster cases. The first motion was to transfer the cases from Judge Ward's court to another department on the ground that the calendar was too clogged to allow for speedy proceedings. This was denied, as was also a plea to have Murphy brought from San Quentin to plead to remaining charges against him. The third motion asked the dismissal of one of the indictments on the ground that it had been returned as a result of perjured testimony. The court postponed consideration of this for two weeks. The pardon plea, Herron said, would be based on the ground that Jessie Montgomery and Jean Stanley had given alleged perjured testimony against the defendants.

PRISON OFFICIALS READY FOR THEM.

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, July 27.—(United Press.)—San Quentin authorities evidenced great interest but did not seem much worried today when they learned of the alleged plot in Los Angeles for the release from prison of Ed (Spud) Murphy.

"Well, that's interesting," was the comment from the warden's office. "Tell the gang to come on—we'll be ready to give them a hearty welcome if they want to start any jail deliveries."

Murphy is busily engaged making grain bags in the jute mill at the prison, at present.

President of Purdue Dies To Save Wife

BANFF, Alberta, July 27.—Alpine guides today have added a new story of heroism and hardship to the annals of the Canadian Rockies—an episode that cost the life of Dr. W. E. Stone, president of Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind., and may result fatally to Mrs. Stone. Although only meager details of the tragedy have been received here it is evident that Dr. Stone gave his life in an effort to rescue his wife.

The body of Dr. Stone was found at the foot of a deep crevice far up the slopes of Mount Eanon on Sunday by guides who had been searching since July 17. Mrs. Stone, unconscious and badly injured, was found in another crevice nearby.

The guides brought Mrs. Stone to a temporary hospital at Mount Assiniboine, south of Banff. Doctors and nurses have been rushed to attend her. Chances for her recovery, it was said today, are good.

Dr. and Mrs. Stone, both experienced mountaineers, left Camp Assiniboine on July 17, provisioned for four days and with the intention of scaling Mount Eanon, "the Matterhorn of the Rockies." When no word came from them after several days searching parties were sent out.

According to first reports here Mrs. Stone lost her footing on a steep slope and fell into a crevice. Her cries attracted Dr. Stone, who was some distance away and had not seen the fall. He attempted to pull her to the surface by means of a rope, but failed. He then lowered himself into the crevice and attempted to carry his wife to the surface. In this attempt, it is said Dr. Stone lost his footing, fell into an even deeper crevice and was instantly killed. Mrs. Stone tumbled back into the first and shallower crevice and lay there until the guides found her.

The body of Dr. Stone was found Sunday. It took nearly an entire day to remove it from the crevice and guides from Camp Assiniboine did not return here with the news until late last night.

Mrs. Stone struggled to retain her reason today after harrowing experiences that would have killed a less hardy character.

"She may recover from her physical injuries, but she never will recover from her mental torture," Dr. W. C. Bell, a Winnipeg physician, who reached Mrs. Stone two hours after she was found, stated.

Two Are Killed In Gas Blast at Shell Oil Plant

Explosion Occurs While Men Are Doing Repairs On Big Trumbull Still.

MARTINEZ, July 27.—Two men were killed outright this morning by a backfire of gases from the huge still of the Shell Oil company, near this city, in front of which they were working. No fire followed the blast and no other employes were injured.

The dead:

WILLIAM NICHOLSON, aged 40.
THOMAS TARANTINO, aged 30.

The two men were working on the still with an acetylene torch prior to starting the big retort working. The flame from the torch ignited gases remaining in the still and a blast resulted.

It caught both men squarely before the entrance to the still and death was instantaneous.

Tarantino's body was burned beyond recognition. He leaves a widow and three children, who are visiting in San Jose, where efforts are being made to locate them by company officers.

Nicholson leaves a widow, Mrs. Mabel Nicholson, and one child. Both families live in Martinez.

BUILDER OF CEN. PACIFIC R. R. IS DEAD

J. H. Strobridge, Who Drove Utility Spike Near Ogden in May, 1869, Opening Big Railway East, Passes At 95

Was Construction Chief On Thousands of Miles Built by Famous 'Big Four;' Also Builder of Oakland Mole

J. H. Strobridge, the man who drove the last utility spike on the Central Pacific at Corinne near Ogden, in 1869—officially tying the knot in transportation reaching from coast to coast—and permanently linking the east with the west, died early today at his home in Hayward. He was 95 years old.

Strobridge was known throughout the world as an engineer and a builder of railroads and empires and his career was one of historical romance.

Besides a maker of railroads, he had been a farmer, a miner, a rancher, a hotel man and a canal builder.

His death occurred suddenly today at 9 a. m. at his home in Castro Valley. He had been in apparent good health and his end, which resulted from old age, marks the culmination of a life well spent. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Strobridge; two sons, E. K. Strobridge, state sealer of weights and measures and a former state senator; B. A. Strobridge of San Leandro, and two daughters, Mrs. Frank C. Winton and Miss Carrie Strobridge of Hayward.

In late years the builder of railroads retired from the active cares of life, enjoyed relaxation in his pleasant and comfortable home in Alameda county. The representative of an old New England family, he was born April 23, 1827, in Albany, Vermont, in which state his father, Phidrus Strobridge, was also born. Up until the time he was 16 years old Strobridge remained upon his father's farm and attended public schools.

BEGINS RAILWAY CAREER AS TRACK-LAYER.

He then became dependent upon his own resources, and going to Boston, Mass., he secured employment on the Boston & Fitchburg Railway in laying track, after which he was engaged on the Vermont Central at Northfield, acting in the capacity of foreman during the construction of that line. Returning to Massachusetts, he worked on the Worcester and Nashua as foreman of the grading and construction, and after the completion of that contract went to Connecticut, where he had a two-mile contract on the Naughtuck railway.

In January, 1849, he sailed on the ship Orpheus from New York City bound for California by way of Cape Horn, and arrived in San Francisco July 8. He went at once to Sacramento, his first employment being to cut hay along the Sacramento river, where he conducted a hay yard until the summer of 1850. He then engaged with E. M. Pitcher in teaming to the mines. In the fall of the same year, however, finding profit in mining at Placerville and Coon Hollow. In 1851, in partnership with Pitcher, he located on the Rancho Del Paso, on Dry Creek, raising grain and conducting a hotel for several years.

DROVE LAST SPIKE AT UTAH CEREMONY.

Strobridge then went to Dutch Flat and engaged as foreman on the Placer county canal, four years being consumed in the construction of that project, after which, in the fall of 1863, he worked on the San Francisco & San Jose railroad, taking out Bernal Heights, the largest excavation that had been made in the state up to that time. In the winter of 1864 he went to work on the Central Pacific railway and also worked for Charles Crocker & Co. in grading and laying track a distance of fifteen miles out of Sacramento. He then went to Newcastle and took charge of the construction of the road that Huntington, Hopkins, Stanford, and Crocker were driving east to connect with the Union Pacific, and remained until it was completed. It was Strobridge personally who drove the final spike at the historic ceremony in Utah in May, 1869. He then came to Hayward to build the Southern Pacific from Niles to Oakland, a distance of thirty miles, after which he built the railway by contract from Marysville to Sesner, a distance of seventy miles.

He then contracted and built twenty miles of railway from Gilroy to Tres Pinos, then from Gilroy to Pajaro, Monterey county, a distance of twenty miles; from Lathrop to Tipton, 150 miles in the San Joaquin valley. In the meantime he had purchased his ranch of 500 acres in the neighborhood of Hayward and for about three years following his last contract he made his home in that location.

IS FIRST PRESIDENT OF "P. I." COMPANY.

He became its president and remained in that position for twelve years. Upon assuming that office, he began personal supervision of the building of Southern Pacific railroad across Arizona and New Mexico, into Texas as far as Devil's river, a distance of about 1000 miles. This work occupied his attention for about five years, and on his return he stopped at Mojave and built the railroad to the Needles on the Colorado river, a distance of 250 miles. He then took up the construction of the California and Oregon railway and built that road over the Siskiyou mountains from Redding to Ashland, Ore.

From Tracy he built south on the west side of the San Joaquin river, a distance of about 200 miles, and was also largely engaged in Los

Auto Thief Shot Thirteen Times by Pursuing Police

Girl Companion Escapes Injury From Fusillade of Bullets.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Intercepted by the shotgun squad of the police department in a stolen automobile with a woman companion, Edward McDonald, 22 years old, suspected motor car bandit, was shot thirteen times by detectives at an early hour this morning and is in a serious state at the Central Emergency Hospital.

With him in the exciting chase during which he endeavored in vain to outwit the pursuing police officers, was Miss Mary McHale, pretty 28-year-old stenographer, employed by George L. Vert & Co., 200 Drum street. She lives at the Girls Club, Fell street and Van Ness avenue. Although the fugitive car in which McDonald and Miss McHale were riding was riddled with bullets, the young woman escaped injury.

The machine was stolen Monday from in front of the Standard Oil company's offices at Bush and Montgomery streets, and it was its identification by the officers that led to the pursuit and the shooting.

Detectives Phillip Lindecker and Michael Mitchell of the upper office were in their automobile on Eleventh street, near Mission, when they saw the stolen car going east on Mission. They slowed up to let it go by and immediately identified the license plate. Speeding up they drew almost alongside and called upon the driver to halt.

Instead of doing so he used the accelerator and shot ahead. Crying that they were detectives, the police endeavored to crowd the machine to the curb but were unsuccessful. Lindecker then fired a shot in the air and the only effect was for the fugitive to increase his speed.

Finally Mitchell took his gun, loaded with buck shot, and emptied it at the same time Lindecker, at the wheel, gave the police automobile her full speed and crowded the quarry once more to the curb. This time the fugitive machine gradually stopped and the officers, their pistols leveled, jumped out. They found McDonald wounded and bleeding profusely. His companion was dazed but unhurt. Both were hurried to the Central Emergency hospital.

An examination disclosed that McDonald had thirteen wounds in the left side of the face, shoulder and upper portion of the body. He is conscious but his condition is extremely grave.

An examination of McDonald's room at the Hotel Avalon, 2727 Market street, revealed two automobile keys and a holster. The police received a description of an alleged accomplice of his known as "Slim" and are now looking for him.

At daybreak, J. Millet, proprietor of the Atlanta hotel, Seventh and Mission streets, came upon a revolver containing four cartridges, which had been thrown on the pavement near the point where the police finally cornered McDonald. It is believed to be his gun.

Miss McHale made a statement to the police later today in which she denied that she knew that the automobile in which she was riding had been stolen or that McDonald was other than a hard-working waiter. She insisted that she was very much in love with him and was going to marry him.

Miss McHale is an exceedingly attractive girl and is well known to the police. She is a ward of the juvenile detention home and it is said they had been looking for her for some time. After her statement was taken she was removed to the Detention Home by Police Woman Sullivan.

Tokyo Will File Protest Against Turlock Mob Acts

Japanese Reverse Announced Policy; Say Rights of Orientals Infringed.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

TOKYO, July 27. — The Nichi Nichi says today that the cabinet has decided the government should send a protest to the United States government against the deportation of Japanese workers from the harvest fields in Turlock, Cal.

The foreign office, when inquiries were made there, said it had no information concerning the reported decision of the government.

The ground on which the protest would be based, according to the Nichi Nichi, was that the deportation constituted an encroachment of the rights of the Japanese, who were living in obedience to the laws of the United States.

The foreign office announced on Monday last that it would take no action in connection with the Turlock incident beyond requesting an investigation of it, a Tokyo despatch stated, since it was regarded as a local affair.

STRING TIED TO NIPPON'S ACCEPTANCE

Japan Agrees to Participate in Harding Conference On Condition That Agenda Is Decided Upon in Advance

Note From Tokyo Is Received in Washington and Contents Made Public by Hughes; Far Eastern Problems Cited

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(By Associated Press)—Secretary Hughes announced today acceptance by Japan of proposals for a Far Eastern conference in connection with the disarmament discussions suggested by president Harding.

The Japanese acceptance is based on the understanding that the United States is not opposed to an agreement as to the agenda of the Far Eastern conference before it convenes.

PACIFIC COAST CITY URGED BY PREMIERS.

LONDON, July 27.—Ambassador Geddes may be assigned the task of conferring with Washington officials to determine where the Pacific and Far Eastern affairs conference shall be held, it was learned here today.

British dominion premiers in session here have drafted a note suggesting preliminary conferences in some American Pacific coast city.

By DUKE N. PARRY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

TOKYO, July 27.—Japan's note of acceptance to President Harding's disarmament conference invitation, which was handed to the American embassy late last night, does not demand that a preliminary conference be held, it was learned here today.

The communication sets forth that in Japan's opinion the next step to be taken in preparation for the forthcoming conference should be an exchange of views between Washington, Tokyo, London and other nations invited.

The purpose of this suggested preliminary exchange of views would be to develop information as to the subjects to be brought up at the conference.

It was further learned that Japan expressed no choice as to a date for the proposed disarmament conference but expressed her willingness to accept the American suggestion that the parleys open on armistice day.

FREEDOM OF SEAS TO BE AN ISSUE.

Freedom of the seas will be one of the issues, brought before the Washington disarmament and Far Eastern conference, if the ideas of the imperial navy department predominate in the Japanese delegation, according to the Asahi today.

With the despatch of Japan's formal acceptance to Washington, government departments are at work preparing data and suggestions for the use of the Japanese delegates to the conference.

The Asahi states that the navy department, in its draft of suggestions, in addition to advocating "freedom of the seas," plainly says that alarm is felt here as a result of the fortification by the United States of Pacific bases.

This paper adds that this alarm is heightened by the fortification work being carried on, especially at Oahu, Hawaii, and Guam, by the United States.

FOCH SUGGESTED AS FRENCH DELEGATE.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Marshal Foch may head France's delegation to the Washington disarmament conference, it was intimated here today by the French ambassador just before sailing for home.

M. Jusserand disclaimed any official knowledge of who would head the delegation but he characterized Marshal Foch as "the best informed man in the world on disarmament."

Serge Markaroff, one of the leaders of the revolution of 1906, and now an exile in Paris, made the prediction in an interview with the United Press.

"I am anything but an admirer of German ideals," Markaroff declared, "but I can see that the natural trend of events will bring Germany to the side of Russia and America, as a commercial and military ally."

The pool, six feet wide, fourteen feet long and five feet deep, was built by firemen for children, but the grownups lost no time in trying it out with the firemen's permission after the kiddies left at 9 p. m.

Costumes ranged all the way from regular bathing suits to whatever some of the bathers happened to have had on when they sighted the pool.

U. S. CALLS FOR RELEASE OF MEN HELD BY SOVIET

Secretary of State Hughes Makes Demand Upon Bolsheviki.

RIGA, Letvia, July 27.—(By Associated Press).—An official demand by Secretary of State Hughes for the release of the American prisoners in Russia was handed by Consul Albrecht to Leonid Stark, the Bolshevik minister here, last night.

More than a score of Americans still are being held prisoners in Soviet Russia, according to the latest received by the State Department in Washington from that country. Principal among them are Mrs. Marguerite E. Harrison of Baltimore, a newspaper correspondent; Captain Emmet Kilpatrick of Uniontown, Pa., a Red Cross worker; Royal C. Keeley, an engineer, and Dr. Weston B. Estes, motion picture photographer.

The demand of Secretary Hughes reads:

DEMAND OF HUGHES.

"In the name of humanity the American government demands of the Soviet authorities that American prisoners be at once released. It manifestly is impossible for the American authorities to countenance measures for relief of the distress in Russia while our citizens are detained."

Maxim Gorky, it was learned today, has telegraphed to John Miller, the Riga representative of the American Relief administration, saying that the communication of Herbert Hoover, as head of the relief administration with regard to American relief for the ill and starving of Russia, may be answered in detail.

The release of the Americans held prisoners in Russia, was laid down by Secretary Hoover in his recent cable message to Gorky, as the prime condition upon which American relief measures for Russia would be taken up.

ATTITUDE OF THE U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 27. — What course will be taken by the United States, if the Soviet authorities ignore or refuse to accede to the demands for the release of American prisoners, was not indicated.

The despatch of the communication was timed so it would reach the Russians approximately simultaneously with the message sent by Secretary Hoover in response to the appeal made by Maxim Gorky. The State Department's message is regarded, officially, as wholly independent of the Hoover-Gorky correspondence.

1914 TAX RAISE NOT WARRANTED IN S. F. RULING

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Enactment by the legislature of the mothers' pension bill, the workmen's compensation and immigration and housing acts, coupled with the fact that San Francisco had not completely recovered in 1914 from the effects of the fire of 1906, did not constitute an emergency sufficient to warrant the city government raising the tax rate for 1914 beyond the $1 limit specified in the charter, the supreme court held.

Its decision is expected to affect several hundred thousand dollars paid under protest after the Board of Supervisors had passed an emergency ordinance raising the tax rate. The supreme court in today's case awarded E. W. Burr, executor of the estate of C. O. Burr, $462 in taxes.

Half Dozen Are Injured in Sailor Riot on Waterfront

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—A half dozen men were beaten and several threw themselves into the bay to escape from their assailants, when a riot broke out on Meggs wharf today. The disturbance followed the desertion of eleven members of the crew of the lumber schooner Frank D. Stout. As the men reached the dock they were set upon by strike sympathizers to the number of nearly fifty and there was a free-for-all fight. Several of those attacked jumped overboard, while others were beaten severely.

Three of those hurt were taken to the Harbor Emergency hospital. These were:

Andrew J. Duncan, fireman, 1353 Bush street; face and head beaten, deep lacerations and cuts, unconscious.

James Grugell, 57A Haight street; submersion, bruises.

Walter Holmroos, seaman; severe lacerations and bruises of the scalp.

The others hurt were not taken to the hospital for medical treatment.

According to the men, they left the boat because of alleged ill treatment on the part of one of the deck officers. There were eight seamen and three firemen in the party. They were walking from the wharf when the crowd of strike-sympathizers set upon them.

Grugell and two others jumped from the dock. Two of them succeeded in swimming to a landing below but Grugell was clinging to a pile when the harbor emergency ambulance arrived and was rescued by the crew. Police under Lieutenant Boland of the Central station arrived after the rioters had dispersed and found Duncan and Holmroos lying on the dock. No arrests were made.

The Frank D. Stout is owned by the California and Oregon Lumber company and had shipped a crew for a voyage north. The members of the crew were working on the American plan.

Lieutenant Boland obtained seven John Doe warrants for the arrest of the alleged ringleaders in the riot, who are said to be known to the police. It is expected that they will be taken into custody later in the day.

PLOT TO RELEASE GANGSTERS FROM PRISON EXPOSED

Eastern Men Rounded Up by Los Angeles Police, One of Whom Confesses.

glars and bandits the police today believe they have forestalled a series of robberies and other crimes which would have startled the West.

The thirteen men who were rounded up during the night were held incommunicado at the city jail today and one of them was reported to have made a full confession of the planned activities of an alleged well-organized gang here.

Members of the gang were said to have been planning a downtown holdup at noon today, in which it was expected a bank messenger would be robbed of a $6000 payroll.

After robbing the messenger it was the plan of the gang, it was said by the police, to hold up and rob the offices of the Yellow Taxicab Company.

Money obtained from the robberies was to have been used, according to the police, for an attempt to release from San Quentin penitentiary "Spud" Murphy, a member of the Howard street gang in San Francisco.

Murphy was one of the men sen- alleged to have been members of the bay city for an attack on girls following the lynching of three men, alleged to have beenmembers of the gang, at Santa Rosa.

An effort is being made by San Francisco gangsters, according to information in the hands of the Los Angeles police, to assist Murphy in leaving San Quentin prison.

Three of the thirteen men taken into custody are said by police to be notorious bandit suspects from San Francisco and two of them are said to have served time in San Quentin prison with "Little Phil" Alquin, the slayer of Detective-Sergeant John Fitzgerald of Los Angeles.

These men are believed to have been assisting Alquin in hiding from the police, who are searching for him on a warrant charging murder.

The men who were taken by the police in the roundup today gave the names of Charles Quinn, David O'C onnell, Sam Huer, E. August, A. Jones, Ernest Edwards, Frank Ellsalada, Guy O. Gates, Philips Lennox, Charles H. Kelley, Fred G. Bloomman, George E. Carr, Tom F. Seeger.

The German fleet returned the fire but no damage is reported on either side.

The German fleet which left Wilhemshaven a week ago to clear the White Sea of mines under the provisions of the Versailles treaty, has retired to Vardoe to await further developments, the despatch says.

Berkeley Garbage Collection to Start

BERKELEY, July 27.—Berkeley's municipal garbage collection service will start on Monday, according to an announcement today of Councilman Charles D. Heywood. Four motor trucks will be employed in the service.

Each truck is to be manned by three men and there will be seven men employed at the city incinerator, which has formerly been operated by private contract with the city. The supervision of the whole project will be in the hands of Sanitary Engineer Charles C. Newkirk.

According to Heywood, housewives will be charged the same rates as have been charged in the past by the private garbage collectors, who are now banned from Berkeley. Heywood says he expects the cost of operating the collection system can be reduced after it is in operation for a time, when the rates of collection will be correspondingly reduced.

"We can refuse to accept this resignation," said Assistant Superintendent M. C. James.

"What would you recommend?" asked President W. B. Herms.

"I'd say let him go if he wants to," answered the school head.

MAN WHO DROVE UTILITY SPIKE DIES AT HAYWARD

J. H. Strobridge Was Construction Chief on Central and S. P. Roads.

Angeles county. He also built the Oakland Mole for the Southern Pacific Company. While working on the Central Pacific, Strobridge had 14,000 men under his direction.

In 1890 Strobridge gave up the work which had occupied his attention for so many years and in which he met with such gratifying success, impelled to such a movement on account of his eyes, which were slowly but surely going back on him. On December 6, 1860, he married Maria Keating, a native of Ireland, whose death occurred in 1891. No children were born of this union, but they adopted and reared five. In 1892 he married Kate B. Moore of San Francisco, and she died in October, 1895. August 26, 1896, he married Margaret McLean, a native of Scotland, who came to the United States in 1894—his widow.

WAS QUIET WORKER FOR CIVIC PROGRESS.

In political convictions Strobridge was a staunch Republican, but never sought official recognition. However, he was active in the educational matters in his community, serving as a school trustee, and while a member of the board brought about several important changes, among them the increase of salary for teachers and the completion of a new school building that was erected in the seventies.

When Strobridge was creating new railways his lieutenants did not wait for a complete road, but sent gangs of men far in advance, sometimes forty miles, hauling with wagons all the materials as well as supplies for the men. Often the wagon roads had first to be cut through the forest. Camps were built and rebuilt in a vast solitude as the lines of attack moved on; even water had to be hauled 50 miles.

Winter came on—the Sierra winter with its ghostly whiteness and its phenomenal snowfalls. But to the world's amazement the work never stopped. In the tunnels the men worked securely; otherwise they toiled in the canyons where there was less snowfall and great fires with flaming tongues leaping skyward kept them from freezing. In the dead of winter, rails, machinery, cars, even locomotives, in pieces, were dragged hundreds of miles on wagons, traversing roads heavy and badly made, threatened with imminent disaster from the snowslides and the storms.

HUMAN LIFE CHEAP BUT ROADS WERE BUILT.

Human life was cheap. Men froze or slipped down the steep canyons to their death, but others quickly filled up the ranks and the work went on like a machine—efficient, exacting and relentless.

More than one squad of a foremen saw as they clung to the hillside, above them the white mountain heads, 300 feet below them the gaping canyon partially filled with snow while they dug and blasted into the frozen earth. Then there would be a shout, a rumbling sound, that the watchers and workmen knew too well. The field of snow would rush down the mountain, snapping enormous trees like pipe stems, a great cloud of dust would arise with a sullen roar and, when the air was clear, peering down the canyon they would see wide spreading of tumbling snow on the white expanse and maybe a man's arm sinking or a pin axe, and the squad was gone.

In the spring when the snow melted they might find the bodies; or the freshet might carry them off to beat them to shreds on the boulders.

These were a few of the hardships that Strobridge and his men had to contend with. For months and months they battled against the relentless hatred of the wilderness for civilization, gradually taming the spirit of the wild and pushing modernism into the heart of North America's unsettled regions.

Then with brilliant ceremony was solemnized the marriage ceremony of the East and West, and Strobridge, because of his unwavering faith and service, was chosen to drive the spike into the last tie.

Health of Women

How many perfectly well women do you know? Isn't it true that in order to keep up with the march of progress the endurance of woman is often strained to its utmost, and the tax upon her physical system is in many cases greater than she can stand. Headaches develop, and nervous irritability, backache, dragging down sensations, and other painful ailments peculiar to women. The reliable remedy when a woman gets into such a condition is Lydia E. Dry Officials in Clash; Booze Flowing Into S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27. — The booze situation here grows more complicated day by day. Today there is open war between Supervising Prohibition Agent John Exnicios and United States Commissioner Thomas E. Hayden over the dismissal of the wine of pepsin cases against members of the Druggists' Wholesale Supply Company. There is further a statement by John O. Davis, collector of customs, who says that there is a flood of foreign liquor entering San Francisco which his office cannot stem. There is moreover a close watch being kept for the little motorcraft Lady Mine, which, sailing under the British flag, is thought to be engaged in illicit liquor traffic.

Besides these major developments, there were the usual number of arraignments, convictions, dismissal of cases and fines paid.

CASE STIRS TROUBLE.

The trouble between Hayden and Exnicios arises over a disagreement as to the time the druggists' supply company cases were to be heard. Hayden says they were fixed for 10 o'clock Monday morning and that Exnicios called a conference of prohibition agents in his office for the same time, thus keeping the government witnesses away from the court room.

As a result Hayden says there was no evidence and the cases were dismissed. Exnicios says that the men were told the cases were not to be heard until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, in a strong statement today he said:

"Everybody tells me a different story in this case. Lies, lies; nearly everyone lies—I can depend upon nobody to get at the truth of the matter. There is something decidedly rotten somewhere."

Hayden says that he did not formally dismiss the cases anyway until 2:30 in the afternoon. Exnicios says that he and his men arrived at the court room at 2:15 o'clock and that "it was all over when we arrived."

In the same connection with his "something rotten" charge, Exnicios demanded to know why United States Commissioner Francis Krull had reopened the case of the Flor d'Italia restaurant after he had held the defendant to answer.

"The Flor d'Italia has always had a reputation for being able to 'get by,'" Exnicios said.

Hayden is equally aroused over the cases. He said that the government witnesses who were under subpoena to appear and testify in the cases will be cited to show cause why they should not be adjudged guilty of contempt of court. He hinted that he believed Exnicios had called the conference of the agents to keep the witnesses away from court.

Collector of Customs Davis says that "whisky is flowing into this port like a tiday-wave. We can't cope with the situation for lack of men and Congress is to blame." Davis pointed out that $34,000 worth of liquor has been seized on the liners Mapama and Sonoma alone.

REAL LIQUOR COMING.

"How much we have missed on other liners we shall never know," said Davis. "The conditions are scandalous. The only comfort to be gotten out of it is the fact that the smugglers at least bring in real liquor, instead of leaving us to the mercies of the murderous bootleg manufactured in this country since the Volstead Act was passed."

The maritime authorities have been ordered to keep a watch on the Lady Mine on the theory that she is engaged in smuggling liquor by landing it at some of the uninhabited coves along the Northern California coast, from whence it is transported into port by fishermen's gasoline launches. This vessel is owned by Canadians and has formally cleared the port of Vancouver en route to Mexico.

The assistant United States attorney has filed informations with the District Court here setting forth alleged violations of prohibition law, charging, among others, Thomas Stenson, 1837 Seventh street, Oakland, and F. L. Fowler of Martinez.

Couple Fall 300 Feet Down Glacier

SALT LAKE CITY, July 27. — O. D. Richardson of Seattle and Mrs. Leonard Fish of Salt Lake City, his sister-in-law, are recovering from slight injuries and shock which they suffered when they plunged down a glacier on the Alta divide, in the Wasatch mountain range, 300 feet Sunday.

Richardson lost his footing in an endeavor to save Mrs. Fish when she started to slide down the glacier. The next moment he also slipped and joined his companion 300 feet below on a cleft of rocks. Both were knocked unconscious. They recovered several hours later and cried for help. Boy Scouts in the vicinity rendered assistance to the couple, who were numbed with cold. The aid of persons living at Brighton, several miles distant, was obtained, improvised stretchers were assembled and the couple were taken to Brighton and then brought here.

HARDING PLANS FOR CLEAN-UP OF WAR DEBRIS

Administration Maps Course for Return to Normal Conditions.

By RAYMOND CLAPPER.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 27. — The Harding administration has mapped its course for a return to normal conditions.

Developments today made clear for the first time the essential points in this course which Harding hopes to carry through with the aid of congress. It was understood that he sought this aid at a dinner given to senators at the White House last night. The course as laid out involves a cleaning up the "debris and left over" of the war. This includes the putting on a permanent basis of the allied debt to this country, the settlement of the government account with the railroads, the funding of $7,500,000,000 government obligations due in 1923 and the revision of revenune laws to wipe out war taxes.

Settlement of these matters will, in the opinion of the President, give the country a feeling of security and permanency which will serve as a starting point for industrial and commercial revival.

The foreign debt situation is in the hands of Secretary Mellon and the Senate. Harding has indicated to Senate leaders he desires early action.

Plans for the settlement of the railroad account with the government were explained in the presidential message yesterday.

Revision of the tax laws is proceeding in the House.

The next step will be to make clear to congress and the country what the administration proposed to do about the settlement of $500,000,000 of government obligations. Plans for taking care of these obligations through an issue of short time treasury notes and of exchanging them for bonds of foreign nations which this government hopes to receive in the debt settlement, will be discussed.

The fate of the soldier bonus, which President Harding urged the Senate to shelve, awaits the completion of the rest of the administration program, it is understood.

OBREGON PLAN TO SETTLE OIL DISPUTE FAILS

Effort to Adjust Differences With U. S. Blocked by Deputies.

MEXICO CITY, July 27.—The chamber of deputies has voted down a request by President Obregon that he be granted extraordinary powers to adjust Article 27 of the constitution, which nationalizes oil deposits. The senate almost simultaneously voted to accede to the request.

Yesterday morning President Obregon called a joint conference of the leaders in both houses and explained the necessity of immediate action on Article 27 as well as pleading for permission to proceed with its adjustment in a manner acceptable to the nation and its interests. His own party, the Liberal Constitutionalists, decided in a caucus to deny the president's request.

Article 27 has long been a stumbling block in the relations between Mexico and the United States, the latter government characterizing the section as confiscatory and against the principles of American rights and interests obtained in Mexico under proper laws.

The action of congress last night is viewed by political observers here as marking a definite split between President Obregon and his party.

Burglars' Loot Is Found by Police

Two thousand dollars' worth of additional loot, said to have been stolen by Clarence Jones, colored, who is charged with burglary in San Francisco, was recovered yesterday by Police Inspectors Tom Wood and Tom Gallagher.

Three rugs, which were stolen last May from the home of W. J. Griggs, 756 Calmo street, were among some of the stolen property recovered. Other property stolen include furs, jewelry, clothing and firearms.

Jones, according to the two inspectors, has over one hundred burglaries to his credit in this city. He also worked in San Francisco and other bay cities, it is said. Last week the two inspectors recovered loot which, it is alleged, was stolen by Jones, amounting to about $1500.

Bushrangers Were Bandits Tribune Bureau Explains

In order that Bushrangers may not become confused with Bush Leaguers, those ambitious hopefuls and would-bes of baseball, the Information Bureau hastens to reply to a TRIBUNE reader who desires to know what is meant by the term "Bushrangers."

The term Bushrangers was used in Australia to designate brigands or outlaws infesting the outlying settlements in Australia in other days. The period of their activity was during the first three-quarters of the nineteenth century. At first they were escaped convicts, who lived in the bush, maintaining themselves by preying upon isolated settlers. They roved in organized groups, numbering many men, but the drastic bushranging act of 1830, renewed some years later, did away with bushranging on a large scale. The Kelly brothers were the most notorious of these desperados.

Bushrangers are not to be confused with Bushmen, which are the true aboriginal people of South Central Africa.

The TRIBUNE Information Bureau will answer all questions of a general nature except school or legal problems, debates, trade and firm names and queries as to the time of day.

The bureau is open every day except Sunday, from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m.

If answers are desired by mail, stamps must be enclosed. Quickest results can be obtained by telephoning to the bureau. If you have any problems of a general nature to solve, ask The TRIBUNE Information Bureau, Lakeside 6000.

Pioneer Business Woman Is Buried

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Funeral services for Mrs. Annie T. Dunphy, founder of the California Ad. Sign Company and pioneer business woman on the Pacific Coast, were held this afternoon from a local chapel. Mrs. Dunphy's death followed an illness of several months. Dunphy, founder of the original advertising and bill posting business in this city, she took over the active management. Later she organized the California Ad Sign Company. Her efforts resulted in the consolidation of street car advertising. Under the firm name of Seiben, Green, Owens & Varney, she brought about a merger of various advertising interests. She retired from active business in 1906. The family home is at 1270 California street. Two sons and a sister survive. They are William F. and Paul A. Dunphy and Mrs. H. B. Reed.

Funeral services for Mrs. Harriet Hibbard, widow of the late David Hibbard, pioneer hotel man of Decoto, will be held tomorrow morning. Mrs. Hibbard was the mother of Mrs. F. C. Schoenstedt, at whose home in Monte Vista avenue she died suddenly yesterday; Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, Mrs. W. J. Reese and Ernest Hibbard.

Mrs. Hibbard came to California in a prairie schooner with her parents, Judge and Mrs. Fayette Mallard. The family settled near Stockton, where Mallard was prominent in the early history. Mrs. Hibbard was born in Iowa. She was 69 years old.

ECONOMY RATHER HIGHER TAXES IS HARDING'S POLICY

Sales Tax Opposed. Removal of Excess Profits Exaction. Increased Postal Rates.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Revision of the internal revenue law was the principal subject of yesterday's meeting of President Harding and his cabinet.

It became clear after the conference that the following program will be closely followed in shaping the administration's taxation policy:

1. Removal of the excess profits tax.
2. Reduction of surtax on higher incomes.
3. Increased first class postal rates, probably from 2 to 3 cents.
4. Reduction of taxation through strict governmental economy. It was strongly indicated at the White House that the proposed sales tax and production tax would not be included in the forthcoming tax revision legislation.

The views of congressional leaders, as imparted to members of the cabinet, are to the effect that sales or production taxes will not be necessary in order to raise revenue provided the administration's plan for economy in expenditures can be carried out successfully.

It was not indicated, however, that the sales tax may not be provided later to raise funds to pay the proposed soldier bonus. The movement to withhold the sales tax for this purpose is gaining momentum rapidly.

FEAR PRECEDENT.

It is the contention of the senators and representatives, as well as administration officials who favor the sales tax to provide for the soldier bonus, that the success of this tax would lead to its adoption for general taxation purposes.

The impending heavy deficit in the postoffice department, it was learned, probably will be responsible for an increase from 2 to 3 cents in first class postage. While this deficit is said to be caused largely by operation of the parcel post, it is felt that it would be unwise to increase parcel post rates. The deficit probably will be made up, therefore, by the 3-cent first class rate.

Quick action on the tax bill is expected in the House, President Harding having indicated that the Senate will receive the bill as early as August 6.

Republican leaders in the Senate and House planned to have Congress take a recess of three or four weeks, starting the middle of August.

In the formulation of the tax program, it was learned, consideration is to be given to the inclusion of a tax on automobiles.

OPPOSE SALES TAX.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Agreement among members of the House ways and means committee that in revision of revenue laws no provision will be made for a sales tax, was announced yesterday by Chairman Fordney at the opening of public hearings on the proposed measure.

H. C. McKendrie, tax representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, put into the record a statement that, in a referendum, members of his organization had voted $7,295 to 7221 against a sales tax, 78,256 to 9621 in favor of a constitutional amendment to prohibit the issuing of tax free securities and 83,475 to 6121 against repeal of the excess profits tax.

3 HURT IN EARLY S. F. AUTO CRASH

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Two women and one man were painfully injured in a collision early today on the Mission viaduct, the car alleged to be responsible for the crash, speeding away without rendering assistance. Those hurt were Mrs. L. Bloom, 1375 Ellis street, Miss Myrtle Goldstein 1566 Eddy street; Al Isenberg, Pacific States Hotel.

All suffered severe cuts and bruises of the body and were taken to the Central Emergency Hospital. Isenberg was driving the machine along the Mission boulevard. As they proceeded another car approached and Isenberg endeavored to turn out of the way. The other automobile swerved in the same direction. The Isenberg car scraped the wheels of the second machine and crashed into a telegraph pole breaking it off at the base and wrecking the car. All of the occupants were thrown out.

The second automobile evidently was not seriously damaged but the occupants did not wait to learn the havoc that had been wrought.

POLICEMAN DIES; THIRD VICTIM OF AUTO SMASH

Death Brings Total of Week-End Auto Fatalities Up to Six.

With the death early today of A. H. Nelson, a member of the Oakland police department, from injuries received when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a heavy truck driven by a Japanese on Monday morning, the total motor car fatalities for the last week-end jumped to six. His wife, who is at the Merritt hospital, recovering, is the only survivor of the accident. Mrs. Anno O. Neilson, of Alameda, who was riding in the same machine, was killed almost instantly and her husband, a fireman, died yesterday noon.

Funeral services for Neilsen and his wife will be conducted tomorrow night under the auspices of the Alameda lodge of Elks. The services will be in charge of E. C. Dick, chaplain of the lodge, and the regular ritual of the order will be used for the obsequies of both the dead member and his wife.

Neilsen is survived by four sisters, Mrs. A. Hews, Mrs. Frank Cooley, Mrs. Al Nelson and Mrs. Frank Spink, and two brothers, Victor and Paul Nielsen.

Miss Mary H. McLean, 65 years old, of 1423 Willard street, Alameda, was perhaps fatally injured last night when she was struck by an automobile at Willard street and Central avenue, Alameda, and the driver of the machine was arrested and is being held today on a charge of battery. She sustained a fractured skull. The driver of the car was Louis Malerstein, 1529 Second avenue.

War Worker Dies In Santa Barbara

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 27.—William Swift Dalliba, for many years director general in Europe for the American Express company, died last night at a hospital here. At the outbreak of the world war Dalliba was in Paris and became one of Ambassador Herrick's chief aides in assisting Americans to leave Europe for their homes. He has served as president of the American Chamber of Commerce and of the American Club in Paris.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at the family home in Montecito, a suburb.

Plan Is Foiled To Make Hanging Pink Tea Affair

CHICAGO, July 27.—Plans to make a pink tea affair out of a hanging bee were thwarted by Sheriff Peters today.

The sheriff stated he had turned down many society women and other prominent Chicagoans who asked him for an invitation to witness the hanging of Carl O. Wanderer, who killed his girl wife and a "ragged stranger" he hired to stage a fake holdup.

"Only the usual number of invitations will be issued," said the sheriff.

In Chicago, where there is a hanging or two every Friday morning, cards reading: "You are invited to the hanging of So-and-So at the county jail," etc., are issued.

"If people had their way, a hanging would be about as exclusive as the union depot," Peters said.

OIL IS FOUND AT ISOLATED VILLAGE

JUNEAU, Alaska, July 27.—Yakutat, a fishing village on the Gulf of Alaska, is peculiarly isolated, being bounded on one side by impassable mountains and on the other by a coast so rocky that in the stormy winter seasons boats can rarely land. Recently Charles W. Hawkesworth, superintendent of the Alaska bureau of education, arrived here with the first direct news of the town since last fall. He reported oil was the principal topic of discussion; seepage was found all along the outgoing coast.

Yakutat, although isolated, is not cut off from all communication with the world. A wireless station is maintained at the cannery. Hawkesworth related that the storekeeper at Yakutat got out a weekly newspaper, picking up bits of news of the world from the wireless. The journal was composed of long sheets of wrapping paper, the printing done with a typewriter. Subscribers were furnished with carbon copies.

The wireless is not used for outgoing messages except in case of emergency and the inaccessibility of the town makes the exchange of mail impracticable except during the five spring and summer months.

WOMAN ACQUITTED.

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—Mrs. Luela Belle McBride, charged with the murder of her stepfather, Charles D. Everts, was found not guilty last evening by a jury of six men and six women. Mrs. McBride claimed she shot Everts to save her honor and protect her home.

WARRANTS FOR ARREST OF SMALL GO TO SHERIFF

Governor in Chicago, But Service Will Probably Be Made At Springfield.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHISON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 27.—Three warrants for the arrest of Governor Len Small of Illinois were turned over today to Sheriff Henry Mester of Sanwamon county for immediate service. The "long arm" of the law by this action began to reach out for Illinois' chief executive. It also marked the opening shot by the state in its battle to compel the governor to submit to the jurisdiction of state criminal courts.

The twenty-four hours of "grace" allowed the governor for a "peaceful surrender" have expired, it was announced. The governor, last reported in Chicago, has announced his willingness to submit to arrest in that city but local authorities desire to arrest him in the state capital.

Sheriff Mester has replied to Governor Small's telegraphic offer to surrender in Chicago as follows:

"In reply to your telegram of last night, will say that it is unnecessary for Governor Small to go to the inconvenience or trouble of submitting himself to arrest in Chicago. He can advise me on his return this week and the process can be served here. Please wire day Governor Small will reach Springfield for this purpose.

"(Signed) HENRY MESTER,
"Sheriff."

The sheriff then announded he would take no action until he hears from the governor.

Asked whether force would be used if the governor refused to submit to arrest in Springfield, the sheriff declared he did not expect such action on the part of the chief executive.

"I believe the governor will return here late today or tomorrow," he said.

"The next move is now up to the governor. He can avoid all inconvenience by coming to Springfield and surrendering to the law," was the only comment made by State's Attorney Mortimer.

War's Greatest Hero Faces Loss of Farm; Declines to Take Picture Money

Would Rather Work as Laborer Than 'Exhibit Self' He Declares

PALL MALL, Tenn., July 27.—Although Sergeant Alvin York, the outstanding hero of the Argonne, is likely to lose his farm by foreclosure, he is sticking to his refusal to exhibit himself for money.

The drop in the prices of farm products leaves the man who, single-handed, captured 132 Germans, facing the alternative of raising $12,500 this fall or losing his homestead.

"I would rather lose my farm and go back to work as a common laborer," he says, "than to commercialize the fame which was only incidental to an act of providence."

Forsaking the riches and honors of a proud world, SERGEANT ALVIN C. YORK, war's greatest hero, returned to his boyhood home to marry his childhood sweetheart and take up anew his old life in the mountains of Tennessee. "This wash in the old basin back of the cabin is worth more to me than $30,000 for vaudeville work," said York to his mother, who is pouring water for him. His hero-worshiping little sister looks on. The old farm is likely to be lost through financial entanglement.

Forged Stamps for Bottled Booze Seized

NEW YORK, July 27.—Government agents assisted by city detectives of the Italian squad, last night seized forged revenue stamps having an aggregate face value of about $2,000,000 and thousands of forged whisky bottle labels, bottled in bond certificates and withdrawal permits. Three men were arrested.

Police said the men had been engaged in selling the articles to illicit liquor dealers at the rate of $2.15 for a set of a dozen each.

Carnation Home Cooking

Conducted by Mrs. Mary Blake

Lessons

These lessons on milk cookery will appear weekly. Mrs. Blake's counsel will be helpful and stimulating, because of her practical experience in home cooking. She will answer any question on cookery asked by her readers. Address Mrs. Mary Blake, care Carnation Milk Products Co., of California, 49 Main Street, San Francisco.

LESSON SEVEN

Some Breakfast Suggestions

BREAKFAST is perhaps the bugaboo of housewives, the most perplexing meal to plan and prepare. With appetites often finicky in the morning, with the early rush to school, business or maybe only to play, the question of what to serve for breakfast—something that may be prepared quickly, yet is wholesome and has the touch of variety, becomes a daily morning problem.

Many women depend upon the convenient cereal and the soft-boiled egg until the breakfast is robbed of the element of surprise—a valuable aid to digestion. Cereals are, of course, a perfect breakfast food. Carnation Milk is especially useful for serving with them. For you don't worry about whether you have cream and will it keep sweet over night.

Carnation's Richness

When serving Carnation with cereals, you can afford to be liberal, for this rich, pure milk adds flavor and wholesomeness to the breakfast food. The "baby" size can is very handy for table use.

Even the universal favorite, toast, sometimes fails to tempt, if served every morning. Serve French Toast made with Carnation, for a different and satisfying flavor.

French Toast with Carnation

½ cup Carnation Milk, ½ cup water, 1 egg, pinch of pepper, and salt. Mix the Carnation and water, add egg, salt and pepper. Beat well. Dip sliced bread into this mixture and fry to a golden brown on greased griddle.

Two New Omelets

Who does not look upon the omelet as a triumph of the cooking art? Here are two new combinations, either of which will be greeted with delight:

4 eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately, 1 cup Carnation Milk mixed with 4 tbsp. water, 4 teaspoonfuls cornstarch, dissolved in a little cold Carnation Milk, 1 teaspoonful baking powder, and a little salt. Add the whites, beaten to a stiff froth. Cook in a little butter.

(This recipe for Bread Omelet, a thrifty friend of mine found in her reading): Soak 1 cup bread-crumbs in 1 cup Carnation (for richness and flavor). Add little salt, pepper and nutmeg, and 3 beaten eggs. Beat the mixture until light, and fry.

Carnation Popovers

Probably nothing is so appealing to the delicate morning appetite as hot muffins, or popovers bursting with the hint of inner goodness. Made with Carnation Milk, popovers will bake to a rich glossy brown crust and will be twice as rich as when made with ordinary milk.

2 cups flour, 1 cup Carnation Milk, 1 cup water, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoonful butter, 1 teaspoonful salt. Beat the eggs, and add the butter in small pieces, which should be left in the batter as they are. Add the flour, salt and Carnation Milk diluted with the water. Bake in a butter-greased gem pan in quick oven for about 15 minutes.

Q. Does Carnation Milk have the same food value as fresh milk? Mrs. M. C. C.

A. The best food authorities agree that the heating process necessary in the canning of pure cow's milk to make Carnation brand milk does not change its nourishing and growth-promoting qualities. But perfect sterilization is effected, and you can count on finding in Carnation Milk the same health-giving balanced ration that milk has always supplied. Carnation is just pure cow's milk, evaporated, sealed in air-tight cans, and sterilized to preserve its wholesomeness.

Q. Why must I sometimes pay more for Carnation at my Neighborhood store? Mrs. H. S. R.

A. It is explained to me that retail prices vary between certain kinds of stores because the expense of doing business varies. The store that allows credit and delivers goods to your home renders elements of service that you do not even expect from the stores who do business on the "cash and carry" plan. It is to be expected therefore that when you assume the cost of delivery, the cash store should be able to sell at a slightly lower price.

Advertising Club Hears Legal Side of Publicity

The tendency of western nations to boast a little and the tendency of the Oriental to deprecate whatever is his, was claimed by Dr. Max Radin, professor of Law at the University of California, before the Oakland Advertising Club yesterday at its weekly luncheon-meeting at the Hotel Oakland, on the subject "The Manners and Morals of Advertising." The comparison between the eastern and western point of view was illustrated by the speaker in an incident. A Chinese manufacturer of tea once explained to Dr. Radin that he could not advertise as his English competitors did because, through tradition, he could not speak in complimentary terms of his product. Instead of saying, "Here, try some of this tea. It's the finest tea on the market," he was forced by instinct and training to say, "May I offer you this extremely inferior tea?"

In neither case, Dr. Radin pointed out, are these expressions taken literally. Everyone understands these two different points of view, but in the case of the Chinese, it made a successful advertising campaign impossible.

"We are inclined to boast, I suppose," said Dr. Radin, "of our country, of the number of girls we have kissed and of the number of fish we caught last summer. This sort of boasting is legitimate in some respects and we would never doubt its legitimacy.

MODESTY DON'T PAY.

"In business, if a man, out of politeness, insists that his product is extremely inferior, he can hardly hope that his customer will buy it, the speaker said.

There is a difference, it is generally accepted in business circles, between ordinary manners and commercial manners, according to Dr. Radin, who declared that there is a tendency to keep the personal and business manners in separate compartments. He stated, however, that the Americans are much more moderate along this line than the French and Germans, as the advertising in France and Germany is little more than pure boasting.

There is a much greater nuisance than the man who boasts of things he has actually accomplished, according to Dr. Radin. That nuisance is the man who boasts and does not tell the truth.

"That man is more than a nuisance," Dr. Radin declared. "He is a liar."

"And between the two," the speaker went on, "is that poor creature who thinks he is telling the truth."

"And now I come to a point where I can speak with authority," said Dr. Radin, "and that is where advertising falls foul of the law. It is very possible that one who lies in advertising and knows it, might find himself in legal difficulties. The law has always proceeded with extreme carefulness where advertising is concerned. The law as it existed in England and America in this regard for many years, was expressed in the phrase, 'Let the buyer beware.'"

LAW PROTECTS BUYERS.

The speaker declared that we are getting away from that point of view at the present time. Now, if it can be proved that a thing said about goods is false, the offense is punishable by law.

The fraud idea according to the speaker is one which advertisers have made an effort to fight shy of. He declared that some had gotten away with many extraordinary things, however. He spoke of his experience in riding on a street car yesterday, stating that after a careful scrutiny of the street car ads he found only three or four that could be accepted as absolutely true down to the last letter.

In discussing the principle of throwing the burden on the reader of the advertisement, the speaker said that, othically, the advertiser should not strive merely for the literal truth, but should be careful not to create a false impression.

According to the old theory, the speaker stated, there was no limit short of actual criminal fraud. He said that all but one or two of the New York newspapers took it upon themselves to guarantee everything advertised in their columns to the extent of refunding the buyer's money if the goods were found not to measure up to the advertised quality. This resulted in barring many dishonest advertisements, he stated.

"The advertisement should be not merely legal," Dr. Radin declared, "but moral."

In emphasizing the moral point the speaker said that side of it will be lived up to "if you tell the truth and shame the devil, the devil in this case being your lying competitor."

Senator France to Prolong Russ Visit

RIGA, July 27.—Senator Joseph I. France has decided to prolong his stay in Russia a few days. He is expected to return to Riga July 30 and from here will go to Berlin. He has sent a telegram, reserving a berth on the steamer Rotterdam, which is due to sail from Rotterdam for New York August 17.

In his message France said that he was in good health and having an interesting trip.

TIDE OF DIVORCES.

LONDON, July 27.—Just how lamentably marriages have broken down since the days before the war, is shown in an official return issued on civil judicial statistics. For the five years from 1895 to 1899 the average per year of divorce suits was 789. In the last five years they have increased to an annual average of 2589.

Auto Driven Through Open River Bridge

SACRAMENTO, July 27.—Deputies from the local sheriff's office are dragging the river near Courtland for the body of James Collins, wealthy Grand Island rancher, who drive his machine through an open draw-bridge at 10 o'clock last night.

According to word received, boats were passing in opposite directions at the time. Collins attempted to cross as the bridge was being opened the second time and his machine went into the river. The machine was recovered a few minutes later but the body could not be found.

ONCE UPON A TIME THERE WERE NO DOCTORS!

The Doctor Was Not Much Needed Until Folks Began to Break Nature's Laws.

Doctors Preach Prevention Is Better Than Cure.

Ninety per cent of all disease is preventable, so doctors say. Eat simple food, exercise wisely, sleep sufficiently, and—what is vitally important—make sure of the daily, regular, thorough elimination of body waste, and the chances are nine to one that you will keep well, work efficiently and enjoy life. Bowel elimination of food and tissue waste is all-important. But in case of irregularity, disordered or imperfect action do not make the common mistake of taking harsh, violently acting medicines, with the idea of forcing the bowels to act. Nature believes in mild methods. She responds best to persuasion.

So in selecting a simple remedy to regulate and assure proper bowel action, you should not use harsh or violently acting remedies, no matter how much has been claimed for them. You should choose some well-known, time tested, trial proven remedy, that has made its reputation by being used for many years, by all sorts of people, all over the world. Take Beecham's Pills for example. Beecham's is a household word, has been for many generations. Beecham's Pills is a household remedy, has been for over half a century. People not only take Beecham's but recommend Beecham's to their friends. Their use is handed down from father to son or from mother to daughter, from one generation to another. Did you ever hear any complaint or criticism of Beecham's? Isn't that a pretty powerful endorsement of their worth? Druggists are glad to sell Beecham's.

DELEGATIONS TO K. C. CONVENTION ARE DUE FRIDAY

Final Plans for Entertainment Made Yesterday At San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—First delegations—the vanguard of 20,000 visitors—to the thirty-ninth annual supreme convention of Knights of Columbus, which will be held here for several days next week, are expected to arrive in San Francisco Friday and take up headquarters at hotels and clubs. Final arrangements for the entertainment of the delegates were made yesterday at a meeting of the citizens' committee at the city hall.

Civic participation in the program is under the direction of a committee appointed by Mayor Rolph, and formal business sessions are under the direction of local Knights, headed by David Supple, supreme warden.

Entertainment by Alameda county of the visitors, who will flock to this city from all parts of the world, will be discussed at a meeting tonight of Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley and Hayward councils at the clubhouse of the Oakland Knights of Columbus.

Thomas Egan, general director of war camp entertainment for the Knights of Columbus, arrived here yesterday to attend the convention. Disabled war veterans have been invited by Egan to attend a "Casey" song recital Sunday evening.

As a special tribute to the work which was done for the service men by the organization during the war, it was announced today that on Wednesday, at 12:15 o'clock, the county council of the American Legion will be hosts at a luncheon tendered to the grand officers of the supreme council.

MAN INJURED IN FALL MAY LIVE

YOSEMITE VALLEY, July 27.—Fred H. Morley, San Francisco mining engineer and member of the Sierra club, who plunged from the summit of Cathedral Spire to a narrow ledge, which broke his fall, was believed by physicians this morning to have a possible chance for recovery, although he is suffering from a basal fracture of the skull and concussion of the brain. He is under the care of Dr. Howard Naftzinger.

Rescue of Morley's unconscious body, from the narrow ledge 500 feet above the bottom of the mountain, was witnessed by 200 members of the Sierra club, encamped here on their annual outing. The feat was performed by F. E. Crofts, Berkeley school teacher, and Olcott Haskell of San Rafael, at risk of their own lives. The two men made their way to the narrow ledge, where Morley's body lay, and clinging to projecting rocks, lowered it 500 feet to safety and first aid.

It was feared that before rescuers could reach Morley he would regain consciousness and roll from the ledge. He is still unconscious. Sentiment expressed by members of the club of the club favored the presenting of a medal to both Crofts and Haskell.

McGraw Under Bail In Damage Case

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 27. — John McGraw, pugnacious pilot of the New York Giants, was at liberty under $3000 bail today, following the serving of a capias in a $20,000 suit, brought against him here by George M. Duffy, who alleges McGraw struck him during an argument.

Duffy alleged the attack occurred during the Giants' last trip here June 3. He said he was invited by an official of the New York club to his rooms in the Schenley hotel. While there, he said, he discovered McGraw in an intoxicated condition. He endeavored to aid McGraw and was rendered unconscious by a blow.

Northcliffe Doubts Prohibition Success

NEW YORK, July 27. — Lord Northcliffe, British newspaper publisher, held a seven-hour reception at his hotel yesterday, meeting on the average of one visitor every three minutes and conversing with nearly all on different subjects. He predicted peace in Ireland, expressed skepticism over prohibition in America and gave small encouragement to a committee of Zionists.

"I know Palestine," he said. "It's a poor country. There's a lot of unemployment there. The danger is you may get too many people down there to fit the conditions."

To representatives of the Association of Foreign Press Correspondents he expressed gratitude for not cabling provocative news.

He told a group of women student journalists that their sex made good writers of fiction, children's stories and fashions, but that he did not think much of them as political writers. He said there were two million more women than men in England since the war.

Cooperative Farming Attempted in Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska, July 27.—Cooperative farming, as tried in several states, is being attempted in Alaska. Articles of incorporation have been filed here for two new communities on Kachemak bay. They are known as the Kachemak Co-operative Association and the Alaska Live Stock Association. Each is capitalized at $100,000.

The preamble of the Kachemak Association provides that membership may be obtained on payment of $5, and that each member will be entitled to a vote. Thirty families, homesteaders, are reported to have founded the organization, and twenty-five other families are said to be en route from South Dakota to join the community.

CHEAPER PAPER MOVE.

PARIS, July 27.—Swedish and Norwegian paper pulp exporters received notice from the French paper mills that for deliveries in 1921, existing prices must be reduced at least 30 per cent, and by any further sum necessary to bring the price to not more than 15 per cent above the price of cellulose at the moment of delivery.

Gilbert Moyles To Entertain For Musicians

The Gilbert Moyles, whose studio in Berkeley is rapidly becoming a rendezvous for art lovers about the bay, will assemble a group of interesting men and women on Sunday, August 7, to meet Mr. and Mrs. John C. Wilcox of Denver.

Mr. Wilcox is a nationally known figure among music-makers—conductor of the Municipal Chorus of his home-town among other things, and critic for Musical America.

The Wilcoxes, old friends of the Moyles, will be their house-guests for a time.

As for the Moyles on their own account, Mrs. Moyle is a singer of distinction whose rather recent coming to Berkeley has brought new strength to the musical set in the college town.

And Mr. Moyle, while an intellectual musician, too, is first a writer of verse. He is one of the leaders in the group of constructive artists and art-lovers that made up the Council of Inter-Allied Arts, of which Bernard Maybeck is chairman.

The Wilcox afternoon is one of a monthly series of affairs to be staged at the Moyle studio, the first having been in honor of Mrs. Martha Fawkes Haun, now playing in Honolulu.

TOWN AND COUNTRY LUNCHEON MONDAY.

Miss Laura Miller's luncheon at the Town and Country Club on Monday was a characteristic summer Monday affair, with a flock of friends lunching all over the place, exchanging greetings and the very newest bit of chatter.

Among the girls who were asked to meet her honor-guest—Miss Marian Lee Cobbs, a young Southern girl—were the Misses Geraldine Grace, Barbara Kimble, Elizabeth Wall, Margaret Buckbee, and a few young matrons.

The Harry East Millers returned a few days ago from their outing in the Shasta country, after two months' absence.

When have the peninsula set before taken so much time out of a sport-loving summer to hear about esthetics?—this is the second series that the eloquent Pawys has essayed down the main line.

PERKES NUPTIALS SET FOR SEPTEMBER.

A nuptial service that illuminates the early fall calendar is the Perkes-Wernink affair—a church ceremonial with a flock of attendants, and all the accoutrements that beauty and wealth should summon at so important a function.

Miss Donna Perkes met her fiancee—a Hollander of distinguished family, and himself a man of affairs—at the Claremont hotel, the headquarters, apparently, of all of Holland's sons who migrate westward.

And as most of them are successful bachelors, romance is holding a long engagement at the hotel in the Berkeley hills.

Miss Perkes and her sister—two exceptionally handsome girls—have traveled extensively for such young girls, the hegira to be resumed for the bride-elect, who will go on to the Orient on her wedding trip, when, too, she will visit the family of her futur in Leiden.

MRS. CURTIS BOYD MUNGER of Berkeley, wife of Dr. Munger of U. S. N., for whom many interesting affairs have been given during the summer.

Wants Yellowstone Searched For Teeth

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., July 27 (United Press).—L. C. Ford, of Lima, Montana, a druggist, is asking the Yellowstone Park authorities to search the 3300 square miles of the park for a set of false teeth which he lost upon a recent visit.

Ford said he lost his teeth in the Yellowstone river while fishing. He said. He took one look at it, and the reel and rod to the very roots. The fish leaped from the water, Ford said. He took ont look at it, and it was so big that his jaw dropped in amazement—and so did his teeth. He said the teeth got away from him, but didn't mention what happened to the fish.

Youth Slain by Gun In Hands of Chum

OMAHA, Neb., July 27.—Willis Miller, 9 years old, was accidentally shot and killed by his playmate, Bert Spencer, 8 years old, yesterday afternoon, after he had gone to console Bert, who had been locked in a bedroom at home for teasing his sister.

Bert had found an old pistol in a bureau drawer in the course of his "confinement," had loaded it with a single cartridge, which he said later had been given him by a chum, and was pointing the gun at a shed door, when Willie came around the corner of the house. Bert fired at the shed door. The bullet struck his friend in the heart, and he fell, dying instantly.

WIFE ATTACKED HIS SECRETARY, DIVORCE CHARGE

George I. Tompkins Alleges Wife's Jealousy Caused Scenes.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Charging his wife with unfounded jealousy which on several occasions during their thirty years of married life has resulted in her visiting his office and creating scenes with female employees, George I. Tompkins, manager of a large paper company, has started action in the Superior Court for divorce from Mrs. Mary L. Tompkins, Chateau Bohlig Apartments.

In particular Tompkins accuses his wife of visiting his office while he was on a recent business trip East, falsely accusing his private secretary and then attacking her and pulling her hair.

Mrs. Tompkins today denied that she had falsely accused the other woman, but said that she went to the office and warned her to leave her husband alone after she learned that the secretary had been granted exclusive use of the Tompkins' car during her husband's absence.

"I am an old-fashioned woman and naturally those things do not please me," she said. "Of course I was jealous. Any woman would have been after all the experience I had with my husband before."

She called it "another case of a man getting rid of the wife who has worked with him all his life in order to lavish his money and desires on a younger woman."

The couple separated a week ago since when Tompkins has resided at the Olympic club.

5 Killed When Auto Crashes Into Car

CLEVELAND, O., July 27.—James M. Francyk, his wife and two of their children, and Mrs. Anna Brantoff, were killed early today when the automobile, in which they were riding, collided with a streetcar. The accident occurred when Francyk turned to pass a wagon and drove his automobile directly into the oncoming car.

NEWSPAPERMAN DIES.

SAN DIEGO, July 27.—Joseph Vincent Bell, former editor of the Monterey County Democrat of Salinas, Cal., died at his home here yesterday. He was an Elk, a Mason and a Knight Templar. His wife survives him.

SMALL HEAD, BIG BRAIN, POSSIBLE, SAYS OSTEOPATH

CLEVELAND, O., July 27.—Large heads do not mean large brains, Dr. H. W. Forbes, former president of the Los Angeles College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, told delegates attending the twenty-fifth annual convention of the American Osteopathic Association.

"Many large heads mean more than the normal seven tablespoonfuls of water on the brain," he said. "When this normal amount of brain water is increased the volume of blood which can flow through the head is decreased. This lack of blood circulation gravely impairs all brain functions."

No reply has been received to a message sent to Dr. H. L. Russell of Buffalo, asking him to appear before the convention to answer charges of alleged violation of professional ethics for testifying in the Stillman divorce case. It is understood Dr. Russell is in St. George, N. B., on vacation and will not return until October 1.

Dr. Samuel L. Scothard, Dallas, Tex., was elected president of the association. Dr. R. B. Gilmour, Sioux City, and Dr. W. Curtis Brigham, Los Angeles, were chosen trustees.

A resolution was adopted inviting an international conference to end the differences between osteopaths and other schools of medicine and healing.

Russian Soviets To Tighten Church Rule

RIGA, July 27. — Russian Soviet government officials have decided to take stricter control over the churches in Russia, according to Moscow newspapers received here. A recent number of the Osvestia says that sermons are to be allowed only on the condition that they are of a strictly religious character.

It appears that the Soviet government, while continuing to permit religious worship, is to present rival attractions in the church buildings in the shape of lectures of Communist doctrines.

Independent advices received in Riga recently indicated that in some villages in South Russia the women and old men of the peasantry had actually come to blows with the younger and communistically educated generation on religious subjects. Villages were divided into two camps and in one reported instance some casualties occurred.

TOSS COIN TO WIN SUIT.

SHEFFIELD, England, July 27.—A point of dispute arising in the settlement of a separation claim was settled by the toss of a coin. The question was whether the husband should pay $8.50 or $10 a week to his wife. The wife's counsel won the toss.

RETAIL SHOE MEN CUT PRICE AHEAD OF WHOLESALERS

San Francisco Merchants Complete Survey and Announce Result of Inquiry.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—While retail shoe prices have dropped on an average of 26.9 per cent since the peak of prices in 1920, the price which the retailer pays for them has dropped but 25.5 per cent, so that the retailer is forced to operate on a closer margin than during the past several years, according to a market survey just completed by the Retail Merchants' Association of San Francisco.

The association officials say their survey of the shoe trade involves all of the stores of the city, with conditions in each of them properly weighed in the general average with respect to the amount of business done by them.

In connection with the report one firm has issued a statement charging unfairness in the June report of the federal price investigator, which says that shoe prices have not come down in proportion to the drop in the price of raw materials. The local firm says the federal reporter fell into error by overlooking the fact that wages of labor in the shoe industry have not fallen and that this is a very considerable item in the manufacture and marketing of shoes.

Uncle Wiggily Stories

By Howard R. Garis

"Turn around again!" called the Turtle

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LITTLE TURTLE.

Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty, the small rabbit girl, were hopping through the woods one day. I forget just where they were going—perhaps it was to the eight and nine cent store to buy a two-cent lollypop for Baby Bunty.

Anyhow, as Miss Bunty was hopping along she suddenly stopped and cried:

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Look! Isn't he just the cutest, dearest little one you ever saw!"

"What's that?" cried the bunny gentleman. "Have you found a little Fox or Wolf, Bunty?"

"No, it is a little baby mud turtle" answered the little rabbit girl. "Oh, isn't he a darling?"

Uncle Wiggily hopped over close to Baby Bunty. There on the woodland path he saw a small turtle, about as large as a fifty-cent piece.

"Well, well, little chap," exclaimed Mr. Longears, "what are you doing so far away from home and your father and mother?"

"Oh, if you please," spoke the baby turtle in a very tiny voice, "I'm lost! I started out to see the world, and have advantures, but now I want to go back home. Only it's about a thousand miles away, I guess."

"Not quite as far as that, I think," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "It may seem that far to you, as you crawl very slowly, like the snail. But it is only a few hops for Baby Bunty and me. I'll pick you up and carry you back to your home."

"Oh, thank you!" said the little turtle. "It is very kind of you to take this trouble for me. I never should have gone so far from home. I'm sure it must be two thousand miles."

"Oh, no!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, as he picked the small chap up in his paws and put him in his pocket—in the bunny's pocket, I mean, for the turtle had none. "It is only about two hops and part of another one, though it may be a thousand crawls for you."

So Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty took the little turtle to his home on the edge of the swamp, and there the rabbits found big Mr. and Mrs. Turtle just about to start off to look for their little boy.

"Oh, I was so worried!" exclaimed Mrs. Turtle, poking her head out from her shell. "You must never crawl so far away again, Scootie," she said. "Scootie" being the baby turtle's name.

"I never will, mother," Scootie promised. "And I wish I could do Uncle Wiggily a favor for being so kind to me."

"Yes, indeed," added Mr. Turtle, "I should like to help Mr. Longears myself, but being such a slow, plodding creature I don't see how I can."

"Oh, that's all right!" laughed the bunny uncle. "I don't do favors for pay. I do them because I love to help, and so does Baby Bunty."

Then the big and little rabbit friends hopped on their way, going to the five and ten cent store, the moving pictures or wherever they were bound for.

It was on their way home that something happened. Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty had sat down on a log to rest in the woods, when, all of a sudden, out from behind the bushes hopped the bad bold Wolf.

"Well, well!" howled the Wolf. "This is my lucky day! I didn't imagine I'd have any ears to nibble before next week and here I have some now. I mean your ears!" he went on, looking hard at Uncle Wiggily.

"Yes, I suppose you do," sadly said the bunny. "But if this is your lucky day, it is an unlucky one for me."

"And me, also" half sobbed Baby Bunty, for she knew the Wolf was hungry and would very likely nibble her ears after he had nibbled Uncle Wiggily's.

But all at once a tiny voice cried:

"Look behind you, Mr. Wolf!"

Quickly the Wolf turned. He saw no one, but hanging on the long hairs of the bad chap's tail was the little turtle which Uncle Wiggily had taken to its home. The baby turtle was clinging by its jaws to the Wolf's tail.

"Where are you?" howled the surprised Wolf when he saw no one, for he couldn't see the end of his tail with the tiny turtle on.

"Look behind you," said the small voice.

Again the Wolf turned, but he saw no one.

"Turn around again!" called the turtle, sort of speaking sideways out of his mouth. "Turn again and you will see me—maybe!"

The Wolf turned again and then he kept on turning in a circle. But each time he turned his tail went with him, and the turtle swung around on the tail and the bad chap never had a glimpse of the teaser.

And all of a sudden the wolf turned so much that he became dizzy and down he fell.

"Run, Uncle Wiggily, run!" cried the little turtle, as he dropped off the Wolf's tail and hid under a stone. And run Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty did, their ears not being nibbled at all. The baby turtle had saved them.

And if the piano doesn't go off and play by itself when the hand organ wants to have a game of tag, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the baby robin.

Winifred Black's Column

REMEMBERING TOO WELL.

Her husband ran away with her sister and left her without a dollar. And she had two little children to support—and she went to work and supported them as best she could.

All day long she worked hard, but at night, after the children were in bed, she went to the public library, and found directories—city directories of strange towns far away.

And she watched them—for her husband's name.

After three years she found the name, and sent a registered letter to him.

And then, when she had no reply, she took the children and went to that city, and when she arrived there — the man she still called her husband was gone.

And she stayed in that city and worked and watched, and ferreted and hunted and again—she heard of him in another city.

And again she wrote—and again he did not reply—and again she followed him—and again he was gone.

SHE KEPT ON.

Four times she went through this tragedy. But the fifth time she went to the Pacific coast, and there she found him.

She went to his house to see him. A motor car stood by the door and as she started up the steps the man she still called "husband" came out of the door with the woman she still thought of as her sister. They had suitcases in their hand, and they stepped into the car—and were gone.

The woman collapsed on the street and was taken to a hospital.

And her story—the pitiable, meagre, sad story of a lamentable, thwarted, pathetic life—got into the papers, and now half the state is helping her to look for the man she still calls her husband, and for the woman who ran away with him ten years ago.

What insane folly, what impossible rancor of remembrance!

How much better it would have been for this poor woman if she had only put the man out of her mind on the very day she found out what he really was—and forgotten that such a person ever lived.

She is an intelligent woman as far as work goes—and is able to make a fairly decent living for her children.

Why keep alive the memory of such a misery?

Unjust that she should have to take all the care of the children?

Not right that she must not only support them and buy their clothes and their food and furnish shelter for them, but that she must sit up with them when they are ill, keep them out of mischief when they are well, put them into the right sort of schools at the right time, bear all the care and responsibility of their whole upbringing?

Of course, it's not right.

Of course, it's unjust.

Of course, the man who deserts his family is a heartless brute, and a selfish creature. But why let it do any more harm after he has done that much?

Why permit him or any one like him to shadow a whole life?

Isn't it bad enough for those poor children to be cursed with such a father but they must endure also a mother who cannot forget—for their sakes?

If he is a scoundrel, why should she be a fool?

WASTED YEARS.

Ten years! Why, by the end of the first year she could have put that man so completely out of her heart and out of her life that she would scarcely know him if she met him on the street.

Ten years! In that time, she could have made her children wise and loving and very happy.

Ten years! In that time she could have made hundreds of new friends who never even heard of her husband, or of her sister, or who would not care the snap of their fingers for them if they did hear of them.

Ten summers—full of flowers.

Ten falls—full of beauty and abundance.

Ten winters—full of cozy hours by the fire with loving little hearts for company.

Ten springs—full of promise and of hope.

What a wastrel she is—this woman who threw them all away for the sake of a worthless man!

Let him do the remembering and the regretting.

Why carry such a burden for even one year, when the world is so full of lovely things to do and to see and to hear and to be?

The One Way

One one way, my dearie, in summer time an' snow;
The one way, my dearie, an' that's the way to go!
And what to us is glory when all the stars above
Tell ever one sweet story of love—of human love?

The one way, my dear e—sometimes we faint and fall
But Love that grows not weary, hath strength enough for all,
And what to us is glory and all earth's splendid gleams?
Still, dear, the old sweet story, and still the dreams! the dreams!

The one way, my dearie, in all the love's lands
You feel my reverent kisses still on lips and hands
And what to us is glory on earth—in heaven above?
There thrills no sweeter story than just your love—your love!

(Archie Batting for Schoos)

WEDNESDAY, JULY 27

Alexander Macomb, merchant, born 1748. If we may be so bold as to pun, old bean, we'd remark that Macomb didn't go as fur as J. J. Astor, whose partner he was. Also, 1782, Herman Knickerbocker, attorney, was born. The Information Bureau may be able to tell you why they called him "The Prince of Schaghticoke." It was in 1812, on this date, that a mob attacked members of the anti-war party in Baltimore. They managed to sink the Atlantic cable on July 27, 1866, and Alaska Territory was organized two years later.

Schoos is summering elsewhere, nibbling mint with the genuine spring lambs and leaving his precious Almanac to the more ribald element of the staff. We expect to put a lot of bar-room ginger into the column, sprinkle it well with he-and-she jokes and so mangle its native humor that its bleating will be heard in the wilderness and bring its papa home from his vacation in a hurry. There will be method in our punning.

o o o

We have several inquiries as to the nature of this bird, Schoos. He's a fairly good scout, but breaks out in poetry every once in awhile. At one time he was inclined to be radical in his views, but an innate sense of humor rescued him and he compromised with his nihilist friends by moving to Berkeley. He smokes a pipe, but is open to gifts of the better grade of cigars, and eats breakfast at a lunch counter.

What a fix you find me in—

Tempus the well-known fugiteer, was a visitor at the Almanac office today. He left a few gray hairs in our comb and a reminder that art was as long-winded as ever and he was in as much of a hurry. Tempus deplored the present-day leaning toward vacations and promised to speed things up a bit.

DOUBLE LIFE STUFF.

"Red Officials Live With Luxury and in Profusion."—Headline in our favorite daily journal.

o o o

No news item of recent date has done more to disturb us than the announcement of a Parisian doctor that the determination of sex before birth is as easy as picking the winner of a wrestling match. Says the eminent one: "If a mother wants a boy baby she must bend her will to that effect, repeating with absolute confidence thirty or forty times a day, 'My child will be a boy.'"

Which is all very well if the old man is willing to accept the verdict. But suppose he wants a girl and says so, not forty times a day, but fifty and with confidence? And suppose, too, that he enlists the support of the family on his side, and his gang down at the corner pool-parlor? The result will be horrible to contemplate, if it isn't twins.

The COUNTRY of UPSIDE DOWN

By Jack Burroughs

Chapter 39

The Professor's Party

"WE must take the bad with the good in this Upside Down World," quacked the Duckess as she run her eye over the crowd of guests that had come to the Professor's party. She was addressing Reddy, Corporal having strayed away to mingle with the other guests.

"Just what do you mean by that, my dear?" Reddy enquired.

The Duckess opened her bill to quack a reply but before she had time to utter a word there was a sudden commotion in the hall.

They went to see what the trouble was and they found that Professor Pierre Stone, the rock expert, had just arrived.

"I hope you'll excuse me, Mrs. Quackenback," apologized Professor Stone. "I was carrying a few specimens around in my hat, as I always do and when I took my hat off they all fell out upon the floor."

The Duckess assured him that it was quite all right, and smiled as though it was a genuine pleasure to have absent-minded geologists spill rocks upon floor when they came to her house for a visit.

But to Reddy, when they were alone once more, the Duckess said:

"That's what I meant by my remark, Redford. I enjoy having the professors here, but I do wish they'd be a little more considerate of their hostess. Professor Bugg, the entomologist, let a box full of beetles loose in the bedroom and Professor Mumm E. Fide, the Egyptologist, is scrawling hieroglyphics all over the wall.

"What are hieroglyphics, Mrs. Quackenback?" enquired Alex, who had overheard the last part of the conversation.

For reply, the Duckess led him into the parlor where Professor Fide was making strange looking marks upon the walls and furniture with a piece of chalk.

The professor was trying to explain the meaning of the Egyptian writings to Corporal the Roly Poly Pup, but Corporal was absorbed in telling the professor all about his military exploits. Both appeared to be having the time of their lives.

It was the same with all the other guests—each was doing the thing he was interested in, and no one was paying the slightest attention to anyone else.

"Excuse me," quacked the Duckess to a Professor of Dead Languages who was carrying on a lively conversation in Latin, "have you seen our friend, Phil Osiphar lately?"

"Arma virumque ca—NO!" chanted the professor and the Duckess, thanking him, went to the kitchen, where Josiah Jingle-Jangle was shouting his poems down the dumb waiter shaft.

"Is our friend, Phil Osiphar, coming to the party tonight?" she asked, and Josiah recited the following lines in reply:

Phil Osiphar, I understand,
Is very sure to be on hand.
He's somewhat late tonight because
He stopped to manicure his claws.

Just Folks

—by Edgar A. Guest

THE GREATER PEACE

I have lived long enough to learn
The things which are of great concern,
And I would write them down today
For him who follows in my way;
I would impress upon his mind
The peace that comes of being kind
And I would teach him there's no fame
That can excel an honored name.

Unto the eyes of youth it seems
That most important are its dreams,
Yet high-flown dreams come tumbling down
And few attain the world's renown,
And even those who rise to power
Must live through many a troubled hour;
The thing that counts through peace and strife
Is, above all, a well-lived life.

Better by far than glory famed,
Is to meet all men unashamed;
Greater than fortune's glittering gold
Is love of friends when man is old;
Who earns his neighbor's high esteem
Need never mourn some broken dream,
Who knows true friends are standing by
Has peace which wealth cannot supply.

As Time, the great teacher of us all,
Shows us her glories, large and small,
Much that we once thought splendid, pales
And the great joy of conquest fails;
Richer than days of victorious glow
The kindlier days of long ago,
He knows true glory at the end
Who's played the man and played the friend.

Cry on Geraldine's Shoulder

Listen, World!

This country is the greatest nation in the world to talk about democracy and fight for democracy—but when it comes to living democracy we renig. We not only do not know how to live the truly democratic life, but we don't want to know. We don't know, at the start, even how to think democracy.

What's the basic principle of this thing we've been fighting for? The brotherhood of man and the equal honorableness of all essential jobs, isn't it? The potato peeler as good as the king—but do any of us treat potato peelers as well as we would kings? Would any of us be willing to be potato peelers? We would not. Yet potatoes must be peeled. But do we train our children to realize the necessity, beauty, and general uplifting quality of potato peeling? No—we put silk socks on our little darlings and send them to High School in speedsters and raise particular Cain if they bring anything that even remotely resembles a potato peeler home as a friend. Then, whether they were born with an ounce of brains or talent or not, we turn to and make 'em lawyers or something professional or, if they're girls, they're trained to be boudoir queens. And what's the result?

The result is that we have a Democracy with nothing to back the all elected to fill the fancy roles—and who's going to peel the potatoes? The truth is that we were all born common and common we'll stay until we die. The sooner we acknowledge the prevalence of common folks and common jobs the better for all of us. There's nothing better than hard working commonness—nothing that gives more real content to the worker.

Let's lay off acting like something with a crown and see what this democracy business is like anyway!

We talk democracy, and we fight for democracy, but we don't LIVE democracy.

Heres a letter with a strong arm punch to it. The writer seems to think that Jerry has a "bone to pick" concerning her program, but she's mistaken. I think she's a CORKER and if this city was filled with INSPIRATIONAL WIVES like this one, there would be mighty little for the divorce court to do.

Geraldine—

You are partial to the men. I'm sure you think you are not, but having worked in offices before I was married, and knowing how hard I, as well as my employers worked, I feel I have an opinion worth voicing.

Lately you said that very, very few women in Oakland worked as hard for the maintenance of the home as men, and you wished some of them knew what it was to go to bed really tired out from work. Well, Jerry, what about the plan of creation? Weren't the men to earn the living by the sweat of the brow, and the women to bear the children? And aren't women supposed to be cared for and protected by these strong men? We don't need to be "protected" from thieves and robbers, but from eight hours continuous hard labor. We are not constituted as laborers, and Heaven help the poor female souls who are obliged to go ahead as though they were. There are plenty of them in Oakland, Jerry—you just don't know them.

Now let me tell you about myself. I live in a very nice section of town, in a pretty, two-story house of seven rooms, and with the exception of a gardener who also washes the windows and porches, and a helper twice a year who does rug beating, etc., my two hands keep that home, and keep it ship-shape, too. I have electric appliances, but they won't run themselves, regardless of the pretty advertisements. I have two girls in grammar school, for whom I make every garment they wear. After it is made I wash and iron and mend it as long as it is fit to put on. I peel and pare and bake every bite of food we eat—delicatessens don't exist for my family, Jerry.

Makes Own Clothes

I make nearly every one of my own clothes, too, unless I see a big bargain. You ought to see my coat I made, Jerry! Friend hubby has no idea how many times I took that collar on and off to get it right. And hats, I make 'em out of most anything but burlap.

Now, Jerry, do you consider the time I spend doing the necessary shopping for this sewing, as work, or am I "Gadding the streets?" Suppose I go to four or five stores to get just what I need for just what I can pay, trying to get something done for the girls or myself by a certain time, I stand up with an armful of bundles, almost run home from the car, turn on the gas under the food I carefully prepared before leaving home, serve a nice dinner no more than ten minutes late; visit cheerfully with husband and children, clean up the kitchen (with children's help), see that their lessons are done, perhaps help with some delayed piano practice, finally tuck them in bed, and come down stairs at 8:30 to find callers, who must of course be fed before they go home.

Now Jerry, my day began one hour before my husband's breakfast, ordering, hair-combing of girls, etc. He shaves and reads the paper. At night he is free from his actual employment at 5:30, and at 8:30 when my day is over he has read his paper and wants my attention just like another child. But according to you, I must never be sharp-spoken with this "Protector."

Other Activities

Of course, I don't shop every day, but I wash, iron, sew and clean, take the girls to dancing lessons, try to do a little club and church work, teach my children moral and bodily cleanliness, do the letter writing for both sides of the family, keep in mind all the birthdays to be remembered, do all the Christmas shopping, and, oh, well! Jerry, you say you know what women do, so why write it?

And now—on whose shoulders fall the care of the old and frail fathers and mothers? On the wife, nine times out of ten. I had the care of one of these dear old people eighteen months, Jerry, and had no outside help either.

Do you know what the care of a semi-invalid is, Jerry? Extra cooking, meals on trays, furnace whooping all day, house in order for invalid's callers, fixing tea for them, reading aloud to protect old eyes, writing to help crippled hands, keeping the children quiet, letting your old friends go, rubbing aching limbs when your own body throbs for want of rest.

I've had a year's rest from this care now, but my turn is coming again in the fall. And that won't be the end; there are others growing old in our two families.

And now again, company. We have not always lived in Oakland, and every year old friends make a trip here, not to see us really, but drop in for a visit, which includes meals and many times the use of the guest-room. This means setting aside your routine, taking the visitors here and there, loss of sleep, additional linen in the wash.

Jerry, in one summer vacation I set sixty extra places at my table, none of them specially invited or looked-for guests. Did my husband work one hour more or earn one extra dollar on account of these guests? He did not. Did he take them sight-seeing, and explain this and that twenty times over, and carry on his end of the family life too? He did not.

We are not without our intimate circles of friends either. I give several small parties a year, evening and dinner parties too. Sometimes I hire a maid to serve, but I prepare what is eaten every time. We are not poor at all, now, but oh, those first lean years were hard.

Does Without Servants

If servants were what they used to be I could have one now, but many women just like myself are doing without. Another reason I don't keep steady help is because my children are being taught how to wait upon themselves and others.

Now Jerry, do I earn my living? I haven't a kick in the world. My husband is a jewel—home is his life. But he's a man. Could I ever jump on the train as lightheartedly as he did last week to go fishing? A stenographer to run the office, a wife to run the home.

I am not in the least an unusual case. I know twenty-five women who are doing just what I'm doing. I know six who at present have the care of old people in their homes. And our children are getting old enough to demand a certain social life, too, and that will fall on mother's shoulders. Jerry, what about us?

What about Sunday morning, when hubby can lie in bed, relaxing completely from his week's work? Mother is up as usual dressing the children with extra care for Sunday school. Who sits in church so the children will have a religious background? The mother, most every time.

I don't do any hard cooking on Sunday and seldom invite guests for that day, but I'm on the job just the same. And I'm not a tower of strength, either. I am a small woman with many an ache and pain I'd like to humor.

MY NAME IS LEGION.

Geraldine's Comment

Thats a great letter, Pal, and I surely hope you'll write often for we need just such REAL CITIZENS as contributors to this page. But I am going to differ with you on one or two points just the same. And I want you to remember, as I do so, that Jerry knows what she's talking about. She knows the home job just as well as you do—every crack and cranny, every backache and groan of it. And she knows the office job—every worry of it, every joy of it.

AND I ABSOLUTELY BELIEVE THAT EVERY NORMAL WOMAN IS JUST AS CAPABLE OF DOING EIGHT HOURS' CONTINUOUS HARD LABOR AS A NORMAL MAN, AND WOULD BE HAPPIER AND HEALTHIER IF SHE HAD TO DO IT. The feminine sex wasn't naturally weaker than man. Child bearing was never intended by Nature to be a demoralizing function physically. Look at the peasants of Europe, look at your savage women, if you want to compare the natural physiques and working capacities of men and women.

It can't be "hard manual labor" that has made women weaker than men for those peasant and savage women do just as hard work as men, for just as many hours, and emerge just as strong. No, it's the sheltered, artificial life, the foolish clothes of past generations and MOST OF ALL THIS FOOL "WOMEN ARE WEAKER THAN MEN IDEA" THAT HAS DONE THE HARM.

A Wicked Idea

That is one of the silliest and most wicked ideas that was ever foisted upon society and I'm going to whack it in this column whenever possible.

Youre doing your eight hours and more, and you deserve all honor for it. Moreover, I'll be willing to wager anything that you're a lot happier and healthier in living as you do than you would be in living a life of idleness. And I'll also state that if the thousands of women of the "leisure class" who write to me would also work as you do, they also would be healthier and happier.

I am NOT partial to men—BUT I AM PARTIAL TO THE WAY THEY MANAGE THEIR DISPOSITIONS AND THEIR WORK.

I know all about the millions of small, tiresome heart-racking jobs that fill a woman's life. I know also the heart-racking fears and disappointments that fill the life of the head of a family. And I do think that women would be much better off if they copy man methods a little. It isn't always possible to do so. When a woman has a tiny baby, or sick ones to care for, she is tied. But often and often she could run off for an afternoon or a week, when the children are older, and be the better for it.

You say your husband jumped on the train light-heartedly. I don't doubt it. I also don't doubt that he knew jolly well that things wouldn't go exactly right at the office however competent his stenographer. BUT HE KNEW HIS SYSTEM DEMANDED THAT REST AND HE TOOK IT.

I repeat—women can't always do this. But you had far better go to the delicatessen store once in a while, and let the dirt accumulate and let the kiddies wear torn stockings, and give yourself a rest, than accumulate a Martyr's Grouch as some women do.

Holding a Husband

DISORGANIZED CONDITIONS.

"I can't have Katherine take care of me, or Dr. Pettit either," my mother-in-law said reflectively.

"Hardly," I smiled, "with one out West and the other at the eastern end end of Long Island."

"How do you know Dr. Pettit is at the eastern end of Long Island?" My mother-in-law snapped me up quickly and suspiciously, but I did not resent it. I was actually glad to have her mind taken off her dread of pneumonia.

"I thought I told you that I met him while I was out there last summer," I replied nonchalantly. "He had taken the practice of another physician at Sag Harbor. Of course, I don't know whether or not he is still there."

"You told me nothing," she retorted. "But I don't blame you. His acquaintanceship isn't anything to brag about."

A caustic retort was on my tongue, for though Dr. Pettit sometimes perplexes me, yet he has always proved himself a faithful friend, and he had been most attentive in my mother-in-law's illness. But I forced it back, busied myself with putting Mother Graham's clothing in the closet and tidying her room for the physician's visit.

I was on my way to the kitchen to replenish a hot water bag when Dicky rushed into the hall, his face aglow with excitement.

"Come in here," he commanded, opening the door of our room. "I have such a surprise for you."

"You'll have to tell me here," I replied hurriedly. "Your mother is ill—I am afraid, influenza. I have sent for Dr Paige, and I have but a second or two. What is it?"

Over Dicky's face flashed a look of dismay.

"I—I can't tell you now," he said. "Perhaps I can't have it if mother's sick. Is she in her room? I'll go right in to see her."

For several days I had no time to speculate upon the "surprise" which Dicky said he had for me, but with which the news of his mother's illness had interfered.

Dr Jim Paige had confirmed my amateur diagnosis of Mother Graham's ailment as influenza. For three days until the attack—fortunately a comparatively mild one—had run its course, both Dicky and I had our hearts, minds and hands full. Then came the period of convalescence, in Mother Graham's case, always a most trying time, and one which, Dicky invariably dodges as much as he possibly can.

"By George I don't see how you stand it, Madge!" he said one day when he had hastily left his mother's room after an unusually petulant outburst upon her part. "I'm going to keep out of her way until she gets well, or I'll say or do something I'll be sorry for afterward."

I reflected grimly that if I shared his temperamental attitude toward filial duty, his mother would be sadly neglected. The insouciant impudence with which he transferred his tasks to my shoulders, chafed me, but experience has taught me that any remonstrance with Dicky is worse than useless. Like many men, he is a tower of strength in any real emergency, but selfishly slides out of the humdrum yet vitally necessary details which appear always to be left for the women of the world to mull over.

But even the most nerve-racking experience ends sometime, and Mother Graham's recovery progressed slowly but surely until the day came when she was allowed to sit outdoors upon the veranda and Dr. Jim Paige made her his last visit.

"Yoh shorely don't need me any longer, Ma'am," he drawled in his old-fashioned way as he took his leave. "Yoh'll be able to take a ba'r in a day or two more."

ELMHURST CLUB STARTS DRIVE FOR NEW PARK

House-to-House Canvass Made And Resolutions Sent To Council.

Members of the Elmhurst Community Club are making a house-to-house canvass today gathering sentiment to the establishment by the city of Oakland of a new park and public playground in that vicinity. At the last meeting of the club, a resolution requesting that a portion of land owned by the city at Ninety-eighth avenue and "B" street, be turned into a public playground and park, was planned unanimously by the club and a copy sent to the city commissioners. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the City of Oakland has a country-wide reputation for her beautiful parks and playgrounds, and has just reason to be proud of the provision she has made for the rest and recreation of her hosts of citizens and visitors, and in making provision that her large citizenship may benefit from the fresh air and sunshine of California's balmy climate; still in the distribution of these very worthy improvements, that part of the city known as the Elmhurst district has been overlooked.

"At the present time the nearest park which is available to the residents of the Elmhurst district is at Seventeenth avenue, or a distance of about four miles.

"The city owns a beautiful plot of ground at Ninety-eighth avenue and "B" street, which is two blocks south from the Elmhurst car barns, which was purchased by the city some six years ago for a park, but never has been improved, so it could be used as such.

"The Board of Park Commissioners in their estimate for the next fiscal year, have asked the City Council for an appropriation of $5540 for the improvement of this plot of ground known as Elmhurst plaza, and for the building of comfort stations thereon.

"We, therefore, respectfully ask the Board of City Commissioners, in making up the budget for the next fiscal year, to provide the funds asked for by the Board of Park Commissioners for the specific improvement of Elmhurst plaza, that we may have the same excellent park accommodations as are enjoyed by other parts of the city.

"Therefore, be it regularly moved, seconded and unanimously adopted by the Elmhurst Community Club, at the regular meeting held in Red Men's Hall, Ninety-fourth avenue and East Fourteenth street, on Tuesday, July 12, 1921, that this request be forwarded to the Commissioner of Revenue and Finance, who now has the budget under consideration, with the request that it be placed before the honorable Mayor and Board of City Commissioners when they reach the consideration of the budget."

Seattle Council to Cut Employees' Wage

SEATTLE, July 27. — Salaries of all employees of the city of Seattle will be cut $10 a month and wages of day laborers employed by the city 35 cents a day, the City Council, sitting as a committee of the whole, decided. The salary and wage reductions amount to one-half the increase granted all employees on a flat rate in October, 1919, to meet increased cost of living.

Appeals Court to Decide Whether Dancing Is Wicked

SACRAMENTO, July 27.—(United Press.) — The Third District Court of Appeals here must decide whether old-fashioned folk dances are good physical training or whether they are vulgar and ruinous to the morals of school children.

C. C. Hardwick refused to permit his children, Irma, 13, and Douglas, 9, to learn the dances in the Fruitridge school, Sacramento county.

The school authorities expelled the children. Hardwick sued the school trustees for $500 and asked the reinstatement of his children. The lower court gave judgment to the trustees.

Hardwick declares his children were really being taught the terrible "two-step," the infamous "fox trot" and the wicked "waltz."

The school trustees declare the dances were harmless and were good exercise and were not "ballroom dances in any sense or to any degree."

Hardwick appealed the case and now the District Court of Appeals must decide the question.

MERGER OF STATE OFFICES PLANNED

SACRAMENTO, July 27.—Governor Stephens will be asked to approve a plan providing for the amalgamation of the offices of county sealer of weights and measures and county horticultural commissioner in twenty-three counties of the state, it was announced by George W. Hecke, director of the state department of agriculture. The plan has been worked out with Robert Melvin, state sealer of weights and measures, and counties of the thirty-sixth to fifty-eighth classes, inclusive, will be affected.

The effect of the change will be to give the officer an increase in pay by allowing him more working days, Hecke said.

Under governmental reorganization laws effective Friday at midnight, county horticultural commissioners will hereafter be chosen by boards of supervisors from an eligible list prepared by the department of agriculture. Examinations to create an eligible list for commissioners and deputy were announced as follows: Los Angeles, August 15 and 16; Fresno, August 18 and 19; San Francisco, August 22 and 23; Sacramento, August 25, 26 and 27; Red Bluff, August 29 and 30.

20 Rabid Dogs Are Killed in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—Fourteen persons have received Pasteur treatment because of possible rabies in and near Los Angeles in the past few days, and the city health department last night issued a statement that examinations of the heads of twenty dogs killed here had established rabies in each case.

The statement was issued with an emphatic warning to parents to guard their children from possible attacks by infected animals.

BLAME POOR MAN.

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—Ninety-nine out of every 100 women who commit crimes do it because of some man. This is the opinion of Mrs. Mary C. Moore, a police matron, who adds that most women "want to be good and simply have not the real criminal instinct."

4 DEATHS LAID TO N. Y. WEATHER

NEW YORK, July 27.—Oppressive heat and a violent storm; which broke over the city shortly before night fall, were held responsible yesterday for one drowning, one death by prostration and two suicides. The thermometer rose to a temperature of 88 degrees shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon and fell 11 degrees during the storm, which lasted for nearly two hours, to the accompaniment of a violent electrical display. The humidity hovered about 45 during the hottest period of the day.

In Brooklyn, Mrs. Elizabeth Lance, 26 years old, terrified by the lightning, committed suicide and attempted to end the life of her 4-year-old daughter by turning on the gas in her bedroom.

Earlier in the day, J. W. Brehm, a bank teller, shot and killed himself while at work. He had complained from the heat a short time before.

Harry Heres, 79 years old, died of heat prostration in Newark, and John Gallagher, 38 years old, of Bayonne, was drowned when he left his work to escape the heat by a swim in the Kill Von Kull.

SPEED FINAL SETTLEMENT.

President Harding's message to Congress yesterday is a simple request to the Legislative body to grant authority of law for certain necessary acts in connection with the performance of the government's share of solving the railway and farm problems. The government is in a position to discharge its obligations in this connection so far as the financial burdens are concerned, but it lacks the statutory power to pursue the necessary methods.

The President informed Congress that authority for the War Finance Corporation to fund debts to the railroads and those owned by the railroad to the government would involve no new expenditure of federal funds or increase in taxation. No added expense or added investment is required. It is only necessary that authority be granted the War Finance Corporation to purchase securities, for which purpose it already has the necessary capital, and thus to liquidate in an easy and practical manner the debits and credits existing in the long standing and somewhat involved account between the federal government and the railroads.

Considerable money is long overdue the railroads from the government on account of the terms under which the railroads were taken over for war time operation, and under the provisions of the subsequent act of Congress, returning them to their private owners. The claims unpaid now amount to nearly $200,000,000. The main cause for their not having been adjusted is the differences between the railroads' claims and the opinions of government officials as to what is fair compensation under the terms of the law. The government, as usual, does not pay unless the payee is willing to accept its view of what is right or until a court order is issued.

Under the plan which the President has recommended to Congress, and which has the approval of the federal director of railroads, the Department of Commerce and the private owners of the roads, the financial difficulties of the roads which might be solved if the government paid at once all that is due from it, can be met by funding of debts and the flotation of railroad securities through the War Finance Corporation.

At the same time, Congress is asked to amplify the powers of the War Finance Corporation with a view to affording a larger measure of relief to the farming and live stock industries. A bill drafted by Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Chairman Meyer of the War Finance Corporation was introduced in the Senate yesterday immediately after the receipt of the President's message. It is expected that quick action will follow and in line with the President's wishes.

While the proposed action of Congress has been sought after careful examination and deliberation by the President and his cabinet, and the new legislation is palpably needed as to the railroad situation, Congress will not act in an unseemly manner if it fixes a limit to the use of the authority sought. The government should have been clear of its railroad problem before now. But it is not and any step that is calculated to facilitate final withdrawal of government financial support and the putting of the railroads entirely upon their own resources is to be applauded. Congress should see to it that finality is a feature of present plans.

As to financial aid to agriculture and the live stock industry, there is sound objection to extending the government's active assistance as a banker. The danger is in precedent. If a government agency advances large sums of money to these industries in the present emergency, there will be no cause for surprise if in the future other industries—such as the oil or the steel business, for examples—should raise a plea for assistance.

In this case there is strong argument for favorable action on the ground that the war reaction has hit agriculture and live stock harder than anything else. But this is only an excuse and Congress should safeguard the future by giving it only temporary recognition.

A billion dollars is due the United States treasury from Europe as interest on the war credits. Even this item of interest would help considerably in making the annual burden of taxes lighter, if the Allied governments would only pay it.

LAW ALONE IS KING.

It is not perfectly clear that Governor Len Small of Illinois originated the idea that he was superior to the law of the commonwealth he was elected to preside over in an official capacity. But certainly he gave his approval to this foolish contention of his attorneys.

His lawyers went into court and said in so many words that he could not be arrested and brought before a judicial tribunal to answer to indictments charging him with mis-handling of State funds; they claimed that, being governor, the law could not be applied against him. He would legally resist arrest, they said, by calling out the militia to protect him against falling into the hands of the sheriff of the county in which the alleged crime was committed.

All this and more they uttered to the effect that, if only a governor of Illinois in office, a person might commit every felony in the category of crime and still go untried and unpunished. But a judge by the common name of Smith has answered this contention put forward in the name of a governor named, apparently with cutting propriety, Small.

Judge Smith says there is no man in Illinois above the law of Illinois, that no man is immune against arrest for commission of felonious offenses. He reproaches the governor's lawyers for quoting the ancient maxim, "A king can do no wrong," and reminds them that in the American republic no elected official has reached that exalted state where he can claim the immunity of a king.

Assuming that the judge who would hear the application for a warrant for the indicted State officials of Illinois would be an honest judge, this interpretation of the law was generally expected. It is not only a sound judicial verdict; it is sound common sense also. The indictments returned against Governor Small, the lieutenant governor and certain bank officials, charge the mis-handling of some $10,000,000, by which about $2,500,000 is not satisfactorily accounted for. It is possible that this two and a half million dollars of the State funds has been embezzled, diverted to private pockets. Indeed, this is the implication of the indictments.

What a sorry pass would be reached in this Republic if the claim that a governor who is responsible for such a deed is above the law should be upheld. The thing is unthinkable.

Governor Small may be lacking in self-reliance. He may decide to follow the advice of counsel and attempt to call out the militia to "protect" him against being hauled to court to answer the charges against him. But if he has the least regard for his State, for the high office he temporarily occupies, for the law of which he is supposedly the high representative, he will not attempt any foolish precedents.

And should he decide to defy the law and fortify himself in the capital, it may reasonably be expected that the State militia will not obey his orders. The militia exists for the enforcement and the maintenance of the law and good order. Judge Smith has indicated that orders to the militia to defend Governor Small would be illegal. The militia is obligated to obey only lawful orders.

Already a saddening impression has been given by the evidence that the governor of Illinois is afraid to encounter the law and the courts. Other governors, if there are any such, who are contemplating infringing the law should take a lesson from the unfortunate events in Illinois.

TO DEVELOP A CITIZEN ARMY

In his letter to the corps area commanders, made public today, General Pershing has defined in their broad outlines, the duties in time of peace of the Regular Army, and the officers of the Regular Establishment, under the general terms of the law. The Regular Establishment, as the Chief of Staff points out, is barely sufficient, at its newly appointed strength of 150,000, to provide a small mobile force, and a skeleton organization under which the land forces of the nation may be rapidly expanded in a time of national emergency. The primary duty of all regular officers is to see that the United States has always available "a highly efficient and well-trained Regular Army." When they have discharged this duty, the further obligation remains to develop, expand and strengthen the citizen armies of the Republic, consisting of the National Guard and the Organized Reserves. The work, in short, of the regular officers does not stop with the organization and training of the regular units to which they are assigned. It is no less their function to bring their professional knowledge to bear in keeping the citizen armies at all times prepared to take the field as part of the fighting forces of the nation.

For the Army of the United States, as laid down by law, consists of the permanent forces, the National Guard and the Organized Reserves. Each has its proper place and function in the National Army, of which each is a component part. Neither rivalry nor jealousy should array one of these elements against the other; on the contrary, the Regular Army should co-operate with the National Guard and the Organized Reserves in the common endeavor to provide the American people with an efficient military force upon which they can call in time of national peril. A spirit of teamwork and co-operation between all three elements of the National Army should speedily bring into being such a military force; and the logical place to develop this kind of teamwork, as General Pershing insists, is in the corps areas, and upon the commanders of the corps areas falls the responsibility of taking the needed initiative.

As a people we must rely for our military defense upon the expansion of the National Guard and the Organized Reserves. If expanded to the strength authorized by Congress, these two elements in our system of national defense should give us upwards of a million men for our citizen armies. Under the supervision and direction of General Pershing and his staff, the divisions and other units of the Organized Reserves and the National Guard are being organized in each of the corps areas into which continental United States is divided. But this is all the War Department can do. It cannot, by issuing an order, recruit these reserve units to their appointed strength. In order to make successful the plans for the creation of a citizen army, the young men of America must come forward in large numbers, and as volunteers, enlist in the Organized Reserves and in the National Guard.—Boston Transcript.

NOTES and COMMENT

The centennial anniversary of the independence of Peru occurs tomorrow. We are now coming upon the time when such anniversaries for the South and Central American republics are falling due. It is proper that this nation, which preceded them and set the example, should join in their celebrations, though it may seem queer, considered in the abstract, that we should send our participating delegations in battleships, as we have done in this instance.

Two accounts of persons coming to grief in nature's rugged haunts—one falling from a Yosemite cliff and two lost in Canadian wilds. Those inured to the soft comforts of civilization venture into the rough regions without due realization of the dangers that are possible, it would seem. Man is a long way from the period of his development when he found it altogether safe going amid such scenes.

The editor of the Richmond Record-Herald comes right out: "Rumania is to pass laws permitting plural marriages, says the cable. The only Rumanian women we have ever seen were gypsies, ragged out in blue, red and yellow calico, telling fortunes, dirty as pigs and stealing anything portable if not red hot. We'd sooner die than marry one of them, much less two or three."

The Governor of Illinois apparently has thought again as to his authority to call out the militia to guard his person from arrest. Governors really are not sacred and immune, and especially the kind that sometimes get in the saddle in Illinois. But this instance shows that on occasion they are able to go considerable lengths in the assumption that they are.

It is significant of the impression made by General Wood on the Filipinos that leading natives want him appointed Governor. There is a faction that clamors for independence, but it seems that the stable interests there want a level-headed, just and strong man—one who will not let the affairs go at loose ends, as they have been going for eight years.

Now he is mostly along in years, somewhat battered in appearance and in some instances with a record which includes a former experience with an American wife and a journey through the divorce court. The bauble of a title still has its charms, whatever it may be borne by.

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

It was reported that the Western Pacific has purchased the San Francisco, Napa and Calistoga electric railroad, the line that connects Vallejo and Calistoga. The fact that the Western Pacific recently took over the Sacramento Northern holdings indicates that the company is in the market for electric railroads, and it is possible that steps will be taken by the company to join the Sacramento Northern branch at Suisun with the San Francisco, Napa and Calistoga line at Napa Junction.—Vacaville Reporter.

Forty-one divorces were granted in New York at the rate of four an hour. The applicants filled out standardized questionnaires and each case was disposed of with machine-like precision. The latest is that real estate dealers selling houses with furniture must pay an extra license tax of $50. That the surprise was sprung at this late date, whereas it takes effect retroactively to January 1, 1919, indicates that the revenue collectors themselves may have just discovered this provision.—Palo Alto Times.

The traffic laws are being rigidly enforced in Contra Costa county. AND THEN HE LOOKED ON THE OTHER SIDE.

RUBBER

The United States manufactured enough rubber tires during the year ending June 20, 1920, to supply the millions of cars that are skimming over her splendid road and also to ship about $40,000,000 worth of them to ports the world over from bonny Scotland to volcano-torn Java.

"Crude rubber comes to our shores free of duty from places equally as divergent in latitude," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Brazil contributed more than 5,000,000 of the 575,000,000 pounds which we receive each year, the Dutch East Indies an equal or slightly larger amount, and the British Straits Settlements nearly five times as much as either of these, while sundry contributions of balata, guayule gum, gutta-jelutong, gutta percha and india rubber come from Japan, Belgian Congo, French Africa, Venezuela, Mexico, Panama, Peru, the British possessions, and many other countries.

"The discovery of rubber, or caoutchouc, is attributed to Columbus, who reported that he had found the natives of Haiti playing with balls that bounced. Priestley, the great English chemist, found, while experimenting with the substance, that it would erase lead pencil marks. For want of a better name, he dubbed it rubber, and the name has stuck and is used almost exclusively in English-speaking countries.

"The large balls or loaves of raw rubber imported to America are made, not from the sap as is ordinarily supposed, but from the milk of the rubber trees. The hydrocarbonous substance when it first comes from the trees reminds one of the juice that comes from the everyday milkweed.

"The Para rubber, one of the best of the grades of raw rubber, which got its name from the port of Brazil from which so much of it is shipped, is obtained from trees that thrive in the hot damp forests of the Amazon. Many of the trees measure from 8 to 10 feet in girth and 60 feet in height. The leaves are three-lobed and the flowers small and inconspicuous.

"Rubber collectors go through the forests and pick out the trees to be tapped, cut several notches in each and fix below the notch a cup to catch the milk, which immediately begins to flow. After a few hours the flow ceases and the cups are emptied into a larger receptacle. A fire is lighted and the nuts of various kinds of palm trees are thrown on it in order to make a dense smoke. Then the natives dip paddles in the rubber latex and hold them in the smoke until the fluid coagulates and forms a thin layer on the paddle. The paddle is dipped into the latex again and again and smoked until a sufficiently large quantity of rubber is collected. It is then removed and rolled into loaves for export. It comes to the manufacturer in this form, brown or black on the outside, gray on the inside, and with a peculiar smoked-fish odor. Inferior grades of rubber usually have a very disagreeable smell.

"Natives of Africa frequently covered their bodies with the latex and scraped the rubber off after there had been sufficient evaporation, and molded it into cubes, but at the present time excellent machines for coagulating the product have been put into use.

"Though its properties have long been known, rubber has just within the last century come into every-day practical use. Mackintosh, a canny Scotchman, in 1823 dissolved some rubber in naphtha and spread the solution on a marble slab to dry. He then fastened his rubber sheet between two pieces of fabric and introduced the world to the raincoat.

"But it was left for Charles Goodyear, an ardent enthusiast over the possibilities of rubber, who plunged his fortune into the game and died discredited, to make possible the over-shoe and the automobile tire. He had mixed some rubber and sulphur and while dissertating on the wonderful qualities of the substance, he let some of the mixture fall upon the door of the red-hot stove near which he was standing. Casually looking down on what he had spilled, he noted with amazement that it had hardened without melting.

"Frantically grabbing a knife he scraped the residue from the stove. His friends thought they had seen him suddenly become insane, particularly as they already regarded him more or less unbalanced on the subject, but he had discovered that it was possible to vaulcanize rubber—a process which makes it no longer sensitive to the changes of the seasons and increases its strength and elasticity."

About YOUR HEALTH

What Weighing a Child May Tell About Development

By ROYAD S. COPELAND, M. D., Commissioner of Health, New York City.

In every household should be a pair of scales. These should be used, not to give mother a daily reminder of her increasing weight, but to keep track of the physical progress of the children.

So far as mother is concerned, there can be no possible objection to her using the scales under certain conditions. If she will employ the information gained by frequent weighing to modify her diet and direct her exercises, the scales will serve a useful purpose. But if the weight indicated by the truthful balance is a cause of lamentation and mourning, it were better to forget about the scales. You should acquire or lose flesh in peace and tranquility, unless you have stamina enough to correct your tendency.

As a subject for conversation, increasing fatness or leanness is certainly prolific in results. It is an index of health capable of being put to good use.

In children the surest guarantee of health and physical prosperity is increasing weight. There should be steady, uninterrupted gain. When there is failure to add weight the child should be looked over by the family doctor.

Every schoolroom or schoolhouse should be equipped with scales and a measuring rod. It is not enough to look the child over and to give an offhand report as to his condition. Too many feeble adults and chronic invalids have conditions dating back to childhood. It should be a matter of routine in every school to have records made of each child's weight and height.

Needless to say, such records are of no value unless some practical use is made of them. The teacher should be enough interested in her pupils to notify the parents of any discovered defect. It should be part of the system in every school where there is no attending doctor or nurse to have the teacher supervise this feature.

Between the ages of 6 and 12 the child should gain about five pounds a year, or about half a pound a month. During the next four or five years the gain is greater, perhaps a pound a month for boys and not quite so much for girls.

If the gain is morbidly less there is something wrong, and its nature should be determined at once. It is foolish to let these precious months of physical development go to waste. Weight and height, chest and limb development, if not progressively added, are likely not to be added at all.

The most common and most important cause for lack of development lies in the diet. Wrong food and insufficient food are equally bad. The wrong time for eating is another serious fault.

Regular meals, slowness in eating and nourishing foods are essential. Candy is not harmful in itself, but when eaten between meals it ruins the appetite for more important foods.

Tea and coffee or "cambric tea" are not substitutes for milk. Let it be remembered that milk is not a beverage alone—it is one of the vital foods, the most important of the vital foods.

Use the scales at least once a month, and take heed what they register.

A CENSOR CENSORED.

Perhaps the most ingenious of British humorists is the official examiner of plays. He objects to "Mecca" on the ground that the name might offend the religious susceptibilities of the Mohammedans. He also ruled against a revival of the "Mikado" for fear it would prejudice the Anglo-Japanese alliance.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

BRIDGE PLAN DIVERTS CITY TRAFFIC, VIEW

Eastbay Engineers Assert the Present Terminal Would Turn Natural Commerce Away; Meeting Tomorrow

To present the report of the Eastbay engineers embodying their opinion as to the general movement for bridging San Francisco bay, and to discuss the attitude of the general committee in regard to joining forces with the San Francisco boosters who are seeking a war department investigation of bay bridge projects and possibilities, a meeting of the Eastbay general bay bridge committee has been called for tomorrow at 10 a. m.

The meeting was called today by Marston Campbell, chairman of the committee, and will be held in Campbell's offices with the construction department of the Board of Education, at Twelfth and Webster streets.

REPORT TO BE WRITTEN.

Campbell said today that the Eastbay engineers' sub-committee had practically completed its consideration of the bay bridge situation and that all that remains now is the written formulation of the report. The writing of the report will follow the discussion of the conclusion at which the engineers have arrived at the general committee meeting tomorrow. The formal presentation of the written report of the Eastbay engineers' sub-committee is to be presented Monday to the San Francisco engineers' committee.

It is understood that the first objections to the Davies-Modjeski plan made by Campbell and others, that the plan would divert traffic from Oakland, and that cutting, as it does, across the south central portion of Alameda, the industrial district of West Oakland and Emeryville and Berkeley would be poorly served by such a project, are embodied in the report of the Eastbay engineers.

WANT U. S. IDEAS.

Supervisor Richard J. Welch, chairman of the general bridge committee of San Francisco, yesterday afternoon conferred with Campbell and Joseph H. King, president of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, to inquire the attitude of the Eastbay committeemen in regard to a general war department study of the bay bridge situation, without reference to approval or disapproval of the Davies-Modjeski proposals.

It is this question which will be put to the Eastbay general committee at its meeting tomorrow along with the discussion of the conclusions of the Eastbay engineers. According to several general committeemen, there will probably be no objection on the part of the Eastbay to a general study of bay bridging projects by the war department; in fact, such a study, so long as it is undertaken by responsible authorities and involves just consideration to all feasible projects, is one of the things that the Eastbay engineers recommend before formal indorsement of any plan.

Feminine Dynamo Writes, Plays, Paints, Sings, Seeks More Jobs

MRS ELMER M. WOODBURY of San Francisco, "busiest woman in California," who paints, sings, writes plays and does newspaper work. In addition she has worked as art director in the movies and has been queen of five carnivals.

Wife of San Francisco Hotel Manager Masters Arts and Trades.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Jacks-of-all-trades there are many, and now comes a "Jill-of-all-trades" in the person of Mrs. Elmer M. Woodbury, wife of the manager of a well-known hotel of this city, whose activities range from wielding a paint brush to warbling a vocal solo. Thanks to equal suffrage, feminism and other contributing factors to sex equality, the women are about as busy in various spheres as the men. California women are among the busiest on the globe and Mrs. Woodbury has been called "the busiest woman in California."

Mrs. Woodbury is a playwright of unusual ability, it is said. In addition, she is a newspaper correspondent and a singer and has been the queen of five different carnivals.

Sandwiched between these various interesting activities comes what is perhaps Mrs. Woodbury's favorite avocation—that of improving the appearance of the hotel of which her husband is manager, by painting mural decorations and lamp shades and otherwise beautifying the interior of the hostelry.

A short time ago Mrs. Woodbury added another role to her repertory. She went to Los Angeles, where she acted as art director for a hotel scene in "The Half-Breed," an Oliver Morosco production. In this work there was evidenced the same artistry and thoroughness of detail as that which has marked her other endeavors, it is said.

Second Jury Unable To Convict Suspect

For the second time within six weeks a jury was unable to agree upon the guilt or innocence of Irving Fisher, accused of attempting to hold up John Souza's soft drink parlor, 538 Peralta street, on the night of February 28. After two days spent hearing testimony the jury, at 10:30 o'clock last night, reported itself unable to agree and asked to be discharged, which was done. Seven jurors held for his acquittal while five wished to find him guilty. At the former trial of the case, begun on June 13, the jury stood nine to three for acquittal.

Fisher is accused with Harry Hiden, who is also in jail on a similar charge, of attempting to rob Souza as he was preparing to close up for the night. Souza resisted and the would-be robbers were driven off. In this trial, as in the first, much difficulty was found in securing testimony from witnesses because of the fact that the majority of them spoke little or no English and it was necessary to use interpreters.

PIGEON WITH CIVIC MESSAGE AMONG MISSING

Who ate the carrier pigeon sent out by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce?

The chamber isn't so anxious to prosecute the slayer of the pigeon as it is to get the message the pigeon carried to the proper destination. Will the nimrod who slew the pigeon send the message to the Livermore Chamber of Commerce by mail?

Anyway, the Oakland Chamber of Commerce is through with pigeons as messengers. On Saturday, July 16, the chamber had a very important message to transmit to the Livermore organization. A pigeon was secured from Livermore for the purpose. The pigeon flew in the direction of Livermore and disappeared. There begins the mystery. What became of the messenger, no one knows. The Livermore organization is still waiting for the message to arrive.

FEARS DEATH AT HANDS OF BOOZE RING

Confessed Participant in $12,000 Liquor Theft Asks for Term in Penitentiary to Escape Vengeance of Gang

SAN JOSE, July 27. — Pleading that he be given a penitentiary sentence, declaring that if he were set at liberty he would be "bumped off" by the "higher-ups" of a San Francisco bootlegging ring, William F. Burke, taken into custody by local officials in connection with the theft of a truckload of alcohol, valued at $12,000 Saturday morning, reiterated his confession today, and requested that mercy be shown to the truck driver, "who was 'in' on the deal."

The truck driver, who is also being held in connection with the robbery, is Hal Spalding of San Francisco, who was discovered late Saturday after the truck, containing the contraband had been stolen, wandering about the highway, cut and bruised.

Spalding told a story of having been stopped, while he was driving his truck to San Francisco, by two men, who beat him into unconsciousness and left him, tied and gagged, in a deserted barn.

After having been cross-examined for several hours yesterday by Sheriff George Lyle, Spalding broke down and confessed that he was aware of the plot of the robbery and was working with the bootleggers.

ALLEGED LEADER FIRM IN DENIAL.

At the same time Louis Scharetg, San Francisco, garage keeper and drayman, arrested by the authorities in connection with the same robbery and declared by both Burke and Spalding to be the "brains" of a supposed San Francisco liquor gang, remained fixed in his denial, declaring that he knows absolutely nothing about the whole case.

Today the sheriff was again subjecting Scharetg to a grilling cross-examination, in hope of breaking down his reserve and securing a confession which will lead to a wholesale apprehension of other men suspected of complicity in the robbery. With Burke's and Spalding's confessions theories advanced Saturday night that the robbery was an "inside job" were strengthened.

Scharetg's denials were made today in the face of positive identification of him by Burke and J. Benson, a Mountain View youth implicated as a driver of the second truck involved in the robbery. Burke swears that Scharetg is the "brains" of the San Francisco bootlegging world and that it was under his orders that he worked when he (Burke) persuaded Hal Spalding, driver for the Highway Transportation Company, to carry out the theft and frame the story of highway robbery.

MISSION DISTRICT BARN, HEADQUARTERS.

Benson declares emphatically that Scharetg is the man who met him in the Mission district. San Francisco, when he reached there with the truckload of alcohol Saturday, and piloted him to a barn owned by Scharetg in Twenty-second street, near Kentucky street, where the alcohol was left by Benson. Benson further alleges that Scharetg paid him $100 cash for the delivery of the alcohol.

With the sympathy of Sheriff Lyle and other officers already aroused in behalf of Spalding, the young driver who played the leading role in the supposed alcohol holdup telling officers of having been beaten, chloroformed, gagged, tied and left in a vacant barn after the robbery, William Burke today came to the further "rescue" of the confessed youth by corroborating in every detail the story told by Spalding when he broke down after many hours of cross examination by Sheriff Lyle.

Burke said today that he had taken an "unfair advantage" of Spalding's financial condition in order to persuade him to aid in the plot to steal the $12,000 worth of alcohol. He said he had approached Spalding in the guise of an insurance agent and that during the ensuing conversation he "wormed" out of Spalding his financial condition.

The young driver recently suffered a financial loss which hit him heavily. His wife has been in poor health and he has a daughter three years old to support.

WIFE GRIEVED BUT REMAINS LOYAL.

Mother and child visited Spalding at the county jail yesterday afternoon and again today. Mrs. Spalding was torn with grief over her husband's predicament but declared that she would stand loyally by him.

Burke, in making his confession to Sheriff Lyle, declared he hoped a penitentiary sentence awaits him, expressing fears for his life if he should by some chance gain his freedom.

"They would 'bump me off' in a minute now after what I've told," he declared, adding that by "they" he meant the "higher-ups" in the bootleg world.

Burke declared that Scharetg has been involved in similar cases to the one under investigation for some time. He accuses the San Franciscan of having been implicated in the theft of seven barrels of alcohol from a San Francisco warehouse several months ago after it had been taken to that city by a truck from the Western Industries plant here.

Burke told Sheriff Lyle today that Scharetg has been receiving as high as $2000 per barrel, bootleg prices, for alcohol in the bay cities. He declared that he, himself, was to have received as high as $400 per barrel for all alcohol successfully delivered to Scharetg.

Attempt to Break $80,000 Will Failure

The windup of the famous Rendell case, in which the will of Mrs. Hannah Rendell, who left an estate of more than $80,000, was unsuccessfully attacked, came today when Superior Judge E. C. Robinson approved the account of the executors and ordered final distribution.

Elmer Hill and Mrs. Florence Martin, nephew and niece, who had been given a big share of the estate in a previous will, but who were cut off with $1 each in the last will, charged unsoundness of mind and that Mrs. Martha S. Wise, another heir, exercised undue influence over Mrs. Rendell. Attorney Bert Schiessinger and Judge Herbert D. Wise, brother-in-law of Mrs. Martha S. Wise, showed that Mrs. Rendell had become incensed against Hill and Mrs. Martin and had disinherited them because they attempted, unsuccessfully, to have her declared incompetent.

A notable feature of the case was the fact that $40,000 of Mrs. Rendell's wealth was in a joint account in the names of herself and Mrs. Martha Wise, the contestants attempting in vain to have this money declared a part of the estate.

A majority of the jurors voted to break the will on the ground that Mrs. Rendell was of unsound mind, but Judge Lincoln S. Church declared this conclusion was in direct opposition to the evidence, set aside the verdict and granted a new trial. The second trial was set down on the calendar but the contestants failed to appear. Mrs. Wise was vindicated of all charges and her contentions completely sustained.

Judge Robinson granted Judge Robinson granted Judge Wise, attorney for the heirs, $1500 as compensation today. The property, outside of the joint bank account, was left in equal shares to thirteen nephews and nieces, of whom Mrs. Wise was one.

TWO L. A. WOMEN FACE TRIAL TODAY AS MURDERERS

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—Erie Mullicane, a young woman charged with the murder of her nameless babe, went on trial here today before a jury in the Superior Court.

Before the trial started the district attorney announced that he had caused the defendant to be examined by alienists, who had reported to him that she was temporarily insane when she strangled her baby, as she confessed in writing after her arrest. The district attorney said that because of this opinion he would not press for a heavy penalty, but that he felt the case should be passed on by a jury and therefore he did not seek its dismissal.

Mrs. Edith Lundberg, a young widow, was also on trial today, charged with the murder of Linas Worden by shooting him. Her case was expected to go to the jury today. State and defense alienists testified yesterday that Mrs. Lundberg was insane when she killed Worden and then attempted suicide, seriously wounding herself.

New Beer Regulations Are Expected Soon

WASHINGTON, July 27. — Announcement was made by Internal Commissioner Blair of his policy on the question of medicinal beer regulations will be made in the next few days. The commissioner is also working out the final form the beer regulations might take which it is understood provide in general for prescriptions of one case at one time but without limit as to the number of the prescriptions. According to Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, however, the probability of the eventual issuance of beer regulations is slight. There was apparently little desire on the part of the brewers' view of the pending Dostill-Willis-Campbell bill.

CITY ORDERS MARKET TO CLOSE DOORS

So-Called Farmers' Sales Place At 19th Street and Telegraph Ave., Insanitary, Says Commissioner F. Colbourn

Commissioner of Public Health and Safety Frank Colbourn today instructed City Market Inspector Harry Smith to proceed at once toward the closing of the so-called farmers' market at Nineteenth street and Telegraph avenue, following a personal visit to the market by the commissioner.

Colbourn said today the sanitary ordinances of the city are not being complied with.

"The market is nothing but a sales lot and in many respects does not comply with the city sanitary code," said Colbourn today. "Their violation of the law is not to be tolerated and I have ordered the city market inspector to close the market at once unless immediate action is taken by those in charge toward remedying the features which do not comply with the law.

"It is unfair to the merchants of the city who are selling good fruit under proper sanitary conditions to allow anyone to do business in the way the sales lot at Nineteenth street and Telegraph avenue is being conducted," Colbourn said.

Mooney, operator of the market, was arraigned in police court today following his arrest by Patrolman D. H. Hall on July 23 on a charge of violation of the Apple Standardization Act. He plead not guilty and his trial was set for July 29 by Police Judge Edward J. Tyrrell.

In discussing the Mooney sales lot, Colbourn said today that little produce is being shipped there by the farmers of the county and that it was the practice of the market operators to buy perishable goods in the commission market at the close of the business day.

Laundry Sued for $30,000 Damages

Recompense amounting to $30,000 for personal injuries, sustained when run over by an auto belonging to the New Process French Laundry Company, is asked in a suit filed by G. Scott against the proprietors of the laundry.

The complaint declares that while Miss Scott was crossing the street at East Twelfth street and Fifth avenue on July 27 last year she was struck, knocked down and run over by an automobile belonging to the New Process French Laundry Company. The plaintiff suffered injury to her spine, her feet were crushed and her eyesight has been affected by her injuries, she avers, which confined her to her bed for nearly six weeks.

Experts to Confer On Pelagra in South

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(United Press).—Health officers from practically all Southern states will meet in Washington with representatives of the United States health service and officers of the Red Cross to discuss the pelagra situation in the South, it was stated today at the offices of Surgeon General Cummings of the health service.

The conference will be held within a few days.

A Charge Account if you wish

It is quite the usual thing to find men and women of good standing who are without much ready cash. Most people necessarily figure a long time ahead in spending their incomes.

So when they come to make necessary jewelry purchases they have not enough ready money to cover the full cost. Take the case of the young business man about to become engaged. Savings accounts, insurance premiums, living expenses absorb most of his income. But he wants to buy an engagement ring.

That is where our policy of allowing "A Charge Account If You Wish" comes in. At our store he can buy a perfect blue-white diamond of any size and pay for it over a period of months. He need not wait until he has accumulated the full purchase price.

Bride of Poet Keeler Is Injured By Gas Blast

MRS. CHARLES KEELER, bride of Berkeley poet and booster, who was burned by explosion of gas heater.

Young Woman Sustains Burns While Trying to Ignite Heater in Home.

BERKELEY, July 27.—A dainty dress is ruined, while Mrs. Charles Keeler, bride of Berkeley's well known poet, is suffering from shock and minor burns as a result of an explosion of a gas heater yesterday at the Keeler home at El Camino Real and the Uplands.

Mrs. Keeler, who was Ormelda Harrison before her marriage last month, was lighting a gas heater when she was thrown to the floor by the force of an explosion which followed. Presence of mind on her part saved her from more serious injury. She hastily turned off the gas and summoned aid.

Mrs. Keeler's injuries besides shock were found to consist of singed eyebrows and minor burns. The accident follows the return of the Keelers from their honeymoon. Keeler being at present secretary and managing director of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce.

Aged Nevada County Lumberman, Suicide

NEVADA CITY, July 27.—The body of Daniel Marsh, 82, a pioneer lumberman of this section, was found today hanging in a barn belonging to a company which he controlled. He had been despondent for several months, and, according to the authorities, had expressed a desire to die. He was a native of Ohio.

HESSE NAMED TO SUCCEED RALPH BEEBE

Formal Appointment Will Be Made Tomorrow to Fill the Vacancy On Civil Service Board; In Auto Business

Walter Hesse, Oakland automobile man, will be appointed tomorrow to fill the vacant chair on the Oakland Civil Service Board, to take the place of Ralph Beebe, who recently resigned, it was announced today by Mayor John L. Davie.

The appointment will be made from a long list of men whom Mayor Davie has been considering for several days, according to the statement from the mayor's office today. Hesse is a member of several Oakland clubs and prominent in business circles, having been in the automobile business in Oakland for several years.

The Civil Service Board, with the appointment of Hesse tomorrow, will be composed of John F. Chambers, Sophus Nelson, recently appointed to take the place of Harry Huber, whose term was completed, and Hesse, who will serve the unexpired term of Beebe, who resigned due to his going out of the city.

Denby Not Coming; Fleet Review Off

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Due to the announcement from Washington that Secretary of the Navy Denby has postponed his proposed trip to Alaska, Honolulu and the bay region, there will be no review of the Pacific fleet on San Francisco bay on September 1, as had been planned.

A flotilla of destroyers had been despatched to Seattle to carry Denby to Alaska, from where he was to have sailed on board the battleship New York to Honolulu, then to San Francisco to review the fleet.

A naval spectacle will be witnessed, however. The battleships Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico, Idaho, Oklahoma and Mississippi are to visit this port. Several other battleships are without orders, according to naval officers, and are expected to be ordered here soon.

The battleships Arizona, Nevada and Oklahoma are expected to arrive here on August 24. It will be their initial visit.

There are many employers who are willing to spend time and money in training a man, if they know he will stay after he becomes efficient.

SLAYER CLAIMS HE KILLED MAN THROUGH FRIGHT

Confession Clears Up Murder of Oklahoma Oil Operator.

LOS ANGELES, July 27.Richard West, who confessed to the slaying of Lem Smith, Texas and Oklahoma oil man, near Oatman, Arizona, last Sunday, will leave Los Angeles late today for Arizona in custody of Sheriff Mahoney of Kingman, according to plans announced by the sheriff. He will face a charge of murder, the sheriff said.

West told officers here he shot Smith, with whom he had traveled 1500 miles by automobile from Brownwood, Texas, through "fright."

"Smith had told me to get into the back of the car and go to sleep," he said. "A revolver he had got in trade for a shotgun at Kingman, was strapped to the outside of a traveling bag in the back of the car.

"I was asleep. I felt some one fingering my clothes and thought we were being robbed. I grabbed the revolver and started shooting. I don't know how many shots I fired. Then I saw Smith fall out the side of the car and the machine ran up the side of an embankment and stopped. When I got out Smith's shoulder was against the back wheel."

West said he made his way to Los Angeles by riding on freight trains and picking up rides with automobilists. He was arrested here when he claimed baggage said to have belonged to Smith and himself, expressed from Ludlow, Arizona.

BARROWS OPPOSED TO STUDENT FEES

BERKELEY, July 27.—The imposing of large fees on students in the University of California registered from other states was termed by Dr. David P. Barrows, president, as a "complete reversal of the generous and liberal attitude which had dominated the state for fifty years," this morning when he addressed the assembly of summer session students. Dr. Barrows declared himself against the policy while asserting that as the law of the state its provision must be obeyed. According to the University president, the collection of this fee would accomplish more harm than good.

Approximately 2000 students enter the university from other states annually, attracting some 1000 families, who become temporary residents and frequently permanent residents, Dr. Barrows said. Under the law passed at the last session of the legislature, he said, the university is obliged to impose a $500 fee on other than California resident students in the college of letters.

Because of a deficit of $750,000 through the action of Governor Stephens in vetoing two university bills a general fee of $25 a semester will be imposed on all students for gymnasium, infirmary and library privileges, Dr. Barrows announced.

One-third of the income during the coming two years will be devoted to develop agricultural work.

Missionary Work in Persia

Dr. H. P. Packard, of Urumiah, Persia, a medical missionary, who addressed the Presbyterian synod, now in session at Berkeley, yesterday, held the interest of the assembled delegates for more than an hour, with his story of the tasks and the perils, which he has encountered during his missionary work in the outlying districts of Persia.

"I believe that if I could show you something of the work of the hospital with which I am connected, you would be more interested in the work, and consider it more important. Again and again during those days of massacre, the Christians saw its value and began almost to believe it was the one thing that stood between them and extermination. One incident will reinforce that fact. It is the story of an attack by the Kurds during January of 1915.

"The Russians had packed their goods and departed, but the Christians up in the other end of town did not know of this and made preparations to stand off the attack, thinking that with the help of the Russians this would be possible. The Kurds were approaching from the south and the Christians were holding their own, when they learned of the departure of the Russians. Under the pressure of the Kurd horde they were gradually driven from all the outlying district to the largest of the villages. Can you imagine how busy we were at the hospital? Let me tell you of one patient.

MOTHER'S SACRIFICE.

"One devoted mother, living in a village fourteen miles distant, had a little daughter of 11, whom a Kurd desired as his captive, but this mother held to that little daughter, until, stabbed time and time again by his murderous dagger, she sank to the ground half dead, and saw her little girl, along with many others, dragged away into captivity.

"This is only one of many incidents. One morning I received an imperative message to come to a distant city and save it from a massacre at the hands of the Kurds. With two companions I left hurriedly for the scene of the attack. Through my friendship with some of the Kurd chieftains, I was able to get into their lines. On arriving at their camp I met an old brigand friend of mine. He kissed me on both cheeks and walked with me into the council. Here the fight for the lives of the Christians in the besieged village took place.

PLEADS FOR SLAUGHTER.

"A tall Kurd from Kurdistan, a lineal descendant of the prophet Mohammed, pleaded with the chiefs to proceed with the massacre. I was glad when this council met to see that there were some men in that group of five who had a little regard for the foreign doctor of the city of Urumiah, and that there was some gratitude for medical work done in the hospital. It was through this gratitude and regard that we were finally able to save the lives of the Christians.

"During a massacre I once saw a boy of seventeen years slaughtered by Kurds. While the blood was gushing from a slash in his side, I thought of Calvary, for as he died, a Mohammedan raised his hands on high and shook his fist, shouting 'where now is your Jesus Christ?'

"Are we going to accept this challenge? I believe every missionary has the same feeling of eagerness to go back as soon as there is any need, and I believe that this church, that has been responsible for that work, will say that the work shall be rebuilded better equipped and stronger than ever. I would stake my life that the love of God is more mighty among the nations than the sword of Mohammed."

Two Robbers Hold Up Shasta County Bank

REDDING, July 27.—The bank at Fall River Mills, Shasta county, a branch of the Lassen County Industrial Bank of Susanville, was robbed of $1032 at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The robbers escaped.

Two women clerks were alone in the bank when a man entered to get a check cashed. A second man stood guard.

As one of the clerks turned to get the cash for the check, the man ordered "hands up," and then gathered all the money in sight.

Walking to the door, he locked it, put the key in his pocket, sprang into a waiting automobile and sped away with his comrade. It was several minutes before the frightened women gave the alarm.

MAN CONFESSES KILLING FRIEND

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—Theodore West, 36, late last night confessed to deputy sheriffs here that he shot to death his companion, Lea Smith, whose body was found between Oatman and Ludlow, Ariz., early Sunday morning. Both were oil workers of Brownwood, Tex.

The confession was made to Deputy Sheriffs Fox and Nolan.

West had said he and Smith were riding in an automobile and that he fell asleep, but awakened, believing they were being held up. He fired, he told the police, and the automobile turned to the side of the road, tossing Smith out and pinning him down.

When learning his companion was dead, he said, he made his way to Los Angeles by picking up an automobile ride with three youths and by hopping on a freight train.

He was arrested here when he attempted to claim baggage belonging to him and Smith which he is said to have expressed from Ludlow.

NEW BIBLE INTRODUCED.

E. B. Williams and party of Los Angeles, who are traveling through California introducing a new version of the Bible, arrived in Oakland this week, and have been interviewing various pastors of the Eastbay churches.

According to Williams the concordant version is the product of sixteen years of patient work on the part of men who desired merely that the facts and nothing but the facts, untainted by human hands, be placed in every family throughout the world. The version is not a revision, he said, and is so arranged that it largely eliminates human opinion. An attempt has been made to reproduce each Greek character in a word in the English language.

The reproduction is sublinear, the Greek having its English translation above each symbol. Williams and his party, who are traveling in a large automobile van, will be in Oakland several days.

STRAWBERRY INSOMNIA.

LONDON, July 27.—Blame strawberries for summer insomnia. "The strawberry season," declared a well-known doctor, "is invariably heralded by a number of patients who complain they cannot sleep. MAN ACCUSED OF KILLING GIRL IN DANGER OF MOB

Sheriff Takes Steps to Protect Alleged Slayer of Step-Daughter.

GREELEY, Colo., July 27—William Riley Hill, arrested yesterday in Sioux City, Iowa, in connection with the murder near Eno, Colo., of his ten-year-old stepdaughter, Helen Maxine Shore, arrived here today in the custody of Sheriff A. Efi Mormeley of Adams county, and was lodged in the Weld county jail. The girl was slain in Adams county, but Hill was brought here for safe keeping.

Hill was taken from the train at Fort Morgan, Colo., 78 miles northeast of Denver, and rushed to this city in an automobile under heavy guard. He was to have been taken into Denver, but plans were changed when rumors reached here that feeling was running high there.

The body of the girl for whose murder Hill is being held, was found last Saturday in a ditch near Eno. She had been weighted down with pieces of iron. The coroner said she had been thrown into the ditch, which was filled with water, alive.

Hill was brought to jail here in leg irons. He appeared to be nervous and had nothing to say except, "they got the wrong man."

Sheriff Gormeley said a crowd had formed at the station at Fort Morgan when he arrived with him, but they avoided trouble by getting out of town immediately.

Telephone messages from Brighton, near where the child's body was found, reported talk of lynching Hill prevailed there.

Arrest to Back Up House Number Law in Martinez

Chamber of Commerce Puts On Determined Campaign for Ordinance.

MARTINEZ, July 27.—Determination to make arrests for non conformance to the house numbering law passed by the board of trustees recently resulted from a meeting held this morning by the house numbering committee of the Chamber of Commerce and Chief of Police Charles Palmer. Declaring that lack of proper house numbers in accordance with the law is a deterrent in several respects to the advancement of the city, members of the committee and the chief of police were firm in making their declaration that the law must be enforced.

A canvass of the city is to be made, it was said this afternoon, and all homes not bearing proper numbers will be listed. In order to give every one ample opportunity to secure numbers Chief Palmer has allowed a period of grace. This expires August 2. After that date arrests will be made, Palmer declared. Under the terms of the ordinance violation of the law is punishable by a fine not to exceed $25.

A meeting was also held this morning by the camp site committee and two possible locations for a tourist grounds were listed. A definite announcement of the sites was not made, however, pending investigation by committee members.

COUPLE MARRY WITH SIGNATURE OF CONTRACT

SEATTLE, July 27.—Dr. Leslie Spear, of the department of sociology at the University of Washington, and Miss Erna Gunther of Brooklyn, N. Y., have entered married life in a unique way, according to word received here.

They are legally married, but they, neither of them, promised to "love, honor, obey, cherish and protect." The magistrate who married them didn't "pronounce them man and wife."

Dr. Spear and Miss Gunther merely signed a marriage contract before a justice.

Family Has Narrow Escape in Smash

HAYWARD, July 27.—A near fatality occurred on the Hauschildt road, close to the edge of town, last evening when a team and wagon driven by J. D. Jones, and in which he and his family were returning home, collided with an automobile truck close to the Jones residence. The family was thrown out by the impact of the collision, but received no serious injuries. The brunt of the shock was borne by one of the horses, which is not expected to recover.

Night Watchman Schilling was notified of the accident and assisted in rendering first aid. The names of the truck owners have been withheld. It is said the responsibility for the accident rested with the men driving the truck. An investigation is being made by the local authorities.

Operation of Senate House Bill Held Up

SACRAMENTO, July 27.—Operation of the recently amended state housing act, Senate Bill 288, was held up pending a referendum through qualifying petitions filed today at the office of Secretary of State Jordan. Opposition to the measure was manifested by lumber interests, which interpret the bill as prohibiting the use of redwood or similar shingles on dwellings.

Two petitions, one from San Francisco county, bearing 19,382 signatures, and the other from Alameda county with 9806 names, made the required number of signatures to place the measure on the ballot at the next general election.

Two other measures which passed the last legislature will go on the ballot. They are the bill prohibiting performance of certain legal service by banks and trust companies, and the Wright prohibition enforcement bill.

Freeholders Prepare for County Dismemberment

If, under consolidation efforts as now is threatened, Alameda county is dismembered, the chief new unit city and county government formed under the proposed charter would be known as the City and County of Oakland.

In the remote event of a complete unifying of all the cities and the county into one government, the new entity would be known as the City and County of Alameda.

This, in effect, is the dictum of the Board of Freeholders, which today promulgated notice of a change in Section 1 of the charter draft, relating to name and boundaries.

Notice of the determination to use the name of Oakland, in the event of impending county division, and of Alameda, should the charter bring about the result the Freeholders seek, was issued today by Leon A. Clark, president of the Freeholders, in a letter.

READING OF SECTION.

The new first section of the charter, Clark says, now reads:

The county of Alameda, as its boundaries are described in section 3953 of the political code of the state of California, and the several municipalities therein, are hereby merged into one municipal government, and the inhabitants thereof shall be a body politic and corporate. The name of said municipal government shall be the Coty and County of Alameda, provided that this charter be adopted over the entire county of Alameda. But if said charter be adopted only over a lesser area than the entire county of Alameda then the name of the municipal government herein provided shall be the City and County of Oakland.

Concluding his letter the Freeholders' executive says:

This decision as to the name is merely tentative and it is desired that you give it your earliest consideration and forward to us as soon as possible any suggestions or criticisms that you may have to offer.

Sections of the proposed charter were issued today by the board of freeholders covering the schools, the department of public works and providing for franchise grants.

EDUCATION PROVISION.

Provision is made for a board of education, composed of five members to be appointed by the mayor, instead of elected as at present. One member from each council district would be appointed and two at large from the entire county. It also provides that the members would serve without pay. The term of a school director would be for six years. The superintendent of schools and all those required to have teaching certificates would be under civil service, as well as the other employees.

Section 139 of the proposed charter provides for a director of public works to be appointed by the manager. The superintendent of streets would be appointed by the director of public works.

One corporation yard, to be located at a suitable centrally located spot, is provided for the entire county. The selection of the yard would be left to the director of public works, with the approval of the Metropolitan Council.

Harding Recognizes Boy Scout's Act of Heroism

Personal recognition of the President of the United States for the act of heroism of Allen Daggett, 14-year-old Oakland Boy Scout, who sacrificed his own life to save that of his brother several weeks ago, has come to the relatives and friends of the dead boy in the form of a letter just received from the White House by Charles A. Beardsley, acting exalted ruler of Oakland Lodge No. 171 of the Elks. Recently the Americanization committee of the local order of Elks wrote to President Harding concerning young Daggett's heroic deed. Charles A. Beardsley is in receipt of the following reply from the President:

My Dear Mr. Beardsley: I am glad that you have called my attention to the heroism and sacrifice of Allen Daggett, who gave his own life in saving that of a younger brother. The story of his heroism, as you have told it to me, is certainly one to inspire any reader.

I will be glad if you will communicate to Allen's parents the expression of my sorrow with them in the loss of so fine a boy, and let them know that I appreciate the pride which must temper their grief in his loss.

I cannot refrain from adding a word expressive of my satisfaction that your lodge of Elks should have taken official action to call my attention to this matter. In recognizing and taking measures to insure the widespread knowledge of such fine acts your organization is doing a service which is both a credit to it and an inspiration to the highest aims of unselfish service among all the people.

Most sincerely yours,
WARREN G. HARDING.

The letter sent by the Oakland Elks to President Harding informing him of the circumstances surrounding young Dagggett's death, reads as follows:

Dear Sir and Brother: In a spirit of Americanism, for which our order stands, may we call to your attention the heroic and self sacrificing act of a Boy Scout of this city, who by his quick and courageous conduct saved a life, but in doing so gave up his own?

On the 20th of May last Allen Raggett (who, had he lived, would have been 15 years of age on the 15th of this month) with his younger brother, Forrest Daggett, both Boy Scouts, were on their way to attend a meeting of their company, Troop No. 18, in Oakland. As they reached Adeline and Fortieth streets Forrest unconsciously stepped directly in front of a fast moving railroad train and would have been hurled to his death but for the act of his brother, who rushed to the younger boy's assistance and pushed him from his perilous position just in time to save his life. But in so doing Allen Daggett was struck by the full impact of the train, hurled to the ground and received such terrible injuries that he died from their effects on the 28th of June last.

He bore his illness with a fortitude as great as the courage he displayed in the rescue of his brother.

On his death bed when commended for his heroic conduct he replied: "I could do nothing else. I am a Boy Scout."

Had this boy lived he would, in our judgment, have been entitled to national commendation and recognition in some form for his courage and self-sacrificing spirit.

It has occurred to us that though he has passed on, it would be a graceful act if such a deed as his—such a sentiment as he breathed with his dying words coming from a member of a junior organization that is doing so much for the upbuilding and preservation of American institutions and American ideals as the Boy Scouts of America are—could receive some national recognition and commendation by the President of the United States. We sincerely feel that some message from you in this behalf would be a great inspiration for the local organization of Scouts here, and that it may also in a measure temper the grief of his afflicted parents.

Mr. Abe P. Leach is president, and Mr. H. J. Bemiss, secretary, of the Boy Scouts of Oakland. Their address is Thayer Building. The parents of Allen Daggett are Mr. and Mrs. James W. Daggett, residing at 974 Forty-second street, Oakland, California.

This communication is sent you as the unanimous act of your Brother Elks of Oakland Lodge, No. 171, at its meeting of July 7, 1921.

Fraternally yours,
CHARLES A. BEARDSLEY,
Acting Exalted Ruler.
MYRON A. WHIDDEN,
Secretary.

Pleasanton to Protest New Train Schedule of S. P.

PLEASANTON, July 27.—The proposed change in train schedule over the Southern Pacific lines and the High school annexation movement were the two main topics of interest discussed at the weekly luncheon of the Business Men's Club. The Southern Pacific Company has petitioned the Interstate Board of Commerce for permission to remove the 5:29 westbound train from the local service on Sunday, August 21. If this train is taken off, Pleasanton will be without a morning train to the bay cities, and with none of the Oakland stages stopping here, the only means of travel will be by the afternoon train leaving at 1:13 o'clock.

Some months ago the early morning train was removed and several families whose heads were commuting had to return to the bay cities, and now if the new change goes into effect Pleasanton is destined to lose more. The train is well patronized by this city and many of the travelers are complaining that often the seats are all taken when they get on here. The Sunday travel is particularly good and there seems to be no reason for removing the train on account of the people in this section failing to patronize it.

The train service at the present time, the Chamber contends, is poor enough and none of the trains run at an acceptable hour; but if a change is made in the morning service the success of this city will be hindered. Petitions are being circulated which will be filed with the State Railroad Commission and the Southern Pacific Company, and when the date of the hearing is set arrangements will be made to have representatives of the Business Men's Club and the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce appear before the board and discuss the proposed change thoroughly.

As regards the Livermore High school annexation movement, Pleasanton is against being made part of the High school district, the Chamber holds. The city is willing to pay for the education of all the pupils attending from this school district, as she has done in the past, and feels that the other school districts in the valley should do the same. There is an average of about twenty-two pupils in daily attendance from this city and Pleasanton has paid for their education and will continue to do so, but she does not desire membership in that school district. The people of this valley expect to send a communication to the Board of Supervisors through the district supervisor, D. J. Murphy, setting forth just what they are willing to do in the matter.

Messrs. W. N. Tudo and C. H. Allen of the Oakland office of the California State Automobile Association and A. W. Ebright of Sunol were guests of the club at luncheon, at which there were fourteen members present. After the luncheon the Oakland guests were taken over the road of the valley and the sign situation was discussed with them. Numerous changes have been recommended, other new signs have been requested, and the representatives of the association will make a report on the local situation to the governing body in San Francisco, at the main headquarters.

Pleasanton was interested in a recent report circulated through the press and which lately has been contradicted by Dr. H. Chesley Bush, medical director of Arroyo sanitarium. The article concerned a published account of the budget for hospitals in the county of Alameda, wherein the statement is made that the salary of the child's teacher at Arroyo has been paid out of a fund donated by Frederick Kahn. This statement is incorrect, according to Dr. Bush, who advises that this fund was used for reconstruction work among the adult patients in an educational way, correspondence courses and books, etc., having been purchased by Kahn's fund. The children's school was established and kept running from the Christmas fund donation of generous persons in this city and Livermore and developed by Miss Delia Davis. Much good has been accomplished by Miss Davis and the school has been one of the most interesting departments of the work being carried on by Dr. Bush at the sanitarium.

A force of men is installing a wig-wag signal at the crossing east of town on the Livermore-Pleasanton road. The crossing has been a dangerous one for a number of years and prominent citizens have been trying for several years to get the Southern Pacific Company to do something about it, and only lately has the real work been started. Several accidents and deaths have occurred there during recent years and the public in general has a fear of the crossing, especially those using it from this side. Important changes have lately been made at the Radum tower. The services of the three signalmen have been dispensed with and automatic switches have been installed. These men, with their families, have moved to other cities this week, where they will occupy similar positions.

WELCOME HOME GIVEN CHIEF OF HAYWARD C. OF C.

Luncheon Held in Honor of A. W. Beam, Returned After Tour.

HAYWARD, July 27.—Many "welcomes home" were extended A. W. Beam, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, at the luncheon here in honor of his return yesterday. Beam has made an extensive trip through the Middle West and northeastern portion of this country, returning by way of Canada and the great Northwest region.

President Beam was formally welcomed by I. B. Parsons, vice-president of the chamber, who called on him to "account for himself during his absence."

The president's reply to Parsons' challenge was substantially a verification of the letter from himself to Farm Adviser Mark Lee, published recently in the TRIBUNE, in which he described the deplorable conditions along agricultural lines in Illinois, due to a lack of co-operation and good roads. Beam told of visits to the Chicago Chamber of Commerce with an idea of posting himself on problems which confront the free-holders of Alameda county in making out the proposed charter for this district. He cited instances of co-operative buying in certain sections of Chicago, pointing out the coming necessity for this form of merchandising in Hayward. On the trip west Beam visited many points in Canada, making the last lap of the journey from Vancouver to Seattle by boat and returning from there direct to Hayward.

Governor of Korea May Become Premier

SEOUL, Korea, July 27.—Admiral Saito, the governor-general of Korea, is talked of here as likely successor to Premier Hara, as the head of Japan's next cabinet. Governor Saito is regarded as an adherent of the Seiyukai, or dominant party in Japan, and his friends hold that his successful record in Korea makes him a fitting candidate.

The police say that conditions are quiet throughout the peninsula. From other sources it is gathered that there is considerable suppressed discontent among Koreans over police methods which are still considered irritating. Many changes have recently been made among the minor officials, and it is believed that these changes have been made to soothe popular irritation.

Plan to Revise U. S. Judiciary Is Ready

WASHINGTON, July 27.—A comprehensive plan for the reorganization of the federal judiciary to meet the growing business needs of the country and clean up congestion of liquor cases probably will be presented to President Harding for transmission to Congress within a few days, Attorney-General Daugherty said last night.

The new scheme was worked out by Daugherty and a special committee of federal judges and district attorneys, with the advice of Chief Justice Taft.

The creation of additional judges is contemplated, but not as many at this time as had been originally considered, in order to keep the expense as small as possible, Daugherty said.

Surveyors Lay Lines For a New Theater

HAYWARD, July 27.—Supervisor Heyer's proposed theater is again in the limelight here today. Surveyors were busy along Castro street yesterday, and when questioned Heyer admitted that they were determining the proper elevations for the proposed new building on the corner of Castro and B, where the present opera house is situated and where the new theater is to be erected. Heyer states that when money conditions are more favorable that the work will be completed. He did not reveal the names of the prospective tenants of the new theater. It is thought that the T. & D. syndicate is interested in establishing one of their houses in Hayward.

GENERAL STRIKE STILL URGED AT S. F. GATHERING

Building Workers Plan to Appeal to Rank and File of All Unions.

Appeals will be made direct to the rank and file of the unions affiliated with the building trades to join in the general strike against the American plan of operation adopted, it was decided at a mass meeting of delegates of the various building trades at the San Francisco Labor Temple.

It was announced from the platform that both the San Francisco and Alameda County Labor Councils had refused admission to a committee of strike leaders. The news was received without comment by the assembled delegates.

It was decided by resolution that the committee of twenty continue to address meetings of union locals affiliated with the building trades, urging a general strike. Additional action is expected to be taken this morning when the conference of strike advocates is resumed.

CASEY IS CRITICIZED.

When announcement was made from the platform to effect that telegrams had been received from heads of the international teamsters' unions warning bay region locals to take no part in a strike demonstration, M. J. Casey, international secretary of the union, was criticized from the floor as was John O'Connell, secretary of the labor council. Decision to act over the heads of both local and international heads was reached after the telegrams were read.

Headed by Norman Tallentire of Carpenters' Union Local No. 36, who first proposed the general strike, a committee of union delegates were refused admission to the meeting of the Alameda County Labor Council. Through the passing of a resolution the matter of the strike was referred to the executive committee of which Stanley Lore is chairman.

No results have been obtained thus far by the adjustment of committee of the strike delegates in securing a conference with the Industrial Relations Committee of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. James Dewar, chairman of the union committee, declared, however, that a meeting would be held this week.

CONTRACTORS IN COURT.

The general conference committee of the building trades, in addition to a large number of strike advocates were in attendance in court this morning when Charles W. Gompertz and William H. George, both officials of the Builders' Exchange, were arraigned before Police Judge McAtee. Warrants for the arrest of Gompertz and George were sworn out by Henry Nelson, contractor and member of Carpenters' Union No. 22.

Final plans for the proposed strike will be formulated at a meeting to be held August 7 in the Civic Auditorium. It was announced today from strike headquarters that culinary union had been notified of a 10 per cent cut in wages.

Spanking Wife Bad Form, Judge Rules

Gladys C. Christensen objected to being spanked by her husband, Charles Christensen, and today was upheld in this objection by Superior Judge Joseph Koford, who granted her an interlocutory decree of divorce.

Mrs. Christensen, in her complaint, further alleged that her husband, who is not a native American, also entertained the notion, which he said was accepted in his native country, that the wife should share the burden of earning the family living, even shouldering the whole task when the husband felt indisposed to labor. She charged he endeavored to persuade her to his way of thinking by punishing her in an undignified manner.

Ace Goes East

EDDIE RICKENBACHER of Oakland, who has formed a $5,000,000 company for the manufacture of a new automobile. The factory will be located in Detroit.

Ed. Rickenbacher Organizes Big Motor Co. in East

Oaklander Will Quit West Coast for Detroit to Head New Concern.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacher, of Oakland, American ace of aces, has entered the automobile business as a manufacturer in Detroit. He is a member of the Rickenbacher Motor Co., which has just been organized. An application for a charter in Michigan was filed at Lansing Monday. The new company will be incorporated for $5,000,000 and will bring together men of international prominence in the auto world. B. F. Everitt is president and general manager; E. V. Rickenbacher, vice-president, Harry L. Cunningham, secretary and treasurer, and Walter F. Flanders, Carl Tichenor, Roy Hood and E. R. Evans, directors.

A site for a factory has been secured. The Rickenbacher company brings together in the business once more Everitt and Flanders, who were members of the old "EMF" company which became later the Studebaker corporation. William E. Metzger, who was the "M" of "EMF," is not connected with the company, which in its day manufactured the first popular priced car in quantity. "EMF" was sold to Wall street interests and since that time Everitt has been one of the leading body builders of Detroit.

Flanders took over the United Motors company and from there created the Maxwell Motor company, which he headed from 1911 to 1920. He retired and became a farmer in Virginia near Richmond and has repeatedly stated that he would not again enter the business. On visiting Detroit about two weeks ago he looked over the Rickenbacher car which has been designed in the Everitt factory during the last two years by Everitt, Cunningham and Evans. He decided that he wanted to become a member of the company.

Cunningham has been associated with Everitt and Flanders for two decades. He helped Alexander Winton build his first car and was chief assistant to Henry Ford in building the historical "999" racing car, after which he became Ford branch manager in Detroit, leaving to join the "EMF" group. He again joined Flanders with the Maxwell Chalmers company. Roy Hood was one of the "EMF" men and was assistant purchasing agent, going to the Studebaker corporation in the same capacity and then to Maxwell Chalmers as purchasing agent.

He will be purchasing agent of Rickenbacher Motors. Tichenor is one of the best known production men in the industry and was engaged in that line of work with Liberty motors during the war. For two years he has been with the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co. No announcement is to be made regarding the car which will be exhibited for the first time at the New York show.

Rickenbacher, who has been connected with the Pacific Coast with R. C. Durant in arranging distribution for the Sheridan car and who has handled 31 per cent of the production of that factory, has resigned to take up his residence in Detroit.

FEWER POLES ON AVENUE, ELECTRIC COMPANIES SAY

New Standards to Replace Old Ones, Council Is Informed.

A protest by residents along Fruitvale avenue, who say they now have fifty-one poles on that avenue and desire no more, was answered before the city council today by the joint pole committee of the electrical companies, which asserted that the nineteen new poles on that avenue will not add to the collection but will take the places of the 51 old ones, leaving Fruitvale avenue with less poles than before.

The reply will be sent to the pole protestants, who were alleged to be misinformed.

A petition by Dr Aurelia Reinhardt of Mills college asking that the streets in that vicinity be sewered was referred to the street department for action.

A resolution adopting plans for the new $700 armory and supply depot for the Oakland artillery batteries was introduced by Commissioner Carter and approved by the council.

The report for the municipal wood yard for June, tendered by Superintendent W. S Goodrich, shows that $909.57 was spent during the month in helping 319 men. A total of 4344 meals was served, and 3032 lodgings were given.

REPAIR WORK ON SCHOOL PROTESTED

BERKELEY, July 27.—Legal advice as to whether the school department can do repair and improvement work on its own buildings will be sought by the board of education following a written complaint yesterday by C. E. Irwin, 1732 California street, that the board was violating state laws in engaging men to make alterations on the Oxford school building.

Irwin charged that Section 1612 of the political code makes it mandatory that bids be asked for all work exceeding $200 in value. Alterations being made at the Oxford school it is admitted by the board will cost $6000.

"We have been doing alteration and repair work for years," declared School Carpenter E B Pratt. "Former District Attorney Hynes held that we could do so legally. We have been able to save not only hundreds of dollars but have been given an opportunity to afford employment to Berkeley men."

Assistant Superintendent of Schools M. C. James replied that District Attorney Ezra Decoto had been consulted and upheld Irwin in his stand. A written statement will be sought from the district attorney's office.

Protest against delay in starting work on alterations at the Jefferson school was voiced in a communication from M. G. Leffman, president of the Jefferson Parent-Teachers' association.

Acting Secretary Clyde Blanchard was instructed to inform the association that the delay in prosecuting the work resulted from inability to market securities.

The board decided on a strip of land 152 by 110 feet at the southeast corner of Oregon and Grant streets as the location for new shops for the Edison intermediate school.

The following contracts were awarded: Paving at Franklin school, $1171.15 Kooperud & Heafey, plumbing at Emerson school, $1986.75, Thomas C. Catton; carpenter work at Emerson school in connection with plumbing job, $765, Conner & Conner.

Miss Marjorie Service and Miss Elsie Weidlein, substitute teachers, were advanced to regular teachers. Francis Smith was named to a vacancy in the physical education department at the high school.

Reconstruction Work At City Hall Starts

Carpenters and workers have begun the reconstruction of the inside of the city hall on the eleventh and fifth floors.

The rooms of the school department on the eleventh floor have been found inadequate for the growing department. At present there is a long central corridor with the offices on the sides. Two rooms are now being built in the corridor and will be finished next week. One will be given to the paymaster and the other will be devoted to the school library, which has hitherto been in the superintendent's anteroom.

On the fifth floor an extra stairway has furnished a constant draft and has taken up room otherwise useful. The stairway will be eliminated.

Siddons of the District Supreme Court, upholding the indictment. All defendants must now stand trial.

Enlist Ex-Service Men in Church Work, Synod Told

That greater attention should be paid to enlisting ex-service men in Christian activities and for placing before the people the principles of Christian Americanism, in connection with the observance of national holidays, was the opinion expressed this morning by the committee on men's work, which reported to the Presbyterian Synod at Berkeley, through its chairman, Rev. Lynn T. White of San Anselmo. In making the report, which was adopted by the synod, Dr. White said: "We request that all preachers in the synod observe the Sunday nearest Armistice Day as a time of recognition and enlistment in Christian activities, and of instilling those Christian principles which alone can afford prosperity and security to the nation."

Upon the recommendation of the committee the following were elected to serve on the synodical committee on men's work for the coming year: Chairman, Rev. Lynn T White, San Anselmo.

Benicia Presbytery—John C. Cochrane, Santa Rosa.

BIG GAINS REPORTED.

The committees on foreign missions and Sunday school work both reported this morning endorsing the summer conferences held annually at San Anselmo and at Occidental college.

Rev Bruce McDonald of Berkeley, chairman of the committee on Christian Endeavor societies, made a report. A gain of 2133 members was reported during the year. Fifty-three new societies have been organized, making the number of societies 351.

The committee on Sunday schools reported. The extension of the commissions of Dr George C. Butterfield and Dr Charles L. Duncan, as synodical superintendent of Sabbath school work and field representative of religious education respectively for the coming year were endorsed. The Daily Vacation Bible school was also endorsed and headquarters for supplies established in San Francisco.

CLOSER CO-OPERATION.

At the session yesterday afternoon Dr. J. C. Pinkerton, secretary of the California State Church Federation, addressed the synod in the interest of closer co-operation among the denominations, not only in local evangelical, but in national and international effort.

"Over one million of the 3,000,000 California people are members of Catholic, Protestant or Jewish churches," he said. "This leaves two million out. Only about 25 per cent of the young men and women of high and grammar school age are enrolled in Sunday schools.

The Women's Synodical Missionary Society occupied the hour, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Logan Cadwallader presided. Mrs. Marshall Hayes reported that over $55,000 has been collected for foreign missions in California, nearly $20,000 of which was spent here.

The place of the Christian college in the work of preparing trained Christian leaders, was the theme discussed by Dr. James E. Clarke of New York, in his class on the educational field this morning.

FIELD SURVEYS.

Dr. Edmund de S Brunner of New York, director of town and country survey, committee on social and religious surveys, declared that each church must survey its field continually if it is to make progress in reaching out and getting into contact with new residents. "This survey should be taken inter-denominationally," he said. "Find out families, names and ages of children, how job they have lived in the community, whether they own or rent their home, the occupation of the head of the house, their recreation, health and every other fact that pertains to their life. Find out what your church is doing to meet human needs in the community. Roman Catholics and Protestants can co-operate in meeting many of these needs.

Every month in the year should have some sort of a day on which members of the community may gather together in a rural church and become acquainted with its members and its pastor, according to Rev. David A. Fiske of Davis. "In September there should be a homecoming day rally and reception to teachers of the public schools," he said.

Frank D. Getty, field representative of Young People's work, spoke last night at the open session of the synod. He declared that the older members of the church are not giving the young people the leadership they need.

Dr. William Hiram Foulkes, general secretary of the New Era movement, will address the concluding open meeting of the synod tonight. He will give a resume of the growth of the New Era movement and will tell what it stands for and hopes to do in the future. Business sessions of the synod will conclude tomorrow noon.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING Out to-day

Sale of Washtubs Gives Thrill to Letter Carrier

E. G. MILLER, mail carrier No. 62, who has been carrying mail for twenty years in Oakland and who says he likes it.

Veteran Postman Nonplused by Rapid-Fire Queries of Excited Woman.

E. G Miller, mail carrier working from Station D in the Bacon building has been a postman for the past twenty years, fourteen of which he has spent in carrying mail on Twelfth street, from Broadway to Fallon. Miller became a postman when the salary was only $24.50 a month and the hours almost twenty-four out of the twenty-four. Miller declares that the opportunity of making friends, in a way, is partial compensation for lack of adequate salary. He lives at 2421 Kingsland avenue.

The most amusing incident that ever happened while he was making the rounds of his route, occurred one blistering day, Miller said, when he was toiling over his route laden with several times the ordinary amount of mail.

As he walked along Twelfth street, Miller related, a window flew up and a woman's voice, hoarse with emotion and apparently shaken by some tragedy, called to him to stop. Believing that she needed help, Miller waited until a front door flew open and a woman, hatless, her hair flying in the wind and her clothing topsy-turvy, catapulted out in the street.

Still apparently under great stress, the woman, her words coming in gasps, blurted, "Mr. Postman, are they still selling wash tubs in that sale on Broadway. I was getting ready to go when you came along, and didn't want to get all dressed up until I found out for sure the sale was still on."

Dazed and unable to account for the woman's actions, Miller trudged on down the street, he continued, when he noticed smoke pouring from a second-story window of the house on one of the street intersections, followed by a woman's frantic screams for help. Dashing to a fire-box Miller turned in the alarm, and then dashed back to the corner, up to the second floor of the burning house, to find—a cake blazing merrily away in the oven and a sobbing bride crying on the table. By the time the fire department arrived Miller had gone.

'JINX SHIP,' TITLE GIVEN TENYO MARU BY PASSENGERS

Death, Disease, Bad Food, Fire, Few of Pleasantries of "Jonah" Voyage.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—"The Jinx Ship" is the title that has been applied to the T. K. K. Liner Tenyo Maru following the completion of a Jonah voyage, as she dropped anchor in San Francisco bay today.

Here are a few of the things that happened during her trip from the Orient:

1. Several families of Japanese stowaways were discovered on board. Immigration officials, convinced that there are many more in hiding on the vessel, plan to make a thorough search of the ship from top to bottom. In case some are overlooked the authorities will smoke them out by fumigating the entire ship.

2. Several persons were taken sick between Shanghai and Kobe. They attributed their illness to poor food. L. C. Esser and M. Baker, two of the passengers, announce that they will file complaint to the fare furnished on the trip.

3. The vessel was branded as a plague ship at Yokohama and was forced to lie in quarantine 14 days. There was one death from bubonic plague. The passengers were forced to go ashore for the two weeks.

4. The Japanese started a cyclone of protest with Chief Steward Wiley as their objective, because they had to sleep in Occidental bunks instead of upon Oriental mats.

5. A Japanese woman accidentally set fire to her kimono and was pursued all over the ship with fire extinguishers.

6. A Japanese fireman jumped overboard two days out from Yokohama.

7. A Chinese woman went crazy during the trip.

Today, on the ship's arrival, everyone was still looking for the Jonah.

Athletics as Hindrance To Motherhood Denied

It does, speaks the voice of the managers of the English girl's schools.

It does not, promptly contradicts the American leaders in physical education and outdoor sports.

"Athletic women produce female off spring for the most part. Their sons are apt to be puny, inferior in type and delicate," pronounces the English educators.

"Call the roll," retorts the American authorities.

So alarming is the situation in the minds of the English managers in charge of the girls' schools that in solemn convention in London recently they adopted a resolution which protested the modern system of physical education for girls as injurious to future generations. London has started the campaign in the interests of potential motherhood.

"The idea that women with plastic bodies are better adapted to motherhood than those with developed physiques is not founded upon statistics," Miss Elisabeth Rheem Stoner, head of the physical education department at Mills College, offers. "Mills girls who have been the keenest athletes are mothers of robust, sturdy boys. It is not true that athletic women produce puny boys."

"If not carried to excess, athletic training should not unfit women for motherhood," Professor F. L. Kleeberger, director of the physical education department, University of California, contributes.

Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, formerly of Berkeley, tennis champion of national and international fame, produces a stalwart young son to refute the English girls' school managers.

"The women tennis stars who have married have splendid children," Mrs. Wightman recalls from her personal acquaintance. "In most cases there have been one or two boys before any girls." She offers a tennis champion blue book as follows:

May Sutton Bundy (English girl), three boys, one girl.

Violet Sutton Boeg (sister of Mrs. Bundy), six boys and girls.

Mrs. N. W. Niles, two boys.

Nancy Shea Cole, Boston, two girls.

Golda Myers Gross, two boys.

Louis Hammond Raymond, two boys, one girl.

Adelaide Browning Greene, two boys, one girl.

Advertising Is Discussed By Merchants' Exchange

Advertising the city of Oakland, the urging of an active interest in the question of creating Oakland a free port and endorsement of the exposition of the Associated Manufacturers of the Eastbay cities were among the important matters that came up at last night's meeting of the Merchants' Exchange.

It was voted by the directors of the exchange to instruct as many members as possible to be present at the Hotel Oakland on July 29, at which place and time a joint meeting of civic and improvement organizations is to be held to discuss the advisability of having Oakland create a free port.

The directors laid over for one week a request from the Oakland Chamber of Commerce to endorse a petition to the City Council of Oakland and the Board of Supervisors for a financial appropriation for advertising purposes. The reason for taking this action was in order to give Irving C. Kahn and J. C. Downey an opportunity to set forth before the exchange the disbursing methods to be used with regard to the money.

ENDORSE EXPOSITION.

Endorsement was given the exposition of the Associated Manufacturers of the Eastbay cities in the following resolution, adopted at the meeting:

"Whereas, The first annual Eastbay Manufacturers' Exhibition is for the purpose of familiarizing the people of the Eastbay and Northern California with the products of the mills and factories and shops of this district; and,

"Whereas, The exhibition will be largely educational in character and distinctive of the progress of the industrial growth of the Eastbay; and,

"Whereas, Such an exhibition will be of splendid advertising value to the Eastbay, directly through those attending the exhibition and indirectly through the wide publicity given the exhibition by the newspapers and other publications; and,

"Whereas, This organization recognizes the distinctive value of such an exhibition and its power to attract other mills and factories to the Eastbay region; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the Merchants Exchange of Oakland hereby pledge its united support to the first annual Eastbay Manufacturers' Exhibition, to be staged at Idora Park, Oakland, from October 1 to October 9 inclusive, 1921; and be it further

"Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of our organization and a copy of the same mailed to the press."

NO ADDITIONAL TOLL.

Notification in writing was received by the exchange from the Board of Harbor Directors stating that they would not impose an additional state toll on the transportation of commercial vehicles between the east side of the bay and the west side.

The exchange went on record as requesting that work be expedited by the Board of Park Directors in preparing an automobile camping site

CHARGES AGAINST TWO ACCUSED WHITE SOX COLLAPSE

DUFFY LEWIS KEEPS UP CONSECUTIVE HITTING BY MAKING BOW AND GRABBING THREE HITS

MYSTERY MAN TELLS OF MEETINGS WITH SLEEPY BILL BURNS

Alleges Abe Attell Persuaded Rothstein to Finance Throwing of 1919 Series.

CHICAGO, July 27.—(United Press.)—Charges against two of the seven "Black Sox" on trial for alleged conspiracy to sell the 1919 world series to gamblers collapsed today as the defense began introduction of its testimony.

Evidence against Buck Weaver and "Happy" Felsch did not warrant sending their cases to the jury, Judge Hugo Friend held, and announced he would dismiss the charges against the two. The state offereed no objection. Cases against Carl Zork and Louis Levy, two of the alleged gamblers, will also be dismissed, the court ruled, because of lack of evidence.

William ("Billy") Maharg, the state's last witness in the Black Sox baseball scandal trial, today testified on the stand tht he heard Eddie Cicotte tell "Bill" Burns tht he and "Chick" Gandil were going to "throw" the 1919 world series. The alleged conversation between the former White Sox pitcher took place, according to Maharg, at the Ansonia hotel in New York shortly before the series.

Maharg's inside story of the bribery, double-crossing and intrigue in connection with the "throwing" of the series was considered a strong card in the prosecution.

The state was expected to finish its case with Maharg's testimony today.

Maharg testified that he was employed by the Ford Motor Company. Referred to at various times as a "gambler," "ball player" and "baseball writer," the witness has been considered an enigma in the case. It was said that his name was "Graham" spelled backward and that he was in reality "Peaches" Graham, a former ball player.

The witness told of seeing Cicotte and Gandil in conversation with Burns at the New York hotel.

Maharg Gives Intimate Details.

"After Cicotte and Gandil left the Ansonia hotel, did you have a conversation with Bill Burns?" asked the prosecutor.

Maharg replied that he had.

"Where did you go next?"

"I went to Philadelphia to see some fellows about financing the deal. Burns had told me that they would 'throw' the world's series for $100,000."

"What, if anything, did you say to Burns?" asked the state.

"I told him I would try to get the money," said the witness.

"On your arrival in Philadelphia whom did you see?"

"I saw a fellow by the name of 'Rossie.'"

"Where did you go from Philadelphia?"

"Back to New York."

On his second trip to New York, Maharg said he saw Burns and they went to the Aqueduct race track, where he said they saw the "first lieutenant" of Arnold Rothstein, New York gambler.

Later, he said, he met Rothstein at the Astor hotel in New York.

Said Sox Were Ready to Accept.

"What was said at that meeting?" inquired the prosecutor.

"Burns told Rothstein the White Sox were willing to 'throw' the world's series for $100,000 and wanted him to help finance the deal," Maharg replied. "But Rothstein refused to do anything of that kind."

"When next did you hear anything about the world series?" Maharg was asked.

"I got a telegram from Burns to meet him in Cincinnati."

Weaver, Felch May Be Freed By the Jury

CHICAGO, July 27.—Judge Hugo Friend today informed the state attorneys in the baseball trial that he would direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty in the cases of "Buck" Weaver and "Happy" Felch, former White Sox players, and Carl Zork of St. Louis, unless further evidence was introduced against these men.

The state dropped its case against Ben and Louis Levi of Kokomo, Ind.

Motions to dismiss the charges against Joe Jackson, Davis Zelser of Des Moines, were overruled.

Gould Given A Bumping by The S. F. Seals

Every Member of the Team Grabs One or More Base Hits.

Everybody in the Seal line-up got one or more hits yesterday when they stepped to the plate to face the shoots of Artie Gould in the opening game of the series with the Salt Lake Bees. So the Seals had no trouble at all in defeating the Bees 12 to 0 as Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, their chucker, was in shut-out form and allowed seven scattered hits. The fans howled about Manager Cravath of the Bees letting Artie Gould in to take the full beating, but maybe Gavvy figured that he would only be wasting another chucker as O'Doul looked too good for the Bees to beat. Fitzgerald, Caveney, Ellison, O'Donnell and Kelly all got two hits each. Agnew, Ellison and Kelly each hit one for a homer, while another of O'Connell's went for a double, so it is easily seen that the Seals had a lot of fun with Gould's pitching. The Seals also played errorless ball behind O'Doul, while the only two errors for the Bees were charged to Dan Brown. The score:

SEVENTH INNING RALLY BEATS COYOTES.

Singles by Griggs and Crawford, a sacrifice by Niehogg and doubles by Lindimore and Baldwin put over the win for the locals. The score:

SKELETONS RATTLING IN BASEBALL CLOSET

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 27.—Ban Johnson's statement that more ball players are liable to be put on the carpet after the "Black Sox" are tried, started some of last winter's skeletons shaking in their closet.

Connie Mack and his 1914 Athletics are being brought into the stories, it being said that if the gaunt Philadelphia leader gave the real reason for breaking up his machine after it had lost four straight to the Boston Braves, it would be a sensation.

Mack, however, has an answer to that. In a message to the United Press he says:

"Such stories are too ridiculous to make a reply. The Athletic players were clean and they are still clean, as can be shown by the players who are still in the game. I have stated many times why my 1914 team was broken up."

Benny Kauff, who was mentioned in the "confession" of Heinie Zimmerman, is still out of the game, although he was cleared of the charge of grand larceny in connection with a stolen automobile, for which Judge Landis suspended him from the game.

Huggins Hopes To Nose Out The Indians

Highlanders in Good Shape for Final Drive, Says Manager.

By JACK VEIOCK,
International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, July 27.—"It looks like a nip and tuck fight with the Indians all the way to the wire, but we hope to be able to beat them to it."

So said Miller Huggins, midget manager of the New York Americans as the Yanks dug in at the Polo Grounds today for a 15-game run against the western teams.

"Our club is in good shape for a long and hard fight," Huggins continued. "All of the regular players, thanks to luck, are in condition, and the pitchers, with the exception of Piercy, are going great. Shawkey, for instance, has performed a wonderful come back. We are ready for anything and I think the boys realize that this stretch at home means a lot to us if we can pile up percentage on the right side of the column."

Huggins took occasion to deny a report that a deal by which Outfielder Elmer Miller was reported on his way from St. Paul to the Yanks had been closed. He said negotiations were on and he had hopes of landing the player but that no agreement had been reached. He admitted also that the Yanks hope to get Jim Vaughn through waivers of the National League.

The world's champion Indians got away to a good start on their eastern road trip Tuesday by trimming the Loston Red Sox. Their victory, the Yanks being idle, put them a game and a half in front of New York.

Huggins' team opened at home today with the scrappy St. Louis Browns as their opponents.

RECRUIT HURLER KEEPS BEAVERS FROM A WIN.

PORTLAND, July 27.—The Portland Beavers can't even win in their own backyard. At least they showed signs of that yesterday afternoon when they returned home and opened their series with the Vernon Tigers by losing 7 to 4. Sylvester Johnson and Ross pitched for the locals and the hits they allowed were timely. The Tigers made five errors in the field, but the Beavers hadn't the life to take advantage of the many good opportunities. McGraw was batted from the box by the Beavers and Cross, a young fellow from this section of the country, relieved him and held the Beavers in check. The score.

Oakland and S. F. Elks Will Tangle Here Next Sunday

Next Sunday afternoon the Oakland Elks play the S. F. Bills at the Oakland Coast League grounds, the game to be called at 2:30. This promises to be a hard-fought game, as the S. F. boys are our keenest rivals, having taken the locals down the line in both games last season. Manager Herb Gerlach plans on presenting a very formidable line-up and is confident of a victory. Either Schammel or Withoft will twirl with Geo. Crosswaith on the receiving end. The line-up follows: Osgood, 1b.; Al Heister, 2b.; Ferrara, ss.; Gerlach, 3b.; Goodwin, lf.; Reab, cf.; Whittier or Laughland, rf.; Crosswaith, c. Schammel or Withoft, p.

Leo Cunningham is away on his vacation at Lake Tahoe, but will be back with the locals a week from Sunday.

OAK ELKS WIN.

Last Sunday Manager Gerlach had his Elks out for a practice game with the fast S. P. Backshop team and led them to a 7-to-6 victory. Schammell and Laughland did the pitching for the Elks. Witt, on first for the railroaders, was the heavy hitter, getting three safe blows. Gerlach and Crosswaite got two hits each for the Elks.

SAN FRANCISCO CLUB HAS CHALKED UP A WIN IN LAST 10 GAMES

Heine Sand, Bee's Young Infielder From the Local Lots, Is Having His Best Season Now

By EDDIE MURPHY

The Salt Lake Bees, with more pepper and looking like a better ball club than when they were here before, stepped out on the field at Recreation park yesterday afternoon to tangle with Charley Graham's Seals, who are again chuck full of confidence and, displaying the old spirit of thought that there isn't a team in the league that can beat them. The Seals are again looking like a bunch of champions, maybe because the Portland Beavers made another stretch of the road to Pennantville a path of roses for them. The Seals are going along like a lot of champions and there is no telling when they will be stopped again, if such is to happen between now and the end of the season. They went through Gavvy Cravath's Bees as easy as a kid could kick his foot through a drum, and when the boy on the score board had completed his day's labor the Seals had twelve runs against a long string of goose eggs for the Bees.

Ten straight wins is the number that the Seals have run up since they won their last two games from the Sacramento Coyotes at Sacramento. The boys are now predicting that the Seals will run their string of wins up to sixteen at least, for nobody on the other side of the bay expects the Salt Lake Bees to take a game from them. They are probably judging the Bees from their work yesterday.

Duffy Lewis Is Hitting Like in the Old Days.

However, the Bees are playing better ball than when here before, without a doubt. The appearance of Duffy Lewis in the outfield makes a big difference. Frank (Lefty) O'Doul pitched a beautiful game against the Bees, but the Seal southpaw passed by the opportunity to put an end to the hitting streak of Lewis. Or at least Lewis refused to let the crack Seal flinger do so. Lewis stepped up to the plate and grabbed three hits in as many times charged at bat against O'Doul, and he has now hit in his thirty-first consecutive game. Lewis has to hit safely in nineteen more ball games before he will be up with the Coast league consecutive game hitting record which Jack Knight established when with the Oaks, and he will also have to hit in thirty-five more to be up with the world's record made by Joe Wilhoit, now a teammate on the Salt Lake club. Wilhoit reached that mark when a member of the Wichita club in the Western league.

But no matter if they stop Lewis' hitting streak today or some days later before he equals either of the records of Ness or Wilhoit, the Alameda boy can always be proud of that hitting streak. Duffy started out his record-seeking trip the very day he put on a Coast league uniform and he hasn't failed to hit in a game since. Averaging two hits per a ball game from the day you step off a train after a long trip from the East is going some and that is what Lewis has done.

Heinie Sand is Having Big Season with Bees.

Willie Kamm, Babe Pinelli, Jimmy Caveney, Jimmy O'Connell and several other high-class outfielders in the Coast league have been spoken of very much because of their brilliant work at their respective positions, and maybe it is because those players are so near at home and we see more of them that Heinie Sand, the little shortstop of the Bees isn't getting much attention.

In picking a list of major league prospects from the lot in the Coast league, it would be almost impossible to pass up Heinie Sand and feel that he was being given a fair break. The San Francisco kid is having his greatest season with the Bees and his success cannot all be attributed to the Salt Lake baseball park. Heinie is hitting at a .346 clip, compared to .216 last season. Of course he got a lot of his base hits on the Salt Lake lot, but if his weekly record will be gone through it will be noticed that he hit almost as hard on other parks as he did at Salt Lake. Heinie's regular position is at third base, but he has proved that he can do just as well around the short patch as any of the others the Bee manager has had there this season. Sand stepped out from the local bush lots a few years ago and it was only his weakness with the stick that kept him out of the limelight, but he is going so well now that he cannot be overlooked. They used to walk batters to play for Sand when runners were on the bases, but you don't find any pitchers doing it these days.

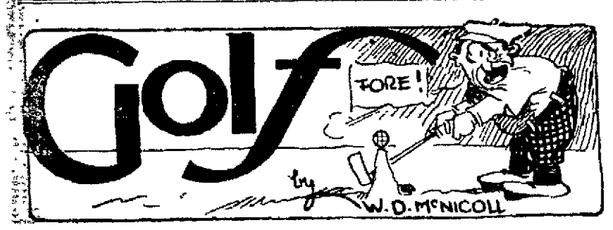
Besides being among the leading hitters in the league Heinie is rated as the third best in scoring runs.

Hollis Thurston Goes to Cubs for Three Players

SALT LAKE CITY, July 27.—Announcement was made today of a deal whereby Pitcher Hollis Thurston of the Salt Lake club is to be traded to the Chicago Nationals in exchange for three players. The players have not yet been named, but it is assumed that Don Brown, already with the Salt Lake club on option, will be one of them. Thurston is to finish the season with Salt Lake. The Chicago players are to be sent to Salt Lake as soon as possible.

J. V. O'Hara Is Best In Vallejo Gun Shoot

J. V. O'Hara was the high gun at the monthly shoot held by the members of the Vallejo Gun Club on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Al Luttenger carried off the honors among the women present. Mrs. J. E. Snow was second. Both women broke 12 birds in the first 15 bird shoot. In the next shoot Mrs. Luttenger broke 13 while Mrs. Snow shattered 12 of the pigeons.



Mrs. D. H. Foote is staging an invitational tournament on a big scale August 10 at Mount Diablo. Four players from each of the clubs around the Bay district are to be invited as guests of the club with an open invitation for as many others as care to come and compete in an 18-hole medal score handicap contest. The present women's record for Mount Diablo is held by Mrs. C. H. Terry but with so many other champions competing records are sure to fall.

George Vesper, who recently celebrated his first golf birthday, is apparently endeavoring to make up for lost time in taking up the Royal and Ancient game of golf. Some of the old-timers who have to lie about the number of years they have played golf will soon be passed in the number of rounds played by this marathon golfer. Seventy-two holes a day is just child's play for George—88 holes was his record a week ago. Possibly some outside agency stopped him at the 88d hole. The caddie probably quit or Dr. J. H. Stineman, who had played 77 holes, refused to go further. With a well organized relay of partners a fresh record may be accomplished any day.

Detailed results of the recent invitational team match at Mount Diablo when T. Harry Smith's Sequoyah team were winners by two points follow:

Monday was caddies' day at Sequoyah and Steve had his boys starting off in the qualifying round as early as 8 A. M.

The best medal score was an 80 by Sam Messick with Emmet Rafferty and Mal Travers tied up with 82 each. Bill Zwissick had 83 Mal Ferrera 88, Bill Rainer 88 and Jimmie Alexander 89. With a generous number of prizes even the losers in the first rounds will have a further chance to redeem themselves. Most of the boys took their victory or defeat in a good sporting spirit but had their alibi just like the grown up golfers.

FOUR-ROUNDERS WILL ENTERTAIN AT AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

FORMER TENNIS CHAMPION WILL MAKE BID FOR HONORS AT THE NATIONAL TOURNEY

JACK DAVIS AND EDDIE HANLEY MEET IN MAIN BOUT AT AUDITORIUM

Set of New Faces Will be Presented by Matchmaker T. Jeremiah Simpson Tonight.

By BOB SHAND

Jack Davis and Eddie Hanley have been rematched to box at the Auditorium tonight—which is not surprising, and the customers are quite pleased with the prospect of another thrilling slugfest—which is not surprising. The fact that the kids are able to step again tonight after what they did to each other last Wednesday night IS surprising. A look at the good looks of Jack and Eddie after they finished their evening's battering last week made it look like a ten to one shot they wouldn't want to see a boxing glove for a month and twenty to one they wouldn't want to run their faces against one for the rest of their natural lives. However, the little four-rounders are gamesters and Jack and Eddie will swing and jab tonight as they did a week ago and imagine they are having a good time. Their last meeting was called a draw as there was absolutely nothing between the pair at the finish and if they fight as hard tonight the judges will have a tough time picking a winner.

The little four-rounders who will perform this evening are guaranteed to be simon-pure scrappers, honest workmen and good to their folks. The entire aggregation of fighters was escorted to the City Hall the other night, photographed and indexed for future reference. One of the boys on the bill did not come up to specifications and he was moved out of the picture. Chief of Police James Drew has a line on fighters, past and present, and any boy with an unsavory past gets the gate before he even starts. The chief is a keen boxing enthusiast and is determined to keep the game here clean.

Roy Southerland, the Benicia boy, is coming to town tonight with the intention of taking a fall out of Johnny Nunes. Roy has done a lot of boxing in the northwest since he quit the old home town where the arsenal is, and the experience has done him a world of good. Southerland is meeting a good boy in Nunes, even if Johnny did lose a fight recently to Eddie Diggins. Johnny has trained like he never trained before and will be in shape to set a lively pace this evening.

MULLENS SAID TO BE GOOD.

The tip is out to watch this Johnny Mullens lad who meets Dick Wallace. Mullens has been making quite a name for himself in four-round society across the bay and in his one start here before the Moose Club some months ago he loomed up like a real prospect. Johnny stands up like one of the old-time fighters and he knows how to shoot with both hands. He is shifty and has a nice kick in either mitt. Mullens is a graduate of the Olympic Club. Dick Wallace, a husky welterweight, is on the other end of the bout, and Matchmaker Simpson says Mullens is no cinch to cop as Wallace has been showing a lot of class in the gymnasium.

Jimmy Dunning and Lee Mazon are back of the card. Dunning took a decision over Mazon two weeks ago, but it was very close and Mazon had a fine alibi, having sustained a nasty cut over his right eye in the first round. This bothered him and his manager, Eddie Miller, declared that but for the cut his body would have copped.

They boxed a draw at one of the Legion shows across the bay some months ago.

Alex McDonald, the champion 110-pounder, will make his reappearance here after a long absence. Alex has a date with Terio Vargas. The latter is from the Frank Tabor barn and Frank says he is a comer.

Jimmy Kelsey vs. Frank Fradella; Tom Cronin vs. Ed Gilbert, and Jim Farrell vs. Jack McCoy round out the card.

They have the crepe out at Vernon. Bert Colima, the spoiled and petted Whittier boy, was stopped in less than two minutes by an unknown in a preliminary to the Herman-Lynch fight night before last and they are still figuring how it happened. Colima was a wonder at Vernon but he never showed anything anywhere else. He made a poor appearance at the Auditorium and never won a fight in any of his other out-of-town starts. Down south they had him matched with Johnny Wilson and all that sort of thing. Bert is like a lot of other fighters, a bear in his home town and a kitten away from it. Take Bat Ortega for instance.

Here Is the Boxing Card For Tonight

FOLLOWING is the four-round boxing card arranged for the Auditorium this evening:

Jack Davis vs. Eddie Hanley.
Johnny Mullens vs. Dick Wallace.
Roy Sutherland vs. Johnny Nunes.
Jimmy Dunning vs. Lee Mazon.
Terio Vargas vs. Alex. McDonald.
Jimmy Kelsey vs. Frank Fradella.
Tom Cronin vs. Ed Gilbert.
Jim Farrell vs. Jack McCoy.

Oakland Woodmen Win At San Jose

The Oakland Modern Woodmen traveled to San Jose under the leadership of Frank Bethel and easily defeated the San Jose Woodmen at the Santa Clara College diamond by a 14 to 5 score. The locals batted the shoots of two San Jose pitchers for fourteen hits. Corbett and Hansen got three hits each, one of Hansen's going for a homer. Sprinkle was on the mound for the local's and allowed only five hits, and fanned eleven. The score:

"DICK" WILLIAMS WILL TRY A COME-BACK IN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

Eastern Player Has Hard Row to Hoe With Johnson, Tilden and Richards Competing.

By B. H. LA LANDE

While westerners are looking forward to the big eastern tennis tournaments with a hope that Bill Johnston will defeat "Big Bill" Tilden in the finals of the national championships and thus bring the title back to the coast, Bostonians are asking the question: Can "Dick" Williams come back?

The New England public is clamoring for a victory by the former Harvard man. They seem confident he can win and though they give an ear to the theory that Johnston and Tilden have advanced the game several pegs since 1916, when Williams last was national champion, a Williams victory in their eyes is possible.

Williams' play at the Agawan Hunt Club's tourney, according to the despatches, was not unusually sparkling until he faced Larry Rice, the former Yale star, and then as though he was playing in his college days for the sake of old Harvard, the Boston man's game soared and victory was his.

The Boston papers are playing Williams up in great style now. All the noted writers of that district are giving the two-time champion a lot of notice and are advancing the idea that he is unbeatable when his racquet is behaving. They point out that the Bostonian is only 29 years of age, is robust and has the proper enthusiasm, ambition and cenitive to try to sweep through all opposition on the court this year.

Williams, it is true, holds two legs on the national singles trophy and should he win again he would retire that much prized cup. This in itself should afford a great incentive for the New Englander to play his best game and win; but many come backs have been attempted and few of them were successful. Thus far this year Williams has not figured to any great extent in the tourneys being eliminated in the early rounds of play and with Johnston back there now to take his place in the sun it is hard to see where the 1914 and 1916 champion is going to edge in. Another point making it hard for the Bostonian to come back is the fact that Vincent Richards is playing a wonderful game and is improving all the time, thus making a third man for Williams to conquer.

WATCH JAPANESE.

In the national singles tourney it is expected that the Japanese stars, Shimidzu and Kumagae, will enter and no one will deny that these men are capable players and of close to championship calibre. Shimidzu left an indelible stamp upon the impressions of those who saw him play at Agawan Hunt Club, say the eastern reports, and the way he defeated Edmund Levy, the local star, should impress coast tennis followers. In fact the day he played Levy he also defeated Page, an eastern crack, and the records show that the Oriental racquet wielder lost only a half-dozen games in the day's play.

Experts throughout the east are conceding the chances of the Japanese trio—Kumagae, Shimidzu and Kashio—to be extraordinarly good for cleaning the field in the Davis cup ties and thus becoming the challenger for the coveted mug. The Nipponese are favored to win at Chicago August 11-13 from the India delegation and are expected to prove dangerous in the finals at Newport.

All three Orientals are in the best of condition and are playing at top form. They have but one handicap. Their legs are very short, while most of their opponents have fairly long legs. Kumagae, when he was out here, it will be remembered, was a flashy player with all kinds of strokes and a marked degree of accuracy in placement and service. Shimidzu, it is reported, is even smaller than his teammate but is as fast as lightning while Kashio, the other member of the Nippon team, is wiry and active like the others and features a freak service. He has shown phenomenal prowess at net play and is best at offensive.

Standard Twilight League At Richmond Is a Big Success

RICHMOND, July 26.—The All Star baseball team of this city, an aggregation of players picked from the four teams comprising the Standard Oil Twilight League, defeated a picked team at Stockton by the score of ten to one.

The Twilight League, fostered by the Rockefeller interests here and encouraged by the general public, is one of the tightest little baseball organizations outside organized ball and play high grade, snappy baseball.

One of the stars of the league is "Rod" Allen, husky first baseman of the Barrel House nine, who recently refused an offer from the St. Louis Americans. Allen, a native of Oakland, has been in Merritt Hospital recovering from an injury to the knee sustained in a recent game.

McLaughlin, Bundy Win in S. C. Tourney

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—Tom Bundy, Los Angeles, former national doubles champion, with Maurice E. McLaughlin, defeated Dick Hinckley, Stanford University freshman, in one of the star contests in the men's singles during the second day of the elimination sets in the Southern California lawn tennis championship tournament here today. Elimination sets will continue during the week, with the finals set for Saturday.

TENNIS

The Isle City Tennis Club team of Alameda proved its superiority over the Wells Fargo Bank team of San Francisco by winning thirteen out of sixteen matches played at Bella Vista courts in East Oakland. Berndt, the star of the bank team, was surprised when "Scotty" Keator defeated him. A return match between the two teams will take place at Washington Park August 21. The results:

Shell Mounders To Stage Match With Olympics

Indoor Shooting Tourney for Siebe Trophy Is Arranged.

The Olympic pistol team will shoot the Oakland Revolver Club a pistol, revolver and rapid fire contest with the pocket revolver during the month of September for a trophy donated by William A. Siebe.

The conditions will be a five man team each to shoot twenty-five shots the first match with the pistol to be held on the Olympic Club range in San Francisco. The second match will be held on the range of the Oakland Revolver Club in Shellmound Park, Emeryville. William F. Blasse will captain the Olympic Club team and Dr. W. L. Friedman will captain the Oakland club team. Both clubs are practicing on their respective ranges every evening as the matches are to be shot on the indoor range.

Last Sunday at Shellmound Park the Deutscher Krieger Schuetzen, one of the oldest shooting clubs in California held its annual King shoot by placing a wooden Eagle on a pole 75 feet in the air, starting at 9 o'clock a. m., shooting it down piece by piece until the last piece was shot down at 11:30. Louis Laubscher was crowned king for the year 1921. Shooting down a wooden eagle in this manner in two hours and thirty minutes is a feat that has never been done in the history of any organization. It is really a record as it took only 360 shots to bring down the last piece.

The outdoor championships for the pistol, revolver, pocket revolver, military revolver are to be shot throughout the United States for the United States championship under the auspices of the United States Revolver Association during the month of October.

Sa-le-An Club Crew Wins Race by Good Work On the Lake

The young ladies of the Sa-Le-An club pulled on their trusty oars to good advantage and easily won by a pair of boat lengths from the Y. W. C. A. The winning of the Sa-Le-Ans was the surprise of the evening, defeating the best women crews on the lake.

The Sa-Le-Ans got the jump at the start, getting away with the gun in fine style. It was a close race in the first half mile, the club girls being hard pressed by the Y. W. C. A. Marion "Juanita" Moffett, the peppery coxswain of the Sa-Le-Ans, proved her unrivaled ability by holding the club oars in perfect time.

The club has been on the lake practicing for only two months and yet they splashed water in their rival's eyes and by their constant and conscientious practice they triumphed over old hands at the game. The line-up:

No. 6—Port stroke, Daisy H. Keller; starboard stroke, Felice Nichols. No. 5—Port, Alice Randall; starboard, Mary Davis. No. 4—Port, Helen Moffett; starboard, Elizabeth Quinn. No. 3—Port, A. Dolenty; starboard, Margaret Quinn. No. 2—Port, Georgie Quinn; starboard, Mary McLaughlin. No. 1—Port, Marion Roesener; starboard, Grace Collins. Substitutes, Helen Biggs, Mary G. Dwyer, Mary Donley, Loretta Donelly, H. Roesener, pilot; M. "Juanita" Moffett, coxswain.

TUNNEL OPENED, CARIBOU PLANT RUNS FULL HEAD

Step Marks Completion of Big Development by the Great Western Power.

Operation of the new Caribou hydro-electric plant of the Great Western Power company at its present installed capacity began today, following completion of the 11,200-foot tunnel connecting Lake Almanor with Butt valley. That capacity is 132,000 horsepower.

The new tunnel, known as No 1, has a capacity of 800 cubic feet of water a second, and is regulated by two seven-foot electrically controlled gates. It carries the waters of Lake Almanor into Butt valley and makes them available for use by the Caribou power house which has, since its opening in May, been operating upon the waters of Butt creek.

The new tunnel presented the main engineering problem of the development, S. L. Shaffleton, construction engineer says. From Lake Almanor, which is located near the head of the North Fork of Feather river, and is the largest artificial power reservoir in the world. Tunnel No 1 conducts the waters into Butt creek to an impounding reservoir behind Butt Valley dam, from which tunnel No 2, 8200 feet long, takes it to the pipe lines, which lead directly to the power house.

In addition to the Big Bend and Caribou power houses, the Great Western hydro-electric development program along Feather river calls for the construction of six other plants, bringing the total volume to 792,000 horsepower.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

Bay financial circles, together with the rest of the Twelfth Federal Reserve District, came immediately into contact with the government's treasury arrangements to fund the railroads and perform other vital functions for American industry and crop financing today when announcement was made by Governor John U. Calkins of the Federal Reserve Bank of the newest federal treasury issue.

Combined offering of the following two treasury certificate issues was made:

Series TM2-1922, dated August 1, maturity in 6 months, interest 5¼ per cent.

Series B-1922, dated August 1, maturity one year, interest 5½ per cent.

The joint offering totals approximately $300,000,000.

Applications were being received today by the Federal Reserve Bank from bankers and by practically all banks from subscribers. That the issue would be oversubscribed at once financial men considered there was little doubt.

With this issue the treasury, a despatch from Washington today said, it was believed would be in a position to meet any demands on it by the War Finance Corporation in connection with settlements with the railroads under the plan submitted to Congress yesterday by President Harding.

On August 16, it was explained, the treasury has certificate maturities of about $150,000,000 to meet, and, in addition, it is estimated about $100,000,000 will be needed for current payments to the railroads under the revolving fund and other sections of the transportation act, already adjusted.

The remaining $50,000,000, plus the treasury's cash on hand of some $200,000,000, it was thought, would care for current expenses and any preliminary withdrawals on account the corporation might make, if its powers are broadened by Congress; while at the same time clearing the way for what financing the treasury may have to do, should the corporation call for its total balance of nearly $400,000,000 to use in making advances to the railroads.

In view of the August 1 issue of certificates, another issue on August 15 was held unlikely, though an offering of the new short term notes on September 1 was expected.

Application for a government loan of $15,000,000 made late yesterday through the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Great Northern railway is the first entered based on the assumption that plans are shaping for railroad refunding operations. The road would use the money to repay a similar loan obtained from the government at the close of federal control. The application alleged that in settling accounts with the road, the director-general of railroads withheld $16,-997,612.

JUDGE GARY TALKS OF LABOR AND WAGES.

In connection with the declaration of dividends and issuance of the United States Steel Corporation's quarterly report yesterday, Judge Gary, at the conclusion of the procedure, issued a statement received here late yesterday which said in part:

We have been paying somewhat higher wages than many other basic lines of industry. We think reduction in these rates should follow, rather than lead, selling prices, particularly those involving the cost of living, which in some respects is still unreasonable.

This is being surely, if slowly, forced down to a fair basis by the withholding of purchases by consumers.

Up to the present, we believe wage earners generally have not been paid too much.

Just at present there are many reasons for believing our conditions are improving, even though we may not as yet have experienced to a large extent, the good results. Readjustments were necessary, and they have been and are, progressing with beneficial effect.

UNITED DRUG DROP INVOLVES PRESIDENT.

The announcement that the personal assets of Louis K. Liggett, president of the United Drug company, has been placed in the hands of trustees as a result of the decline of common stock of the United Drug company in the last twenty-four hours, was made from Boston today. A 20-point drop in United Drug shares was made on the New York Stock Exchange today. The stock started lower and continued weak until after noon, when it shot down to 54, off 30¾ for the day and nearly 30 points for the last two days.

The following statement by F. C. Snow of the law firm of Gaston, Snow, Saltonstall & Shunt, was issued:

Owing to the decline in the market value of the United Drug Co. common stock in the last 24 hours, Louis K. Liggett has transferred his assets to Frederic C. Dumine, Frank W. Remick and Neale Hantoul, as trustees for the protection of his creditors The personal affairs of Mr. Liggett alone are involved.

UNITED KINGDOM HEAVY SUGAR BUYER.

The United Kingdom has bought 10,000 tons or about 70,000 bags of Cuban Sugar for August shipment at 20 shillings six pence c. i. f. equal to about 2.89 cents a pound f. o. b. Cuba, an advance of about 14 points from the previous f. o. b. sales, it was announced today from New York.

Heaviness of Cuba Cane Sugar, common, today followed announcement that bankers have practically agreed to renew the $18,000,000 acceptance credits maturing on August 1 and 17. While not all of the interested bankers have consented it is understood that about $16,000,000 has been pledged and by the time these bills are due all will probably have agreed.

EQUPMENTS IN SHARP DECLINE UNDER ASSAULT

Drug Break Also Feature of Day in New York Stock Trading.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Acute weakness in United Drug shares, which early had lost 7¾, marked first dealings in today's stock market.

Among the more popular issues advances predominated. United States Steel gained a fraction and Baldwin Locomotive, American Wool and United Retail Stores were firm. Bethlehem Steel, Studebaker and Central Leather were inclined to ease. Foreign exchange was little altered, save for a sharp break in the Italian rate.

United Drug increased its loss to 8¾ points before supporting orders brought against a feeble rally. Pressure was directed against Central Leather, common and preferred, Sears-Roebuck, General Electric, United Fruit, Famous Players, American Sugar and American Tobacco, at extreme losses of 1 to 2½ points. Popular steels and equipments were firm. High grade oils held their ground but some of the cheaper domestic issues eased. Call money opened at 5 per cent, the lowest initial rate of the week.

During the intermediate session United Drug dropped to 54, an extreme decline of 20¼ points, later rallying to 60. Some of the food and miscellaneous specialties were heavy, but standard rails, oils and industrials including United States Steel added to their advances of the morning.

Strong pressure developed against rail equipments toward the closing hour.

Leaders forfeited part of their gains later, although call money dropped to 4½ per cent Obscure specialties, including American Car and Pressed Steel Car developed further weakness. The closing was irregular. Sales were 380,900 shares.

NEW YORK SUN REVIEW.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The New York Evening Sun financial review today said:

A strong undertone developed in today's stock market following a brief reaction from higher levels at the opening. Strength in the steel groups as a direct result of a materially better showing in the report of the United States Steel Corporation. United Drug shares dropped more than five points at the opening and did not stop until they touched bottom at 54 at midday.

The significant thing about it all was that the list was not at all unsettled, save for some of the specialties like Famous Players, Central Leather, Sears-Roebuck, Pullman and Pressed Steel Car. On the other hand United Steel, Baldwin Locomotive, General Asphalt, Kelly-Springfield were strong and the General Asphalt, Kelly-Springfield, Railway Steel Spring, American Telephone and Telegraph and others were strong and the general list firm to strong, although trading was quiet at all times.

Railroad shares gave a very good account of themselves, although there was no great initiative in that quarter. The president's recommendations in his message to Congress had already been discounted.

PACIFIC FOOD PRICES AND WORLD'S COMMERCE

PEAR CANNING AND DRYING IS PUT UNDER WAY

Contra Costa Crop Clean-Up At High Price; Weak Trade Today.

There are practically no good pears remaining unsold of the Contra Costa crop, it has become known in the market today. As a result canners and dryers who have not been forethoughted are seeking elsewhere for fruit with small prospect of any large supply.

Two companies, according to information, went through the county offering $75 a ton as against the growers' minimum of $65, and took the crop while other canners held back expecting to buy at the growers' price. From the $75 price an allowance for advertising is made of $3.75.

Not only did the buyers bid $10 over the growers' fixed price, but they are accepting No. 1 offerings of 2¼ instead of 2¼ pears as a standard.

In the local market today No. 1 pears in boxes brought from $3.25 to $3.50. There were a considerable number of poor grade seconds.

Oakland's produce market was poorly supported today, trade being slow and supplies in most lines large. Garden products, however, commanded generally improved prices. Peas and beans both were selling up to 12 cents. Extensive deliveries of lima beans now are coming into market, being offered at 6 and 8 cents by most houses.

Tomato prices continued to recede today. Stockton offerings in lugs selling as low as $4 against $7 of last Saturday. The average price today, however, was about $4.50 to $4.75. The garnering of the crop is proceeding faster now and there will be ample offerings at lower prices in a few days, dealers said.

Cucumbers now are coming in in heavy quantity and sold down to $1 a box today. Green peppers have dropped about 5 cents on most sales in the last few days, while other offerings are about steady. There is plenty of green corn and cream squash are coming in more plentifully now. Summer squash have practically glutted the market for several days.

For the first time this year there was a glut in the peach market today and offerings of first grade peaches sold off sharply. Baskets were to be had down to $1 and boxes were only a little more than $2.

PUBLIC HOLDING IN RAILWAYS SET AT 16 BILLIONS

Investment of Rail Earnings in Improvement Held 20 Billion More.

By HOLLAND.
EXCLUSIVE TO OAKLAND TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, July 27.—Elisha Lee, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, estimates that the public has invested $16,000,000,000 in American railway properties. It is no wonder, therefore, that the public feels vitally interested in the railway situation and earnestly hopes that the recent undertaking to fund some of the railroad obligations to the government will be successful.

Nine and one-half billions of the total capitalization of the American railroads are represented by bonds. Six and one-half billions are represented by capital stock. The owners of the American railroads have, therefore, nearly $7,000,000,000 of equity. But this is not all. The railways of the United States have, out of their own earnings and fresh capital, invested approximately $20,000,000,000 in these properties. This money was taken out of earnings before dividend payments were made. It was used for equipment, for improvements for the enlarging of terminal facilities. Therefore the railroads of the United States, as a whole, have out of earnings put approximately $4,000,000,000 more into the properties than the combined bond and stock capitalization. If the comparison is made with bonds then these railroads represent investment taken out of earnings more than twice the face value of the bonds.

WISE INVESTMENT.

The ablest railway constructive forces in the United States always looked upon it as a wise investment of some part of the earnings, if they were turned back into the property. In the early days of railroad development when Commodore Vanderbilt was recognized as the leader, he set the example of putting some parts of the earnings back into the properties. This was the policy followed by President Thompson of the Pennsylvania. He was the first to equip a railroad of the United States with steel rails, an dit has always been the assumption that payment for steel rails, and it has always been ings.

E. H. Harriman always favored putting some part of the earnings back into the railroad properties. He was assured that this was a wise investment, for it not only increased the value of the properties but was certain to increase profitable traffic.

The Big Four Railroad, some years ago, put back into the properties a large slice of the earnings and the value was recognized in the appreciated market value of the stock. Perhaps the best example of the success which follows utilization of a part and at times of all of the net earnings was furnished by the Lake Shore Railroad. Many millions were put into improvements. Grades were eliminated as far as possible and long tangents obtained. The road bed became a model. And so great was the improvement in this property, due largely to the placing of earnings into the properties, that in the early years of the present century it was found possible to finance the securities on the basis of 3½ per cent.

COST TWENTY BILLIONS.

The railroads of the United States therefore at the time the government took them over, represented an expenditure of $20,000,000,000 in improving and as far as possible perfecting the various systems. But the bonded indebtedness of the American railroads as a whole is a little under $10,000,000,000. Therefore the railways of the United States are mortgaged, for only one-half of the total cost of improvement. Of course it should be borne in mind that some of the funds obtained by the sale of bonds and stock also represent railroad improvement.

Lee calls attention to the fact that it is a rather coincidence that the amount of the funded debt and the book cost of the American railroads corresponds with the estimate made by those who lend money upon mortgage of real estate to what constitutes a high grade first mortgage.

WATERED STOCK.

Some years ago a statement was made publicly that a large amount of the capital stock of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company was pure water. So also charges have been made that other railroad stock was watered. One of the first of these accusations was hurled at Commodore Vanderbilt at the time when he caused a stock dividend, equivalent to the capital stock, to be declared. So it was frequently said that the New York Central system contained at least 50 per cent of water in its capital stock. But excellent demonstration was made of the reasons why a dividend of this kind was declared.

The New York Central system had been greatly improved. Many millions had been taken out of earnings to perfect the property. Commodore Vanderbilt for a long time would not permit any bonds to be issued. He thought that the earnings would be sufficient to provide for improvement and perfect upkeep and also for the payment of a reasonable dividend.

It is the impression of railway managers that when the physical valution of the railway properties of the United States is completed, then the Interstate Commerce Commission will have before it figures which will show that on the whole the railways of the United States are in possession of properties whose value is far in excess of their capitalization.

LABOR MAN'S CLAIM.

In one of the hearings before the United States Railway Labor Board, a very astute representative of the labor organizations furnished figures which seemed to show that about $500,000,000 of the securities issued by the American railroads was over capitalization or water. It was easy to prove that this statement was unfounded, but even had it been true it would have represented only 5 per cent of the net capitalization.

Lee says that railway managers who have studied this question are able to furnish evidence which can not be gainsaid that instead of watered capital the aggregate capitalization of the American railroads is below the actual money value of its properties.

Railroad capitalization and the costs which upkeep and improvement of the properties have entailed are in excess of our war debt by several billions. Therefore it is easy to understand why not only railway managers but the investing public are anxious that some satisfactory agreement shall be reached by the government whereby the railroads may be placed in position to lighten their burdens and prepare for the great traffic which, within a few years, will be offered to them.

ALONG the WATERFRONT

With 2070 tons of coal consigned to the Rolph Navigation and Coal Company, the motor schooner La Merced arrived here from New Castle, Australia, yesterday, making the voyage in sixty days.

Captain Johnson reports that on July 27 in latitude 36 45 north, and longitude 134.53 west, he sighted a Japanese steamer headed for this port. Her name could not be made out. Fine weather was reported all the journey.

The barkentine Hawaii is also loading Australian coal, when she will take to Honolulu. In former years almost every American sailing vessel that went to Australia from the Pacific coast took a cargo of coal from New Castle to this port or Honolulu, but of late years the practice has been done away with to a great extent.

The steamer West Henshaw was aground at Manila Harbor, and when floated it was found that she was leaking. She is now proceeding to Hongkong with a cargo of general freight from this port for the Orient via Honolulu and Manila. She is owned by the United States Shipping Board.

The barkentine Alicia Harriside, which put into this port June 28 for a supply of fresh provisions and sailed for Puget Count the same day, has not yet made her appearance on the Sound, nor has any vessel reported her. She is in ballast and en route north for a lumber cargo. For a vessel of her class she should have made the voyage to the Sound within ten days and is now almost three weeks overdue. As the vessel's bottom is foul on account of being in a warm climate for a long time, this may have been the means of causing slow sailing and for several weeks northwest wind has prevailed along the coast, which would hold the big craft back.

She is owned by W. L. Comyn & Co., of this port, and was built for the government during the war, intending her for a steamer, but the hull was sold and converted into a wind jammer.

Another large fleet of coastwise lumber steamers left here yesterday and today the steamer Daisy will lead out for the north. The steamer Tahoe, which was tied up at the Liberty Yard East Oakland, was towed to the drydock of the Union Iron Works, Alameda, where she will get ready for service. Before the end of this week all of the lumber fleet will be operating.

The Public Evening Navigation School will open for the fall term at 7:15 p. m. Monday, August 1, when a new class will be enrolled in the class rooms in the Ferry Building. There are other classes in various stages of the work, so that there is opportunity also for those who have already had some experience in the study. The school is operated by the Board of Education of the City of San Francisco and is absolutely free. All those who wish to avail themselves of this chance to obtain a thorough practical knowledge of navigation should present themselves promptly for enrollment.

The steamer Santa Inez has finished unloading her ore cargo at Tacoma, and went on drydock for cleaning and painting. She will then load lumber on Puget Sound and take a deckload of cedar poles to California, under charter to J. H. Baxter. The Santa Inez was formerly used in the South American trade on the west coast by W. R. Grace & Company.

The freighter Author is en route to British Columbia from Liverpool and Glasgow with 12,000 tons of cargo, including 6500 cases of Scotch whiskey and will take a return cargo to England, consisting of canned salmon, grain and lumber.

En route to San Pedro from the Columbia River a log raft in tow of the tug Hercules, broke adrift a few miles north of the Golden Gate, but the tug was again on her journey. The log raft contains 7,000,000 feet of lumber and is owned by the Benson Company of Astoria. Captain Charles C. Titchworth is master of the tug Hercules who will tow three more rafts south this season.

Change of masters registered at the United States Custom House:

Captain Henry Nelson, steamer Empire State; Captain T. J. Holland, steamer Merchant; Captain J. A. McDonald, steamer A. F. Luckenbach; Captain H. J. Devitt, steamer Daisy; Captain P. A. McDonald, ship Dunsyre.

"Sure, it's a great compliment the foreman paid me today," boasted Cassidy. "What did he say, Mike?" "He said that I carried more osseus matther above me shoulders than any other man in the works."

"I called for a little light on the financial question," said the man in the rural editor's sanctum. "Well, you've struck the right place," returned the editor. "If there is anything we are light on it is the finances."

"Who wrote 'Paradise Lost?'" asked a teacher at the Horace Mann school. "F. Scott Fitzgerald," came the answer from the star scholar whose hand the pedagogue had recognized.

NUMBER OF IDLE FREIGHT CARS IS BEING CUT DOWN

Mid-West Reports Wheat Saved By Rain; Stocks in South Low.

By A. B. WELTON.

CHICAGO, July 27—Recent rains through the wheat belt were nearly general and the unexpected moisture in the Northwest and Southwest caused the speculators who overbought on anticipations of serious crop damage by drought scurrying to unload.

The fall in values was reflected in the [illegible] which declined $1.10 a barrel while the [illegible] fell off twenty-five cents a barrel.

As a result of more active market in all commodities, the number of idle freight cars reported is being reduced. Shipments of fruit and vegetables through this terminal have been nearly twice as great as those of 1920. Cattle and hog prices have advanced to a point higher than they have been for several months. Yearling cattle shot up to $9.75 a hundred pounds and logs to $10.85. The top prices were last April, when shows were more than twice as large.

A [illegible] of corn in excess [illegible] is small [illegible] position to make corn [illegible] is estimated that not more than 5 cargoes more will be put up.

NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, July 27—Stocks held by retailers and jobbers throughout this territory are at the lowest point in years. A revival in business is certain to bring a rush of orders from every merchant and for practically every line of goods. Certainly as to the price cross will being is the only element needed to bring that business revival.

Bank clearings are improving for the first time since January. Those for this month are expected to make the best showing of the year.

Importation of bananas is at the peak. Importers' prices are about 10 per cent below those of last year and the country is absorbing all shipments readily. This demand for fruit has set improved conditions in the Central American republics that they are becoming large buyers in this market.

BUSINESS TOPICS

FOREIGN CAND DEMAND.
CHICAGO, July 27—Germany has come actively into the provision market and orders for nearly 4,000,000 pounds of lard have been placed for export. England also has been a buyer of lard and this foreign demand has given a decided stimulus to lard futures although there are almost 14,000,000 pounds more on hand than at the same time last year. The supply aggregates more than 117,000,000.

MILL MEN ANTICIPATE.
ROUALUSA, La., July 27.—Estimates that $2,000,000,000 of new building contracts throughout the country are ready to be awarded as soon as labor disputes are adjusted and that another $2,500,000,000 in building operations is contemplated before the end of the year has induced several of the largest lumber mills in this section to run full time and a few on double time preparing for orders they expect soon. Mill owners also are informed that no small portion of the $500,000,000 the government is expected to pay to the railroads will be used in purchase of lumber for repair work.

SEA.
NEW YORK, July 27.—Mates on American vessels have agreed to accept a 15 per cent reduction in wages effective August 1 and hereafter masters of American vessels will deal individually with the companies by whom they are employed on the question of salaries paid them. The salaries of captains, it was announced today, will be based on merit, taking into consideration experience, efficiency and service. In many cases the pay of captains will not be reduced at all, and there is a tacit agreement that no reduction of more than 15 per cent will be imposed on masters. The shipping board may later establish specific schedules for the pay of masters of government owned vessels.

COMMODITY NEWS

STEEL.
QUINCY, Mass., July 27.—The Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation has laid off 2500 of its employees at the Fore River plant indefinitely and placed the remaining 1500 men on a part-time schedule. The curtailment was said to be due to reduction in government contracts allotted them.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Word has been received from Germany that inventors at the Krupp works have perfected an alloy known as platinum steel for use in filling teeth in place of gold, platinum and silver.

McKEESPORT, Pa., July 27.—Thirty-six hot mills of the McKeesport Tin Plate Company have resumed operations giving employment to 3000 men.

AUTOMOBILES.
SYRACUSE, July 27.—The Franklin Automobile Company reports that business for the first week of July exceeded that for the first week in June by 34 per cent. June was the seventh largest month in the history of the company, 1920 once being turned out.

NEW YORK, July 27.—A canvass of forty leading automobile dealers here indicates that sales of motor cars for July will outstrip those of June. July is normally a dull month in the motor trade.

LIVE STOCK.
FORT WORTH, July 27.—Some of the old-time optimism has begun to return to the cattlemen of this section who view the recent recommendation to the interstate commerce commission for a reduction in freight rates on live stock as the first step for relief from a situation which they claim has kept cattle out of American markets and deflected them to Mexico.

HIDES.
NEW YORK, July 28.—There has been a sudden demand noted this week for packer hides and many large accumulations have been materially reduced.

FRUIT.
NEW YORK, July 27.—The North American Fruit Exchange will effect its mutualization August 1. After that date, half of all profits more than 10 per cent will be divided equally between the exchange and the co-operatives which it serves.

Cuban Trade Envoys To Visit Washington

HAVANA, July 27.—Provisions for reducing the production of sugar, and for sending a commercial mission to Washington to secure a renewal of the reciprocity treaty between the United States and Cuba, are among nine measures constituting an urgent legislative program drafted yesterday by congressional leaders and President Zayas.

BACCUS FIXES OAKLAND'S TAX RATE AT $2.29

Heavy Slashes Are Made in Demands Issued by the Departments.

The Oakland tax rate is now $2.29, or 15 cents less than last year, Commissioner William J. Baccus of the finance department asserted today that he has cut the department askings to this rate.

The $2.29 rate, says Baccus, is the lowest he can reach and will be his final figure submitted to the council. The latter, says Baccus, must make any further cuts which are found possible. Last year's tax rate was $2.44.

"The new rate," says Baccus, "is based on the actual maintenance needs of the departments, and I do not believe any of them will suffer. Eliminations have been made on suggested improvements which I do not believe the city can afford at this time."

Baccus estimates that $16,819 will be brought into the treasury on each cent of the tax rate. This is based on a total city valuation of $168,918,000 as estimated by City Auditor Harry Williams.

Baccus made his largest cut in the city betterment fund, giving but $107,725 where $1,223,900 was asked.

The following schedule, prepared by Baccus, shows how certain department estimates were cut:

	Allowed.	Asked.
Police	$325,000	$ 988,000
Health	110,000	192,785
Fire	825,000	907,911
Street lights	184,000	184,000
Streets	480,000	526,670
Public betterment	107,725	1,223,900
Lake Merritt dev't	50,000	50,000
Harbor	250,670	475,000
Park	145,000	264,500
Playground	135,000	183,000
Schools	247,120	457,250

Of the $2.29 tax rate, 37 cents will be devoted to the regular interest on bonded indebtedness, leaving but $1.92 to be devoted to the city's current expenses.

In preparing the budget estimate, Baccus was assisted by Ralph York of the street department, and Harold Weber, secretary to the mayor. These figures will be submitted to the city council as soon as possible.

The making of the budget is one of the last official acts of Baccus as head of the finance department, as he takes charge of the street department August 1.

The total amount of the Oakland city budget, computed at the $2.29 city rate, is $4,422,518.29, of which $577,814 goes to bond interest and redemption, leaving $3,844,704 to conduct the business of the city.

The various departments had asked $6,196,360.79. The askings were cut down nearly one-third.

Last year the city received $4,749,-956.84, including bond interest and redemption.

Wife Victor in Fight With Former Spouse

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—George Ingle's anxiety to pay a visit to his divorced wife, Olga, was responsible for his carrying painful bruises and being locked up for battery early today. Ingle, an iron worker, of 4186 Army street, went to Mrs. Ingle's home, 1380 McAllister street. He could not get in, so is alleged to have smashed a window. Making his way through the house he met Mrs. Ingle and there wts a quarrel and a struggle. In a few moments he came out through the jagged glass of the shattered pane. His scalp was badly lacerated and Patrolman O'Leary, who found him, after taking him to the Emergency Hospital, booked him at the Bush street station.

Former Alameda Social Leader Sues for Divorce in Nevada

MRS. FERN W. ABERNETHY, former Alameda social leader who is suing her army officer husband, Robert Abernethy, for divorce in Reno.

Mrs. Robert Abernethy Says Her Husband Refuses to Live With Her and Is Abusive in Language.

Mrs. Fern W. Abernethy today has before the superior court at Reno her divorce action in which she asks for a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony between her and Robert Abernethy, former overseas major.

The couple were married in Alameda in 1902 and Mrs. Abernethy declares that since that time, though she has tried her utmost to be a faithful and loving wife, her husband has spurned her attentions since 1914, Mrs. Abernethy before her marriage was Fern W. Wheeler, daughter of Robert S. Wheeler of 7555 Geary street, San Francisco.

When her husband returned from France in 1918 after spending a year abroad in the service she went to meet him, she says in her complaint, but declares he told her he did not care whether he saw her or not and would not stay with her at the hotel.

Later while in New York he was injured and was in a hospital there and she went to see him, she recites, and he told her to go away and not come back, telling her she had no sense or brains.

JOINT MEETING OF BOOSTERS TO BE HELD IN S. F.

Plan to Co-ordinate Alameda Campaign and B. B. Movement.

As a means of co-ordinating the national advertising campaign, contemplated by the Alameda county advertising committee and the B-B organization leaders, a joint meeting of Alameda county and San Francisco advertising boosters, will be held in the Merchants' Exchange on August 5. Invitations were sent out today to the B-B leaders in San Francisco and to all county organizations interested in the national advertising campaign.

The announcement of the meeting was made by J. C. Downey, chairman of the Alameda county committee, under whose direction the meeting will be held. The program has been placed in the hands of Harry G. Williams. The invitations are being sent to every fraternal, civic and business organization in the county.

Petitions, requesting the supervisors and the city council to make the requested appropriations, are being signed today. The petitions urge the county to set aside $25,000 and the city $10,500, the rest of the $50,000 fund to be raised by contribution.

Several Oakland organizations have endorsed the advertising plan. The Uptown association, whose secretary, George Sheldon, recently protested the appropriation before the supervisors, has withdrawn the protest and emphatically gone on record as in favor of the plan. At a meeting of the association last Friday the directors asked Sheldon to withdraw the protest and endorse the request of the Alameda county advertising committee. J. H. MacLafferty of the association was appointed a committee of one to appear with representations of other organizations before the county officials and request the appropriation, all of which is to be spent on advertising, and none to go for salaries.

Papier Mache Lion On Way Back Home

The huge papier mache lion, sent to Oakland in advance of the convention of the International association of Lions' Clubs, which ended last week, is on its way to Dayton, O., consigned to E. W. Jurgens, manager of the Hotel Oakland, received the lion and had it placed in the basement for safekeeping.

Yesterday he remembered where the lion had been placed and today it was expressed back to its original habitat. Vigorous search was made during the convention for the missing animal.

SECRETARIES TO EX-COUNCILMEN PROTEST LAY-OFF

Civil Service Board Promises That Copies of Dismissal Will Be Sent Men.

Demanding to know what charges were laid against them when they were discharged from office, Ben Jones and Henry Henken, former secretaries to the late Commissioners Morse and Soderberg, were finally told by the civil service board last night that copies of the orders of dismissal will be sent them, and they may appear next week to argue the case further if they so desire.

Commissioner Frank Colbourn reiterated that Jones was not dismissed but laid off. He repeated that Jones was laid off in the interests of economy. The order of Jones' lay-off was then read.

"That's the first I ever heard of it," said Jones.

"I would like to know the reason why I was laid off," said Henken.

"These experienced secretaries do not need a reason," said Colbourn. "They understand the authority perfectly."

"I am not questioning the authority," said Jones, "but I would like to know what I am defending myself against."

"You're not defending yourself against anything," said Colbourn. "This is a lay-off. A hundred or so city employees are laid off every year when the reason for their employment ceases."

"I consider this a technical discharge," said Henken.

The civil service board laid the matter over for one week.

The communication of Acting City Attorney Leon Gray, saying the old board members cannot now render any decision in the Petersen case, was filed for future discussion. Gray said that the new board may either re-take the testimony or study the notes of the old case.

"We will have to take some definite decision as to our course very soon," said Chairman John Chambers.

Chambers pointed out that a transcript of testimony may cost $2500 and this expense will be avoided if possible.

Soldier Hurt in Auto, Cycle Crash

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—In a collision between a motorcycle and an automobile at Chestnut and Webster streets this afternoon, Thomas Brattain, 42 years old, a soldier attached to Fort Mason, was seriously, perhaps fatally, injured.

Brattain was riding a motorcycle which had a side car attachment. He was driving behind Jeremiah Lenergan, 372 Twenty-sixth avenue, who was proceeding west in his automobile. Lenergan turned suddenly into Webster street from Chestnut and Brattain, unable to stop, crashed into the rear of the car.

He was thrown high in the air and struck the pavement on his head. He was conveyed in an unconscious condition to Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio.

In England there are registered a total of 600,000 women and girls who work only one or two days a week.

City Plaza to Have a New Floral Dress

A complete new floral design for the city hall plaza, with three circles on the corners of the triangular plot and three squares connecting the circles, was approved yesterday by the board of park directors and Superintendent of Parks Lee Kerfoot will immediately start work on the transformation.

The floral decorations for the plaza this year will include primroses, calendulas, narcissus, daffodills, nasturtiums, petunias, snapdragons and stock. Around these designs will be a border of rose bushes completely bounding the triangular plot.

Director Sanborn and Kerfoot were authorized by the board to look into a proposed auto camp a half mile above the Joaquin Miller tract, at the suggestion of Harold French. A report will be made at the next meeting.

Decision was made to plant Elmhurst plaza November 1.

Kerfoot was authorized to appear before the city and county charter committee and urge that the Lakeside park properties and buildings remain under the jurisdiction of the park board and not under a combined city and county ownership.

Sharon, Assistant manager and engineer of the Spring Valley Water Company, will present the first paper, describing the entire system and engineering accomplishments of the Spring Valley Water Company. Colonel R. E. Child will then bring out some of the military considerations connected with the city's water supply.

Next Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, members of the San Francisco Post and other military and civil engineers who are interested will assemble at the Spring Valley Water Company's offices at 8 o'clock for the second instalment of the Post's inspection trip over the company's property.

Big Modesto Store Damaged by Fire

MODESTO, Cal., July 27.—Fire, starting early today in the basement of the Priester ladies' furnishing store, one of the largest stores of Modesto, caused probably total loss in that department. The loss was caused by water as much as by fire.

The flames were brought under control before they could leave the basement and there was no other damage, except that caused by smoke.

The cause of the fire and the amount of the damage have not been learned.

ALAMEDANS GIVE VIEWS AGAINST S. P. CURTAILMENT

Company Witnesses Declare Service Is Causing a Huge Loss.

Additional reasons why the Southern Pacific Company should not affect a curtailment of certain train and ferry service between Alameda or Berkeley and San Francisco, will be presented, along with the railroad's side of the case, when the hearing reopens before the State Railroad Commission next Monday morning, following a continuance granted by Commissioner Irving Martin, before whom the case was heard yesterday in San Francisco.

The session was devoted almost entirely to the Alameda side of the question and several residents of that city appeared before the commissioner and testified regarding the Southern Pacific Alameda-San Francisco service, declaring that it should not be discontinued.

The Southern Pacific Company, through its assistant auditor, Robert Adams, and F. L. Burkhalter, assistant general manager, argued in behalf of the petition on the ground that severe losses are being sustained in the operation of these lines.

"There are three avenues of escape open to the company," Burkhalter said. "We must either curtail service, reduce wages or increase rates. We are starting by trimming the fringes in asking the curtailment of service." In the operation of the interurban electric lines and ferry boat systems, Adams said the company last year sustained a loss of $700,000 and for the first five months of 1921 it lost $170,000.

The properties involved in this deficit, Adams said, are worth $25,000,000 and the company is entitled to a revenue of 6 per cent on the investment. On this computation, he held that the company actually lost $2,000,000 in 1920 on its San Francisco bay interurban service.
